WOMAN AND HER HOME.

COMFORT AND BEAUTY.

IT is surprising how difficult it is to get comfortable clothes. "Il faut souffrir pour etre beau" is a saying that continually comes to one's mind—the first half particularly—for one has so often to suffer without being beautiful.

One has to wear hats—especially the unshingled—that press on one's head like bands of wire, and one has to wear shoes with ridges and seams on them, that show that they were never meant to be worn on one's feet. One concludes, on examining their pleasant appearance, that they are meant to be worn as ornaments round one's neck, for as coverings for the feet they were never, never intended. There is the dress that is continually slipping at the shoulders, and in which one must make bounds into the air at intervals if one wishes to keep it adjusted, and there is the corset with "composition" bones that break off in some subtle and invisible manner within the material and contrive to inflict real wounds with blood here and there on the waists of the unfortunate wearers. One suffers, in very truth, and one is rendered ugly by these sufferings.

At the moment it is the shoes and the hats. The hats are in a conspiracy against the unshingled, and especially those who do their hair in plaits over their ears. These belong to the heroic class—that is, if they have more than three hairs on either side. After a time the hairpins by some strange magnetism converge to a point in the middle of the plaits. At that point they pierce the ear. Some of them, however, do not actually reach it, but merely rub it with their sharp edges. So that the instrument of torture may be complete a very tight hat is pressed down on to the ears. Those hairpins that only rubbed it now pierce it, and the hairpins that were piercing it now go right through. If the process continued the ears would inevitably hang in ribbons from the head!

Then the shoes. For thirty shillings one should be able to buy a pair of ordinary comfortable shoes! But no! I bought a pair at this figure. They fitted well and looked well. They felt all right, too—in the shop. Leaving it, after half a day's wear, my feet were covered with blisters. On bringing them back I was told that really comfortable shoes were hand-sewn. They begin at three guineas. I mildly pointed out that years ago I had bought patent shoes lined with white kid and as gentle and pliant as gloves for a great deal less. That was abroad. I hastily stopped, remembering that here all clothes possible are manufactured, and there all the clothes possible are made. So we must suffer more and be less beautiful. With one exception, as far as the comfort goes—the shingled and the Etonly cropped.

But are they beautiful?

THE WINTER WINDOW-BOX.

THE flower-lover's summer is over. Gone the fine nosegays which Eleanour Sinclair Rhode tells us, in her delightful book on "the Old English Garden," Levimus Leminius found so pleasant a feature of English life in the sixteenth century—"Their chambers and parlours, strewed over with sweet herbes, refreshed me; their nosegays, finely intermingled with sundry sortes of fragraunte floures, in their chambers and privy rooms, with comfortable smell, cheered me up and entirely delyghted all my senses." Gone for the nonce now.

The window-box! Oh, it can be quite easily the most captivating of miniature gardens. The Mexican orange, hardy, fragrant and bright; and if the full brilliance is desired—a jazz effect, but somewhat bewitching—peacock-hued curtains at the windows.

The pot-flowering veronicas, the pink variety, and soft, powder-blue curtains, or a deeper shade of pink than the little flower.

Potted early, the lovely colours of the hyacinths may make a pleasant haunt for cheerful musings before Christmas comes in sight. And a garden in flower up to the time the lilac beckons us away to broader lands.

And if we decide on the hyacinth window-box, the window itself may wear a new frock according to each flower fancy.

For very slight expenditure of trouble we may look out on our morning world through the medium of something fine and something fair.

Given the right kind of box, with proper ventilations, it is astonishing how many unthought of flowers will take kindly to their winter abode.

One of the most fascinating indoor gardens was once made out of a deep wooden box, partly zinc-lined. In this garden, shortly after December, lilies of the valley and violets and primroses kept their own sweet time, and the delicate Salvator Rosa tulip and early daffodil. Tiny paths divided the flower ground, and a lovely dwarf almond from Taormina reigned in the centre.

Looking on that almond in flower, one heard the music of spring by the blue Sicilian sea.

The whole plan and work of a bedridden invalid, whose larger garden was a Bloomsbury square, whose music was the pigeon's coo.

"THE UNFORTUNATE DOCUMENT."

DR. MANNIX DENOUNCES THE TREATY.

Speaking at a public demonstration in Tralee yesterday, Archbishop Mannix said that although he had welcomes in many parts of Ireland south of the sectarian border run by the British Government, he had never obtained a more enthusiastic reception than that which had been extended to him in Tralee. He knew that during his short stay in his native land he could only come into touch with very few centres, but from the beginning, and now, he thought that he would have missed a splendid opportunity if he did not meet the men and women of Kerry on their own ground. (Applause.)

When he came to Ireland five years ago there were people who thought that, because of what he had said and done, he should be allowed to creep into the country unknown and unnoticed, and that the reception extended to him then should not be given to him now. Things had changed since then, but he stood where he stood five years ago, and the enemies of Ireland now stood where they always stood. Everywhere that he had gone he had harped on the one word, "Peace," peace between Irishmen, all who were calling themselves Irishmen.

THE VALUE OF THE TREATY.

Dealing with the Treaty, which he described as the unfortunate document which divided Ireland, he said that if he had any difficulty about the value of it when thirteen thousand miles away, he would have been greatly assisted in deciding when the wires were set going to find that every enemy that Ireland had was on the side of that Treaty. That was a great and conclusive argument against the Treaty, which set him thinking. If people thought that he had changed his mind since he came to Ireland, they were mistaken. He came to Ireland unchanged and unchangeable.

Certain politicians accepted the Treaty as a stepping-stone to greater things, but now those people had come to the conclusion that it was worse than they ever thought it was. He declared that the Treaty was leading them to political, national, and economic ruin. The rank and file of the Irish people did not support the Treaty. But he did not say that these people were going to return the Republicans to power, because one may fall out with one man without falling in with another. His mission was a mission of peace and reconciliation, but he found that Britishism, Imperialism and Freemasonry were stronger in Ireland to-day than they ever were. (Applause.)

THE RECENT ELECTIONS.

Referring to the Senate elections, Dr. Mannix said that, while he did not claim that the seventy or eighty per cent. of the people who did not think it worth their while to cross the road to vote were Republicans, those who did go to the polls were the friends of the Free State Government, and the result of their votes was that at the head of the poll they returned a General of the British Army, and put the supporters of the Irish language at the bottom.

He expressed deep regret at the civil war, and said that when Irishmen turned their arms against one another they were doing England's work. The unfortunate dissension between Irishmen was fomented by British politicians. He asked all to forgive and forget the crimes and the past. If they could get Irishmen to unite again, as they did in the days of conscription, his firm conviction was that, without the shedding of one drop of Irish blood, or any other blood, Ireland would get all that she was looking for, and all to which she was entitled.

NEW IRISH LIGHTSHIP

LAUNCHED AT LEITH.

Messrs. Henry Robb, Ltd., have launched from their Victoria shipyard, West Pier, Leith, an iron lightship named the Albatross, built to the order of the Commissioners of Irish Lights. The new vessel was designed by Mr. George Idle, M.I.N.A., and is of the most modern type. Her dimensions are as follows:—Length on waterline, 102 feet; breadth (moulded), 24 feet 3 inches; depth (moulded), 13 feet 4 inches. She will be fitted with an incandescent flashlight of, approximately, 30,000 candle-power, from the design of Mr. C. W. Scott, engineer-in-chief to the Commissioners, and the lights will be placed in a lantern tower, also designed by Mr. Scott. The lantern mast is of very strong construction, and the rigging is of a special nature.

With a view to provide lightships with the steadiest possible light, Mr. Idle has made a special study of bilge keels, and the vessel is supplied with unusually large bilge keels of the type of his design. The anchoring arrangements are another special feature of the Albatross. The fog-horn, which has a range of about twenty miles, is fitted in a special diaphone house, and, like all the later lightships built for the Irish Lights Commissioners, the Albatross will be fitted with firing jibs for explosive fog signals, instead of the small cannon formerly used. The equipment of the vessel will also include submarine signalling and a wireless installation.

ARKLOW AS A FISHING PORT.

GOVERNMENT ACTION DEMANDED.

At a meeting of the Arklow Branch of the Irish Fishermen's Association, which was attended by close on two hundred fishermen and a number of townspeople, the Very Rev. Canon Breen, P.P., presided.

The General Secretary, Mr. P. J. Tuohy, briefly outlined the progress of the Association since its re-organisation last July.

Mr. L. O'Toole, in proposing the first resolution—"That Arklow, as the premier deep-sea fishing port of Ireland, was entitled to a substantial share of the £39,000 down in this year's Estimates for fishery development"—said that this sum, collected from the Irish people, was ear-marked for fishery development, and should be devoted to that purpose. Compared with the English and Scottish fishermen, the Arklow men were very poorly equipped. They had got practically no help from the Government in Arklow, as the conditions under which loans for boats or gear may now be obtained were simply impossible. Those who sought to impose these conditions on the fishermen were actually helping to kill an industry that they were employed and paid to foster and protect.

Mr. Richard O'Toole, skipper, seconding the resolution, which was passed, said that of the £39,000 down in the Estimates not even £100 had been made available, as far as he knew, for Arklow fishermen.

Mr. T. O'Rafferty proposed the second resolution—"That the present perilous condition of the Arklow dock, due to its partial collapse, calls for immediate attention, and that the meeting demands that the Minister for Fisheries take immediate steps to have the damage repaired." He said that it was a scandal that the dock should be allowed to remain in its present dangerous condition—a menace to the safety of both men and boats. The Minister should himself come down and have a look at the dock.

In seconding the resolution, Mr. Arthur Brennan declared that it could not be said of the Arklow fishermen that they did not do their best with the facilities available. These, however, were quite inadequate, and it should be perfectly obvious to everyone present that ruin was facing the town if the Government failed to do their duty by the fishermen.

The Rev. E. McSweeney, C.C., in speaking to the resolution, said that a short time ago a deputation representing the town as a whole waited on the Minister for Finance in connection with the dock. Mr. Blythe then stated that he considered Arklow as the most important port in Ireland for the development of sea fishing, and that if fishing was to come to anything he looked to Arklow as the pivot of the development. A little later, however, they were told that the Government had no funds to repair the Arklow dock, or, in other words, that it was decided to allow the harbour to fall into ruin. They gave as an excuse that the harbour was not paying. Well, if the Government took this as their criterion, they had better begin with themselves, having failed to balance their own Budget.

The resolution was passed unanimously.

Mr. Myles Doyle proposed a resolution which referred to revaluation of boats, rebates on instalments due, and amendment of conditions under which loans may be obtained by fishermen should be speedily carried into effect by the Government. If the fishermen, he said, were not equipped to catch and market fish it was impossible for them to meet the instalments that might be owing by them.

Mr. James Hickey, skipper, seconded the resolution, which was passed.

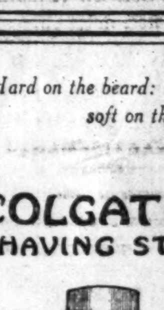

THE LATE CANON RYAN, P.P.

FUNERAL CEREMONIES.

The funeral of the late Very Rev. Cornelius Canon Ryan, D.D., Parish Priest of Dolphin's Barn, Dublin, took place at Glasnevin, after Requiem Mass at the Church of Our Lady of Dolours. Archbishop Byrne presided at the religious ceremonies, and there was a large attendance of the clergy. The chief mourners were the Rev. Daniel Ryan, P.P., Cullenswood; the Rev. P. Ryan, and Mr. John Ryan (brothers), and the Rev. Mother Borgia (sister).

The Paris newspapers publish telegrams from Beirut, reporting that sums of money have been seized, which had been sent out by Communist organisations to help the Druses against the French.

Installation of mechanical and time-saving appliances in public washhouses and baths is proposed by the London County Council.

BRUTAL ASSAULT ON WESTERN PEASANT RECALLED.

At Clifden Circuit Court a shocking story of brutality was unfolded when a Connemara peasant, Peter Naughton, of Ardmore, sued four of his neighbours—Pat O'Donnell, Michael O'Donnell, Peter Kiely and Pat Folon—for £250 damages for injuries inflicted on him.

The assault was committed in 1923, and the defendants were sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment.

Mrs. Naughton told how the defendants called at her house and asked out her husband, who was in bed, to assist a drunken man. When he went out they attacked him with sticks and an iron bar and beat him into unconsciousness. Thinking that they had killed him, they put him under a stone wall and built stones over him, leaving him there for dead.

Mrs. Naughton called for assistance, but the neighbours were afraid to go for the doctor till daylight. The injured man was for three weeks at death's door. He was delicate since, and could do no heavy work.

Pat O'Donnell, who described himself as an ex-member of the Chicago Police Force, although convicted, persisted in a denial of the assault. They were all drunk with poteen and did not know what they were doing.

Judge Wyse Power gave a decree for £100.

CHURCH NOTES.

After being closed for a hundred years, the Church of St. Mary-in-Arden, Market Harborough, Leicestershire, has now been re-opened. This church became so notorious for secret marriages that it was rarely opened. Another interesting incident connected with it is that hymns have always been sung at Easter over the grave of a man named Hobbard, so as to perpetuate his memory, the choir boys receiving fees from a fund left by him for this purpose.

In the course of a lecture given by the Rev. T. P. Stevens, Vicar of St. Matthew's, New Kent road, London, on the "History and Architecture of Southwark Cathedral," the Vicar stated that when people have any records of historic value they ought to leave them to a museum or public institution. He was deploring the disappearance of some pictures and a book of Press cuttings which would have thrown light on the history of the Cathedral during a time about which almost nothing was known, and which would have shown the building with the sixteenth-century flat roof that fell in about 1830. These were the property of an old lady living at Peckham. He called on her and asked for a loan of them, but she refused, and some months later he heard that the lady had died, leaving her effects to be sold at a local auction. He discovered that these unique pictures and books of cuttings had been sold to a man for 1s. 6d., and were probably by now consigned to a bonfire.

During the course of a lecture at Harpenden a few days ago, Sir John Russell told a delightful story of the Prince of Wales. When the Prince was visiting a small town in Canada, where a civic welcome had been arranged, a drunken man staggered up to him and said thickly: "I am first cousin to the Archbishop of York." No one knew quite what to do, but the Prince relieved the situation by replying: "All right, old fellow, I won't tell him!"

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

RISE IN THE NEW YORK EXCHANGE.

There was only a small demand for money, and, as usual on a Saturday, supplies were plentiful. Consequently short loans were offered down to 2½ p.c., after having been 3 p.c. earlier in the day. Old day-to-day money was renewed at 3-3½ p.c. and weekly fixtures at 3 p.c.

	Bank Rate	Discount	Change Oct. 1, 1925
60 days (fine)		3½	3½%
3 months			3½%	Trade	4	4½%
4 months		3½	3½%		4½	4½%
6 months		4	4½%		4½	5%
Loans to brokers day-to-day					3½	3%
for a week						3%
Deposit allowance: Banks at call						2%
Discount houses at call						2%
at notice						2¼%

Business in discounts was negligible, and in the absence of demand rates were maintained, despite the further rise in sterling. Fine three months' bills were generally quoted at 3⅞-3¹⁵⁄₁₆ p.c., while the "hot" Treasuries were offered at 3¹¹⁄₁₆ p.c.

There were no bullion operations at the Bank. In the open market an arrival of the metal from the Cape is expected to-day; meanwhile the price remains at 84s. 11½d. per ounce fine.

Silver was also unchanged at 33⅛d. and 32¹⁵⁄₁₆d. per ounce for spot and forward delivery respectively.

Sterling quoted in American dollars further improved, the rate closing ⅛c. higher at 4.84⅝. In the South American group the Chilean peso was better again, but Rio was not so firm. Among European currencies French francs suffered a further sharp depreciation. At one time the quotation advanced to 117.10, but there was afterwards a recovery to 116.80, still showing an adverse movement to France of over 2½ francs. The Belgian exchange was steady, but lire reacted in our favour to 121⅛, after touching 122⅞. Norwegian and Danish kroner were not so good, but pesetas and Rumanian lei improved. In the Eastern exchanges the Shanghai tael rose ⅛d. to 3s. 2⅞d.

MANCHESTER PROVISIONS AND CATTLE.

(FROM OUR COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

With, perhaps, the exception of cheese and eggs, business in all departments of the provision trade during the past week has been exceptionally flat. Whilst there was more movement in bacon at the lower prices ruling last week-end, buyers showed some nervousness, and speculative buying might be said to be conspicuous by its absence. Killings in Ireland for the week ending October 8th were reported to show a slight increase, but were scarcely sufficient to have any appreciable effect on the market. Spot demand for this description has been rather variable; advices of killings from Denmark point to rather smaller shipments from that country, and the supply of Dutch is also falling off. Most Continental descriptions were officially reduced this week-end by 5s., lean averages of Irish also being 3s., and fat selections 4s., per cwt. lower. To a certain extent these reductions were by no means unexpected, and it is hoped that the market will now show more stability. American and Canadian easier in sympathy with other cures. In butter buyers are acting very cautiously, and restrict their purchases as much as possible. As a result, prices have weakened—considerably in some instances. There is no doubt that the expected arrival of Colonial, which is shortly due, is influencing the market, although the recent high retail prices have caused consumers to economise, and this is also a factor that cannot be lightly dismissed. Merchants report rather intermittent supplies of Irish creamery butter, and quotations for this class generally rule nominal. What may be described as something of a collapse has taken place in lard, prices of English refined having come down with a run, and are fully 4s. lower as compared with the beginning of the week, and a corresponding reduction has also taken place in imports. Eggs meet with a steady demand, and a sharp advance is recorded for certain classes of fresh. The somewhat vexed question of the grading of English new laid eggs is expected to come up for discussion when a joint conference under the auspices of the National Poultry Council and the National Farmers' Union will be held in London on December 9th to consider all questions affecting the marketing of English eggs and poultry.

Owing to the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Cheshire not being reported until late on Monday evening, a fair number of cattle and sheep—numbering, approximately, 1,000 beasts and about 4,000 sheep and lambs—had been penned at Salford in readiness for the opening of the market on the following day. This market being within the fifteen miles' radius, was declared under the Board of Agriculture regulations to be an infected area, and all movement of cattle and sheep was prohibited in consequence. When the standstill order came into effect it was estimated that fully 12,000 sheep and lambs and 1,200 beasts were still at railway sidings, and these could not be moved until necessary permission had been obtained from the authorities. Latest enquiries show that there is little change to note in the position in Manchester and Salford, but it would appear that Salford cattle market will be closed for an indefinite period, as a further reported outbreak at Milnrow, near Rochdale, was confirmed on Friday, and the Ministry of Agriculture have issued a new order which extends the affected area to include Wigan, Preston, Blackpool, and Leigh, and Huddersfield, Halifax and other places in the West Riding of Yorkshire have also been scheduled. At the time of writing the disease has now manifested itself in about fifteen different counties, Wiltshire being the latest addition. At the dead meat market the position was somewhat difficult to gauge. Both home-killed beef and mutton was rather weaker, but pork dearer.

Dead poultry quiet, ... there are complaints that owing to the humid weather large quantities coming from Ireland are arriving in green condition. It is suggested by dealers in the Manchester wholesale market that, if the intestines of the birds were removed before being packed and shipped, they would be less liable to this discolouration. Although there would be a slight loss of weight—perhaps two ounces per bird—the improvement in the condition on arrival at the market would be fully covered by the higher prices obtainable.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

GOLD AND FRANCS.

In spite of heavy gold withdrawals from the Bank of England, conditions have been a little more comfortable in the Money market during the past week. As regards the central institution, however, the situation is practically the same; for, although brokers have repaid the small amounts due in loans, they have, at the same time, sent in some short bills for discount at the official minimum. As a rule, day-to-day money commanded 3¼ to 3½ per cent., but lower rates were accepted for small balances and week-end advances. Discount rates have been well maintained, although a fair demand for bills was reported in view of the improved position of the American exchange. In the foreign exchange market the feature has been a sharp break in French francs owing to knowledge that the new loan has not been a success and that a capital levy may be considered. Saturday's final rate for cheques on Paris was 116.80, which compares with 108.30 a week ago. Sterling appreciated in New York to 4.84⅝ under the influence of gold exports to America. European gold exchanges, apart from that on Holland, have favoured London.

JUTE PRICES SOAR.

The manner in which the price of raw jute has advanced during the past week in the Dundee market has been alarming. The Calcutta mills were reported to be buying heavily, and strong cabled advices raised the level of values to what were each day considered to be prohibitive. But still the advance continued, and spinners were bewildered by the rapidity with which prices soared.

CASH AND CREDIT.

Mr. Frederick Hyde, the joint managing director of the Midland Bank, delivered a very illuminating address before the Manchester and District Bankers' Institute on Friday evening. In view of the attention given to recent gold movements particular interest attaches to his account of the effects of specie imports and exports. A receipt by the Bank of England of £1,000,000, for example, means a corresponding addition to bankers' cash balances, the seller of the gold paying on the notes received into his own bank, which, with the additional cash thus provided, is able to give credit in the form of advances to the extent of £8,000,000. Conversely, a withdrawal of £1,000,000 would involve a corresponding curtailment of credit, as the ability of the banks to lend is regulated by their cash balances, which, as a rule, should be equal to not less than 8 per cent. of their liabilities to depositors. The importance of gold stocks as a basis of credit facilities will thus be understood.

TIN SHARES.

Considering the further sharp advance in the metal to well over £280, it cannot be said that the Tin share market has fully responded, although several features have been in evidence. The trouble is that there is seldom any uniform movement and that one share after another is being singled out for attention. The operations of the various tin trusts are, no doubt, responsible for these irregular movements, especially in view of the smallness of the issued capitals of the various companies (writes The Investors' Chronicle). It must be recognised that most of the shares have now more than doubled their value within little more than a year, and, especially this week, profit-taking on a large scale has had to be absorbed. Even so, the leading Eastern descriptions close at their highest of the week, with Ipohs, Kamuntings, Bangrins and Renong the firmest spots. In Siamese and Malay Tin especially the floating supply is becoming very restricted, and the whole market appears ready to respond quickly to any further buying pressure. Pahang Consolidated have recovered to 14s. 9d., and should be watched for favourable buying opportunities. Nigerian Tin shares are disappointing, and, in view of Pahang's rubber interests, the latter are probably a much safer permanent holding than many shares in this group. Efforts to stimulate activity in low-priced Nigerians have met with only moderate success, and it appears the best policy to stick to the leaders, such as Mongus and Bisichi.

THE OUTLOOK.

Not for many months has there been such a confident feeling regarding the outlook for the Stock markets. It is realised that the cause of European peace and progress has been materially assisted by the Locarno Pact, and neither the trouble between Greece and Bulgaria nor the revival of hostilities in China is of sufficient importance to shake the conviction that the world is on the threshold of more settled and prosperous times. One result of this is likely to be the removal of the embargo on foreign loans, a point which intending home borrowers will do well to note if they wish to satisfy their capital requirements before the rush begins. Activity is no longer confined to Rubber shares, but has become fairly general throughout the House (says The Sunday Times). Kaffirs alone suffer eclipse, though even here Union Corporations have been singled out for attention, mainly because of the company's interest in artificial silk. In this connection it may be worth while calling to mind that Consolidated Goldfields have a holding in American Cellulose, which will probably be increased, now that the latter company is raising more capital. While Courtaulds are still preeminent in the industry and have no reason to fear competition, it is quite likely that many of the newer companies will do well, there being plenty of room for a much larger production.

GRAPHOPHONE'S BIG DEAL.

It is announced that negotiations have been completed whereby the Columbia Graphophone Company has secured a controlling interest in the factories of other companies operating in eleven foreign countries—France, Germany, Italy, Austria, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, the United States, the Argentine and Brazil. The main foreign companies which have now become centralised under British interest are the Columbia Phonograph Company of New York, the Carl Lindstroem of Berlin, and the Transoceanic Trading Company of Amsterdam. The capital represented by the union runs into several million pounds. The Columbia Graphophone Company, which was made public in 1923, increased its nominal capital to £600,000 in April last by an issue of 300,000 Preference shares of £1 each, while in June 100,000 Ordinary shares of 10s. each were offered at 30s. each. In September it was announced that the company had acquired an important interest in the Carl Lindstroem Company of Berlin and the Transoceanic Trading Company of Amsterdam. For the year to March last the company paid 40 per cent. on its Ordinary shares.

MEXICAN DEBT PAYMENTS.

A New York telegram states that a modification in the Mexican debt agreement, under which Mexico will resume the payment of her $500,000,000 external debt on January 1, has been arrived at between the International Committee of Bankers and the Mexican Minister of Finance. The modification requires the ratification of President Calles and of the Mexican Congress. It provides for the return of the Mexican National Railways to private management on January 1 and the separation of the railway debt, amounting to about 40 per cent. of the total, from the Government debt. The elimination of the Mexican Government's guarantee, however, will not affect the original schedule of interest payments, which, after 1926, will amount to $25,000,000, payable in half-yearly instalments.

TROPICAL PRODUCE. FLUCTUATING.

FROM OUR COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.

Tropical produce has been a fluctuating market throughout the week, with prices in most sections substantially lower. Palm oil at the beginning of the week was steady, the improvement that had set in towards the close of the previous week being held. However, professional operators soon showed a desire to part with holdings, and as a result prices quickly fell back, Lagos soft and medium regulars losing from 10s. to 15s. per ton, with hards fully 13s. 9d. per ton lower. Business in soft oils January-February is reported at £38 2s. 6d., while Lagos on spot has changed hands at £38 per ton. Most of the business carried through has been on behalf of America and home consumers, the Northern Continent being quite uninterested in the market. Lagos and soft regulars on spot and near at hand still show a small discount compared with later months, while the price ruling for December arrival of medium and hard oils is fully 6s. 3d. per ton more than obtains for spot material. Sales during the week are estimated at 1,500 tons, with Lagos quoted £38 to £38 10s., Sherbro £38 to £38 7s. 6d., Congo £39 to £39 10s., Opobo £38 2s. 6d. to £38 10s., Benin £38 to £38 5s., and Niger £38 7s. 6d. to £38 17s. 6d.

Palm kernels have been on the easy side throughout, though fluctuations in prices have been somewhat confined. Crushers in the early part of the week carried through business in October-December material, paying £20 15s., with November-January shipment done at 1s. 3d. per ton less money. The same months, however, can to-day be bought at £20 12s. 6d. Hull consumers have bought but sparingly, and dealers show little or no desire to encourage business at present values. Near at hand material is firmly held, but sales are reported in forward material, £20 15s. being accepted for October-December, and November-January at £20 17s. 6d. The Northern Continent has bought a little material, paying £21 15s. full terms for afloat, and October-November 2s. 6d. less money.

Copra continues to meet with slow demand on the part of crushers, with shippers in no way anxious to make business. F.M. Straits September-October shipment to Marseilles has been done at £29 10s., with mixed (no Padang) for the same months at 7s. 6d. less money. F.M. Straits Rotterdam are obtainable at £29 10s. Ground nuts are slightly harder, though business is not over large. Rufisque new crop December-January shipment has changed hands at £17 and under, while Nigerian decorticated September-October shipment, Northern Continent, has been done at £22 15s., with sellers asking 5s. per ton more for further business. Refined oils have been quiet, without change in values, while nut oils have met with rather more demand, palm kernels in casks changing at £43 5s. for prompt 5¼ per cent.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT CROP.

According to the annual report of the Melbourne Chamber of Commerce, the estimated wheat crop for this year is 164,041,709 bushels. Of this amount New South Wales contributes 59,785,000 bushels, the shares of the other States being: Victoria, 47,364,495 bushels; South Australia, 32,000,000 bushels; Western Australia, 21,913,000 bushels; Queensland, 2,712,214 bushels; Tasmania, 267,000 bushels.

LIVERPOOL MEAT IMPORTS.

The arrivals of cattle and fresh meat at Liverpool during the past week from overseas ports were again below the average. Six steamers arrived with freights as follows:—The Cordillera, from Bahia Blanca, with 15,085 sheep and lamb carcases, 2,093 boxes, etc., of meat, and 16,457 quarters of beef; the Montroyal, from Quebec, with 95 boxes of meat; the Doric, from Montreal, with 428 packages of pork, 136 packages of meat, and 1,551 quarters of beef; the Adriatic, from New York, with 1,214 boxes of pork and 1,327 boxes of meat; the Norfolk, from Australia, with 335 bags and 7,326 quarters of beef; and the Gracia, from Montreal, with 463 cattle, 1,998 boxes of meat, making a total of 463 cattle, 15,085 sheep and lamb carcases, 1,642 packages of pork, 5,984 boxes, etc., of meat, and 25,334 quarters of beef. Compared with the arrivals of the preceding week, these figures show an increase of 15,085 sheep and lamb carcases, and 24,334 quarters of beef, and a decrease of 249 cattle, 748 carcases and boxes of pork, and 4,257 boxes of meat.

LOST VILLAGES.

200 GONE FROM LINCOLN ALONE

Statesmen who are planning an agricultural policy for England would be well advised to consider the surprising number of extinct villages in that country. A study of the documents in the Muniment Room of Lincoln Cathedral ... by Canon C. W. Foster has revealed that Lincolnshire under William I. was one of the richest counties in England, but that since the fifteenth century upwards of 200 villages have almost completely disappeared.

In many instances the cause of decay can only be surmised, but it is probable that the great pestilences of mediæval days were largely answerable for the depopulation of many of these villages. A document, for example, has been found, dated 1437, which shows that the church of Dunsthorpe had so decreased on account of the lack of parishioners, the fewness of peasants, their low wages, the bareness of the lands, and the "pestilences and epidemics with which the Lord afflicts His people for their sins," that it was hardly sufficient for the eightieth part of the salary of a chaplain. The petition plaintively states that "the world is going from bad to worse." It is just possible at the present time to trace the boundaries of the grange of this village.

DETECTIVES VISIT LABOUR HALL.

MAN DETAINED.

On Saturday evening Superintendent Ennis, Detective Sergeants Mooney and Byrne, and a number of constables of the Detective Division visited Unity Hall, Marlborough street, Dublin, the headquarters of the Workers' Union of Ireland, and detained a man.

It is stated that the object of the visit was to make inquiries regarding the "hold-up" of a bread-van driver, Patrick O'Donoghue, on last Friday week.

O'Donoghue is a driver in the employment of Messrs. O'Rourke, bakers, Store street, Dublin, and it was reported that he was stopped on the outskirts of the city by five men, some of whom were armed, and shot in the shoulder when he refused to give up the money that he had collected on his "round." He is at present in Jervis street Hospital.

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN.

ENCLOSED RETREATS FOR STUDENTS.

Preaching at University Church, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, yesterday, the Rev. R. Devane, S.J., urged students of University College to utilise the system of enclosed retreats, in order to develop Catholic leaders in their ranks, and thus assist in Catholicising the people. In that way, he said, they could secure the personal sanctification of the individual and the intensification of religion throughout the College.

The sermon was given on the occasion of the annual High Mass to mark the opening of the academic year in University College. Before the Mass there was a procession from the College to the church, in which the principal officers and professors of the College, wearing their academic robes, took part, together with several hundred students.

The Archbishop of Dublin presided, and the Assistants at the Throne were the Very Rev. Canon Cronin, D.D., M.A., and the Very Rev. P. Canon Boylan, D.D., M.A., LL.D., with the Rev. Michael Walsh, B.A., as Master of Ceremonies to the Archbishop.

The celebrant of the Mass was the Rev. John Burke, B.A., Dean of the College; the Deacon, the Rev. R. McNevin, D.D., B.A., St. Bricin's Hospital; and the Sub-Deacon, the Rev. J. Concannon, B.A., Mater Hospital. The Master of Ceremonies was the Rev. J. Robinson (St. Vincent's Hospital). Monsignor Walsh was in the choir, and the Rev. J. Ryan, B.A., Dean of the College, was in charge of the arrangements.

THE CHRISTIAN SPIRIT.

Having referred to Christianity as it was preached and practised by its Founder, the Rev. Father Devane said that the main characteristic of Christ's life was service. The man who had a Christlike spirit in his heart must learn to serve, and the depths of his love for God was measured by his service. Service meant leadership, and it was to that University that the country turned for those who were to be the lay leaders of the future. Their University held the intelligence of the youth of the country, and Ireland looked to it to produce and develop the leaders who would be necessary to help things to shape in the Christ-like way in the future, and to restore the peace of Christ to their distracted country. The modern movement of the enclosed retreat dated back to the early 'eighties, and it had spread from Northern France to Belgium, Holland, Germany, and virtually through the Catholic world of to-day. He believed that if they had such a system, regulated and organised, and dealing with the special and select few, they, too, could develop Catholic leaders in their ranks, and do much to Catholicise the lives of the people. He had the conviction that things which only the Almighty God Himself could measure could be done for the country and the people by means of the enclosed retreats.

BAIL BONDS FOR A STEAMER.

WATERFORD ADMIRALTY MARSHAL TAKES ACTION.

Last week the steam collier Ribblebank, of Liverpool, collided with the Waterford town bridge when attempting to "drop" through it on a falling tide, and was stated to have bumped against it for a considerable time before she was able to release herself.

On Saturday afternoon the Admiralty Marshal of Waterford boarded the vessel and ordered the captain to remain in port pending the arrangement of bonds to the amount of £500.

Shortly after the accident to the Ribblebank, Mr. J. J. Fleming, Borough Surveyor, and Mr. Friel, C.E., on behalf of the Waterford Harbour Board, visited the bridge and decided that damage had been done to it by the steamer and advised that a claim should be made against the owners of the boat, Messrs. John S. Sellar and Co., Liverpool, to the amount of £500. The damage, it is understood, includes the displacement of the electric cables of the bridge.

The vessel should have left Waterford on Saturday, but was unable, pending the perfection of the bonds.

On Thursday afternoon last the Ribblebank, having discharged a cargo of coal at Spencer's coal jetty, was about the cross over to the jetty on the north side of the river for the purpose of loading oats for Rouen. An attempt was made to warp the vessel through the bridge portcullis by the process known as "dropping through," that is, by the aid of guiding cables. She was caught by the outgoing tide and, snapping one of her guiding cables, was swung against the stone pillars and the under structure of the bridge, against which she alternately bumped for some hours.

REBUFF TO TRADE UNION.

EMPLOYMENT OF INMATES IN CORK COUNTY HOME.

A complaint in reference to distemper work being done in the South Cork County Home of Public Assistance by inmates, male and female, has prompted Commissioner Monahan to send a severe letter to Mr. William Perrott, representing the Cork House Painters' Trade Management Committee.

Mr. Perrott, on behalf of the Committee, wrote to the Matron, Sister Mary Merci, stating that she was encroaching on the members of their trade, and requesting her to give an explanation before the Committee brought the matter before the public through a meeting of the Trades' Council. There was a postscript to his letter as follows:—

"If we do not hear from you we will also approach his Lordship the Bishop of Cork, and give him the full details of this case."

Commissioner Monahan's letter to Mr. Perrott states that the Matron acted on his instruction. If there were any justification for the Committee's protest it would be necessary to keep in idleness every able-bodied man or woman in the institution. If inmates were not to work the cost of maintaining the institution in its present state, not to speak of improving it, would be entirely too great. It was but just and proper that the inmates should be called upon to help in making their surroundings more bright and cheerful, and thus contribute some little thing to the cost of their own maintenance; and he would regard any further interference with the Matron in the discharge of her duties as a breach of discipline, entailing dismissal.

"The addendum to your letter," the Commissioner adds, "is particularly contemptible, and any further threats you may wish to make might be addressed to me. In all the circumstances of the case, I have decided to send your letter and my reply to his Lordship the Bishop and to the public Press."

WELL-KNOWN ROSE-GROWER'S DEATH.

The death occurred in a nursing home at Reading yesterday morning at the age of 57 of Mr. Elisha Hicks, the well-known rose-grower, of Hurst, Berkshire.

SHANNON WAGES CONFERENCE.

LABOUR AGREEMENT AT LIMERICK.

A SETTLEMENT LIKELY WITHIN THREE WEEKS.

FROM OUR SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE.

LIMERICK, Sunday.

Members of the National Executive of the Irish Labour Party met the members of the Limerick Trades Council and local officials of the Transport Union here this afternoon. The meeting lasted an hour, and the following statement was subsequently issued to the Press:—

"An agreement has been reached whereby a basis for negotiations between the Government and the National Executive of the Labour Party on the Shannon wage dispute is accepted."

The National Executive was represented by ex-Alderman William O'Brien, General Secretary of the Transport Union, and Mr. T. Irwin, both of whom took part in last week's conference at Government Buildings, Dublin. Mr. John Cronin, President of the Trades Council, presided, and over sixty delegates, representative of every section of organised Labour in the city, attended. The proceedings were private, and the delegates, on leaving, were warned not to communicate any information to the Press.

NO SETTLEMENT JUST YET.

A certain ambiguity of the phrasing, however, made it necessary for one to seek an interpretation of the official statement from one of the leaders. His interpretation of the communiqué was that at last week's Dublin conference the National Executive suggested to the Government a basis on which Labour would be prepared to negotiate. This basis having been accepted by the Government representatives, it was necessary for the National Executive to communicate it to the Limerick Trades Council for approval or ratification. The decision of to-day's meeting here means, according to my informant, that a vote of confidence has been passed in the National Executive, and that it is now in a position to enter into negotiations on the basis suggested to the Government.

Asked if there was likely to be a settlement before the Dail meets, my informant remarked that he saw no such prospect.

"I do think, however," he added, "that a settlement should be arrived at within the next three weeks."

DUBLIN CONFERENCE THIS WEEK.

The decision of the Trades Council will be conveyed by Messrs. O'Brien and Irwin to a meeting of the National Executive, which is being held in Dublin to-morrow night. A further conference at Government Buildings is not expected to take place before Wednesday.

Mr. Joseph McGrath left Limerick for Dublin on Saturday.

In view of the Government's intervention, the Mayor of Limerick is taking no further steps for the present to bring about a meeting between the local Labour leaders and the contractors. The members of the committee which was formed to assist Councillor O'Brien in his efforts are Mr. F. J. Cleeve, President of the Limerick Chamber of Commerce; Dr. W. A. Fogarty, Chairman of the Limerick Conciliation Board; Mr. Stephen O'Mara, Sir Stephen B. Quinn, and Councillors J. Dalton and P. Doyle.

ACTION OF NENAGH UNEMPLOYED.

Mr. D. Morrissey, T.D., speaking at a meeting of unemployed in Nenagh, said that he was convinced that the German firm was not so much to blame for the wages offered on the Shannon as the Government. It was time enough to talk about what a week's wages ought to be when prices were reduced and "profiteering" stopped.

The men pledged themselves not to work on the Shannon scheme until the recognised trade union wage was paid.

MOTOR RESTRICTION ORDER.

OPPOSITION CAMPAIGN.

A joint meeting of the Executive Committee and the Commercial Owners' and Users' Section Committee of the Irish Motorists' Union and Transport Development Federation has resolved to open an active campaign throughout the country in opposition to the order issued on the 16th instant by the Minister for Local Government restricting weight of motor vehicles outside County Boroughs.

It was decided to give public expression to the Union's satisfaction that certain members of the Port and Docks' Board had already raised the issue, and it was resolved that a deputation should wait upon the Port and Docks Board at their next meeting. The deputation appointed included:—Surgeon McArdle (President), Mr. T. Morgan Good (Chairman; Mr. F. G. Thompson (Chairman of Commercial Owners' Committee); Mr. Edmund Williams, Mr. R. W. Archer (Treasurers), and other members of the Committee.

It was also decided that owners of commercial vehicles throughout the Free State should be requested to take part in organised opposition to the continuance of the order.

"COMMANDEERED, NOT LET."

DANCE HALL DISPUTE IN COURT.

It was stated on behalf of James Moynihan, Gortnascarty, who appealed at Macroom Circuit Court against a decision ordering him to pay £24 13s. 4d. (£21 13s. 4d. for rent) to Timothy Hyde, Collea, in respect of a store, which was converted into a dance hall, that the premises were not let to Moynihan, but commandeered by Republican forces.

Timothy Hyde gave evidence that he let the store to the appellant in June, 1920. Portion of the floor was cemented, but the appellant had a timber floor substituted; and it would take £3 to replace the concrete floor. When £16 was owing the appellant told the witness that he would keep the store—now a dance hall—for another year. Only £3 more, however, was paid, and in 1924 the witness, telling him that there were big arrears due, asked the appellant for the key, which was given.

The following letter, alleged to have been addressed by the witness to one Denis Sweeney, was read out in court:—

"Dear Ned,—I have heard the cement part of the hall will be thrown out. I hope not, and that you will see it will be left there, as it was to you I gave the key of the hall the first day . . . I wanted the shed badly myself the time I gave it. I would not refuse the cause, so I hope you will see to it."

The witness said that the letter was in his daughter's handwriting, but that he did not authorise her to write it.

Patrick Sullivan, giving evidence for the appellant, said that at the time when the store changed hands he was general officer commanding the Republican forces in that area, and under his direction the hall was commandeered. Ned Sweeney, captain of the Coolea Company, I.R.A., had been sent by him to do so. The witness gave permission for the holding of a dance, but he could not say that it was held.

Ned Sweeney also gave evidence, after which James Moynihan, the appellant, examined, said that he was present when the plaintiff agreed to let the hall for £8. The witness never got the key, and had nothing to do with it.

Judge Kenny gave a decree for £21 13s. 4d. in respect of rent, disallowing the balance of the claim. The proper thing, he said, was for the young fellows who had been using the hall to make up the money and pay the plaintiff, and not allow Moynihan, who was only a trustee, to be victimised. He directed that the amount of the decree should be paid in instalments of £7 every four months.

The Hon. Charles Fitzroy is in charge of the North Yorkshire and South Durham Hunt until his father, Lord Southampton, has recovered from his recent accident.

LEINSTER.

Co. Longford Centenarian Dead.—Miss Fleming, Derreen Lodge, Clondra, Longford, died at her residence on Saturday at the age of 106 years.

Debtor Sent to Jail.—Two months' imprisonment was imposed by Justice Fahy at Gorey Court on Laurence Kinsella, Ballythomas, for failing to comply with an order requiring him to pay £5 on account of a larger sum by 1st October.

The Barley Slump.—The barley market in Tullamore is in a depressed condition. The top price for malting barley is 18s. a barrel, but there is no demand for it, and very little is being purchased. Inferior sorts are being sold for 17s., 16s., and, it is stated, even at 15s. a barrel for feeding purposes.

Jail for Assault on Guard.—Peter Rosney, High street, Tullamore, ex-British soldier, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment, with hard labour, at Tullamore, for assaulting the Civic Guards. The Guards were inquiring into a row, when Rosney interfered, and on being told to mind his own business, said that he was a boxer and an ex-British soldier. He grappled with Guard Murphy, and both fell; he kicked Guard Hanley on the mouth, and resisted arrest.

Presentation to Rector.—The Rev. R. Seymour, D.D., for thirty-three years Rector of All Saints, Mullingar, was on Saturday, on leaving to take up his appointment to the incumbency of Agher, Co. Meath, presented by his parishioners and many friends with a handsome wallet of notes. The function took place in the Parochial Hall, Mullingar. Mrs. Seymour has also been made the recipient of a number of presentations.

Woman Bound Over for Larceny.—Sarah Heffernan, married woman, residing at Mucklagh, was at Tullamore Court convicted of the larceny of £2 7s. from Mrs. Bracken, Ballard, and bound over. Mrs. Bracken was standing in Charleville square, Tullamore, on fair day. Travelling clothes dealers were offering articles of apparel for sale. She had her husband's wages in her pocket, and when she wanted to buy an article of clothing she found the money was gone. Accused and others were alongside her at the time. The accused said that she had nothing to do with the taking of Mrs. Bracken's money. The justice said that he had no doubt of the guilt of the accused.

Meeting Place of the Volunteers.—William Connolly, Newtown, Killeigh, was at Tullamore Court charged with having a shot gun and revolver in his possession without a permit. Defendant said that the revolver was there since the days of the Volunteers, it being left there for repairs, and he bought the shot gun ten or eleven years ago. He did not report the possession of the gun to the R.I.C. or Civic Guard, as he did not want them to know about it. His house was a meeting house for the Volunteers at the time the revolver was left there. Defendant was fined 40s. and the firearms ordered to be forfeited.

Beat Horse With Reins.—John Condron, Agall, Screggan, was fined 10s. at Tullamore for cruelty to a horse. Guard M'Guire stated that defendant was beating the horse with a heavy rope reins. Witness arrested him and brought him to the barracks. He (defendant) was under the influence of drink. It appeared that at a previous Court defendant had been fined on two other charges in connection with the same incident, and the justice now imposed the "nominal penalty" of 10s., as stated.

Milk Deficient in Fats.—At Tullamore Court, Margaret Egan, Harbor street, Tullamore, was fined 21s. for selling new milk 15 per cent. deficient in fats. Evidence was given that the milk was the same as it came from the cow. Mr. H. F. Drenan, LL.B., for the defence, argued that he was entitled to a dismiss having regard to the legal decisions on the point. The Justice (Mr. A. O'Donoghue) said that he believed there was no deliberate adulteration of the milk by Mrs. Egan, but he convicted on the ground that it was not of the quality demanded by the purchaser.

Decision Affirmed.—John T. Talty, hotel proprietor, Kilmacanogue, Bray, appealed at Wicklow Circuit Court against a conviction and fine of £1 at Bray District Court for drunkenness and disorderly conduct at Kilmacanogue on 21st June last. Dr. Deely reiterated his testimony that defendant was not drunk. Judge Doyle held that the knocking down of the guard showed the man was disorderly, and that, coupled with the smell of liquor and his own admission, overbalanced the evidence to the contrary, and he affirmed the District Justice's decision.

Injured Cyclist Robbed.—At Wicklow District Court Daniel Reilly, Thonlagee, Wicklow, was found guilty of stealing a wallet and £3 10s. from William Davis, St. Augustine street, Dublin, who had been knocked down and rendered unconscious by a motor car in which defendant was driving at Rathnew on 20th September. Explaining his action, defendant said that he had been "drowning" regret at losing a match in which he was playing, and when attending the injured man and seeing his identity he thoughtlessly put the wallet into his pocket and intended returning it. Sergeant Hall said that when searched he had the wallet in one pocket and the notes in another. Accused was not drunk. He was allowed out under the First Offenders Act.

MUNSTER.

Limerick Junction.—Mr. Stephen O'Mara, senior, entertained his election committee and a large number of citizens in Cruise's Hotel, Limerick, on Saturday night, to mark his appreciation of the help given him in connection with the Senate election. The function took the form of a smoking concert, at which 170 guests were present, including the Mayor (Councillor O'Brien), Mr. M. Joyce, ex-M.P.; and Mr. Joseph O'Mara (tenor).

Alleged False Pretences.—An ex-soldier, James Walsh, was charged on Saturday, at a Special Court in Waterford, with uttering a false bank cheque to the amount of £12 14s. to Caroline Bate Power, Ferrybank, Waterford. He was also charged on eight separate counts with obtaining various sums of money by false pretences. Accused was remanded to the District Court.

Road Overseers Suspended.—The Clare County Council have decided to suspend all the road overseers in their employment, to the number of 26, pending the expiration of the direct labour scheme on 31st March, 1926. Meantime the County Surveyor has been authorised to employ any of them that he may require up to 16. Other drastic economies are also under consideration, as the Council have only £17,000 available for road work for the balance of the financial year, and this is barely sufficient to pay wages up to 1st December.

Barracks as Factory.—At the Fermoy Urban Council letters were received from the Ministry of Industry and Commerce, in reply to the Council's request that the local barracks should be advertised for industrial purposes, to the effect that the matter was receiving attention.

Coursing on Preserved Lands.—At Ennis District Court, Edward O'Brien, Drumquin, was fined £2; John O'Neill, Ballyclohessy, £1; and John Cooley, Island Devanny, £1 with 15s. costs, each for coursing hares on lands preserved by the Clarecastle Coursing Club. The District Justice said that O'Brien's offence was particularly bad, as he was himself a member of the club. The defendants pleaded that they were simply "trying" young greyhounds.

The Vaccination Act.—At the Fermoy Urban Council a letter was read from the Minister, stating that the M.O.H. should be requested to furnish the Council with the list of all children registered as born in the district who were over three months of age and not vaccinated. Mr. Maye proposed that the Act be not enforced, and that no action be taken on the letter. Mr. O'Brien seconded. Mr. G. Power said that it was the first time the Council were called on to put the Act into force. It would mean considerable expense to the Council. In England, where the person had an objection, the child was exempt. Mr. W. Power proposed that the M.O.H. be requested to furnish the list. Mr. Burke seconded. After discussion Mr. Maye withdrew his proposition, as the matter would come up again.

Motor Lorries in Co. Clare.—The Clare County Council have approved a series of restrictions on motor lorries to the effect that the speed is not to exceed 8 m.p.h. on any road; all lorries to be fitted with pneumatic tyres, except one-ton; lorries of 2¼ tons thus fitted to be allowed on all roads; over 2¼ tons only on certain selected roads; 5 tons and over, with trailers, only on steam-rolled roads. The proposed restrictions are subject to the sanction of the Local Government Department.

"Barefaced Robbery."—At Ennis District Court, Thomas O'Halloran, Newmarket-on-Fergus, was charged with obtaining £15 18s. 10d. from the Ennis Labour Exchange, by false pretences. The accused pleaded that he had lost his health serving the State in the National Army and was under the impression that he was entitled to at least 61 days' special unemployment benefit after his discharge. As to the National Health payments, he had been kept fifteen weeks waiting, and meantime his family had to live. Justice Gleeson—This was absolute and barefaced robbery. You went to one society and told them you were not able to work. At the same time you went to the Labour Exchange and told them you were able to work but could not get it. The £15 18s. 10d. would have to be repaid. The case would be adjourned for three weeks to see if the accused would make a genuine effort to repay the money. If he did not do so he would have to go to prison. Had it not been that he was obviously in ill-health he would have been sent to prison that day.

Burning of Doneraile Mansion.—Mr. Arthur H. Jones, Doneraile, applied for £2,197 13s., compensation in respect of furniture destroyed in Newtown House, Doneraile, which was burned on August 15th, 1922. The applicant stated that the house was let to General Gage, who was commanding the British troops in the South of Ireland. It was furnished with antique furniture of the highest quality. A decree for £2,100, with costs and expenses was granted. The same applicant was awarded £195 for a commandeered motor car. Mr. Arthur H. Jones, Stapleton, Oldfield, and Adrian De Fleury, were the applicants in a claim for £6,928 16s. 10d., for the destruction of the mansion known as Newtown House, Doneraile, on the 15th August, 1922. Evidence of the destruction of the mansion was given by Mr. Jones, who said that it had been previously occupied by two British Generals. Judge Kenny gave a decree for £4,250, with full reinstatement clauses. He allowed £5 5s. architect's expenses and 33 per cent. to the applicants' solicitor. Mr. Anthony Carroll, Fermoy, appeared for the applicants.

CONNAUGHT.

Cattle Neglect after Dishorning.—A fine of £4, with £3 costs, was confirmed on appeal at Boyle Circuit Court, in which Peter Sharkey, residing near Frenchpark, was prosecuted for cruelty to cattle by neglecting them after dishorning. Guard McCormick said that he saw nine head of cattle, the property of Sharkey, on Lord de Freyne's land. They had been dishorned; their heads were very sore-looking; and the sores were effected by flies. The cattle seemed in great pain. The herd of the farm said that he never saw any instrument except the saw used for dishorning cattle.

Counterfeit Coin.—At Boyle Circuit Court, a farmer, Manus McDermott, residing near Ballaghaderreen (Co. Mayo) was found not guilty of a charge of uttering counterfeit coin, and with having such coin and a mould in his possession. Guard W. Dunne said that they found the mould and five counterfeit coins in a ditch in a garden fifteen yards from the house. A piece of lead piping was found, with an old boot on top of it. Clippings of lead were found on a table in McDermott's kitchen. For the defence, Mr. D. MacDermot, solicitor, said that there was no evidence of guilty knowledge on the part of accused. Lead clippings might be in any house. As regards the stuff found in the garden, if that constituted an offence no one would be safe. There were rumours of counterfeit coin going around, and the articles found might be planted there. The jury found as stated.

Postman Imprisoned.—Henry Mahon, a rural postman in Ballaghaderreen district, who is a native of Tullamore, was charged at Boyle Circuit Court with having secreted postal packets; opening, or causing to be opened, postal packets; wilfully delaying postal packets; stealing a £1 note out of a postal packet, and the embezzlement of 5s. 5½d. received on behalf of the Minister for Posts and Telegraphs. The accused pleaded guilty to delaying letters. He could not make the deliveries in the time allowed. An official went to test the delivery, and found that accused could not do it in the time allotted. Accused denied that he admitted to Captain Moynihan that he took £1 from a Mrs. Cassidy. Judge Wakely sentenced the accused to nine months with hard labour.

ULSTER.

Poteen Making in the Mountains.—The Annagry (Co. Donegal) Guards discovered a "still" concealed in the Crolby Mountains. A large quantity of material for the manufacture of poteen was captured.

House Broken Into.—On Thursday night or Friday morning the house of James McFadden, Bank terrace, Ramelton, was broken into. A trunk, the property of Mrs. McDermott, aunt of McFadden, was broken open and £34 stolen. An entry was obtained by breaking a window at the rear of the house.

Dirty Milk Cans.—As a result of an inspection by an inspector from the Department of Agriculture at Inver (Donegal) Creamery on Friday last of the milk supply, about half the suppliers were ordered to take their milk home, as the cans were dirty.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

Regretted Death.—At Newtownbutler Court, on the proposition of Rev. William Wilson, J.P., seconded by Mr. Joseph Johnston, J.P., a resolution was passed expressing regret at the death of Mr. J. W. Johnston, J.P.

M.P. Bereaved.—The death has taken place at Portrush of Mr. Joseph A. M'Cambridge, who was married to a sister of Mr. George Leeke, M.P. Deceased served during the great war. He obtained a commission in the Irish Division under Major Redmond.

Destructive Fire.—On Friday night last a fire broke out in a two-storey building about two hundred yards from Beechhill mansion, the property of Mrs. Nicholson. The Londonderry Fire Brigade was summoned, and after an hour and a half's work got the flames under control. Considerable damage was done.

New School for Enniskillen.—The Northern Ministry of Education has written to the Fermanagh Regional Committee approving of a grant for the building of a new Girls' Secondary School in Enniskillen, but no part of the grant can be applied to the building of a hostel or boarding establishment. It was agreed to ask the Ministry to approve of a teacher's residence.

Licensing Appeal.—At Enniskillen Quarter Sessions, Mrs. M'Namee, proprietress of the Railway Hotel, appealed from a fine of £3 and the endorsement of her licence for selling and supplying a bottle of whiskey on the night of the 1st August last. The police also appealed against a dismissal by the magistrates of a charge of not opening when admission was demanded. The Crown case was that Thomas M'Manus, an insurance agent, was found coming out of defendant's premises with a pint of whiskey. The defence was that the whiskey was ordered at 7 p.m., paid for, and laid aside. Mr. M'Manus was meeting the 10 p.m. train, which was late, and on his way home called for his parcel. The judge held that the conviction could not stand. In the second appeal by the police he would give the defendant the benefit of the doubt, and affirm the dismissal.

Fell Overboard.—The C.P.R. liner Metagama arrived in Belfast Lough late on Friday night, on her voyage from Glasgow to Quebec, and took on board a contingent of over 50 Northern passengers. As the steamer was entering the Lough and preparing to anchor, a sailor, Archibald Godwin (20), of Dalmuir, Glasgow, fell overboard in the darkness. The captain of the liner cruised about, but no trace of Godwin could be found, and after an hour and a half the ship continued her journey to meet the tender from Belfast.

In Aid of Cripples' Institute.—Some two thousand members of the Belfast Battalion Boys' Brigade were engaged on Saturday in the annual house-to-house collection on behalf of the Cripples' Institute. Divided into districts, each under a responsible officer, the organisation was so perfected that a few days previously was completed the distribution of 110,000 envelopes, and the boys on Saturday went over the same ground, making their collection.

Admiral and Sea Cadets.—Admiral C. F. Bruen, C.B., on Saturday afternoon inspected the Belfast unit of the Sea Cadets. Admiral Bruen, who is the son of the Right Hon. Henry Bruen, of Carlow, has a magnificent war record. He served all through the war in the Grand Fleet, commanding H.M.S. Bellerophon from 1913 to 1916, H.M.S. Resolution from 1916 to 1917, and was connected with the Second Cruiser Squadron in 1918. He was in the battle of Jutland, and was mentioned in despatches for his part in that notable engagement.

Schoolmaster's Appeal.—Patrick Sweeney, teacher of Carrickbeg Public Elementary School, appealed at Enniskillen Quarter Sessions against two fines of £10 and 10s. costs for alleged assault on two children attending his school. Evidence was given by a number of children as to the alleged assault, one case being the striking of a young girl on the cheek bone with his fist. Defendant denied the assault, but admitted that previous summonses issued against him had been settled by someone and the costs paid. The Judge reversed the decision of the magistrates. He thought the alleged assaults had been exaggerated. A schoolmaster had the right to chastise, but he must not be excessive. It was not a case for costs.

Death of Mr. Alexander Ross.—The death has occurred of Mr. Alexander Ross (71), of "Fairview," Ballyclare, principal proprietor of the Sun Laundry, Ltd., York street and William street, South, Belfast, and Glynn road, Larne, where the extensive concern is situated. Deceased was recognised as one of the most expert judges of horses in Ireland, his services being frequently called into requisition as adjudicator. His interests extended to both harness and hunting as well as racing horses, and he had from time to time quite a number of notable specimens of the equine breed. Mr. Ross was one of the original members of the East Antrim Hounds.

Visiting Justices.—"The Belfast Gazette" notifies the following revised constitutions of Visiting Committees of Northern jails:—Armagh—Grand Jury of the County of Armagh to appoint eight members; Grand Jury of the County of Tyrone to appoint two members; Grand Jury of the County Borough of Belfast to appoint two members. Londonderry—Grand Jury of the County Borough of Londonderry to appoint four members; Grand Jury of the County of Londonderry to appoint four members; Grand Jury of the County of Tyrone to appoint two members; Grand Jury of the County of Fermanagh to appoint two members. Belfast—Grand Jury of the County of Antrim to appoint three members; Grand Jury of the County Borough of Belfast to appoint six members; Grand Jury of the County of Down to appoint three members; Grand Jury of the County Borough of Londonderry to appoint two members; Grand Jury of the County of Londonderry to appoint two members; Grand Jury of the County of Fermanagh to appoint two members; Grand Jury of the County of Tyrone to appoint two members.

TREE CRASHES ON 'BUS.

As an omnibus from Llanelly, containing 18 passengers, was approaching the village of Five Roads on Saturday night, a tree fell across it, smashing the engine and radiator and the front of the vehicle. Three men, sitting beside the driver, were injured by flying glass, and many inside passengers received minor hurts. All were able to proceed home after attention.

The Belgian Consulate has been transferred to 69 Merrion square, Dublin.

What is the Price of a Cinema Seat?

TOO often the cost is the risk you run of a chill or a cold when you step outside into the wind or rain.

After sitting for hours in a Picture House in used-up air, often hot and thick and germ-infested, is it any wonder that the night-wind catches you off your guard?

And then, sure enough, you wake with a cold next morning!

IT'S a risk you can't help running, you say? You can't give up the pictures? Very well; then be sensible and take precautions. The very first sign or suspicion of cold is the signal to take Velocium.

Eighty per cent. of the dangerous and all-too-frequent fatal illnesses of this country are due to coughs and colds, chills and catarrh, influenza and its complications, asthma, pleurisy, pneumonia and consumption.

Hitherto, methods of treatment of coughs have had the effect of merely subduing the symptoms without getting rid of the prime cause of the trouble—congestion. Velocium gets rid of the congestion or infection by clearing and disinfecting the whole of the breathing organs.

To Wives and Mothers Only

The young folks must have their pleasures, bless 'em! They will do the things that give them colds, but you know the costs of the risks they run. 'Three days coming, three days with you, three days going.' So runs the old saying—meanwhile discomfort for all.

Watch for the signs that a cold is coming. Don't let it get a hold and run through the whole house!

Insist on the timely tiny dose of Velocium that will defeat the enemy. See that the young folks carry a tube in handbags or pockets, and don't forget to keep a supply at home yourself.

Velocium is sold in tablet form in sealed glass Emergency Tubes 1/3; Home size 3/- per box. Large size 5/- per box. Of all the best chemists.

DUBLIN COMMISSIONERS.

THE IMPROVEMENT OF KING STREET.

The Dublin Borough Commissioners, Mr. James Murphy, Dr. W. C. Dwyer and Mr. P. J. Hernon, at their meeting last Saturday appointed the Rev. Henry Nowlan, C.C., St. Kevin's, Harrington street, to serve on the South-East Divisional School Attendance Committee, in place of the Very Rev. William Lockhart, P.P., who resigned.

The Commissioners adopted a report which recommended the appointment of Dr. Reddin as substitute Medical Superintendent Officer of Health, during the absence of Dr. M. J. Russell, of about two months, from the 12th September last, while (representing the Minister of Local Government and Public Health) the guest of the International Health Board of the Rockefeller Foundation in the United States, for the purpose of studying their system of public health administration. The rate of remuneration fixed for Dr. Russell's substitute was one guinea a day.

HOUSING MATTERS.

A report was adopted approving the appointment of Mr. Charles Brady as Clerk of Works, at the usual rate of six guineas a week, in connection with the erection of 218 five-roomed houses at Keogh Barracks.

The Commissioners adopted a report of Mr. Commissioner Murphy, who recommended the acceptance of an offer of the Rev. D. H. Hall, Secretary, St. Barnaba's Public Utility Society, to cede to the Corporation, free of cost, land in front of the houses erected by that Society, at West road, containing an area of 12 perches 17 square yards, for the purpose of widening the roadway.

Mr. Commissioner Murphy stated in his report:—The proposed improvements includes the widening of West road at its narrowest point from 31 feet to 50 feet 6 inches, the laying of a granite kerb, concrete footpaths, and sett-paved channels, the erection of one gas pillar lamp and the insertion of one gully grate. The cost of these works, with the necessary excavation and steam-rolling, is estimated at £382 15s. The St. Barnabas Public Utility Society has received the maximum grants and remission of rates under the Housing (Building Facilities) Acts, in respect of 62 houses erected by it on West road. In view of this I consulted the Minister for Local Government and Public Health as to the advisability of the Commissioners incurring additional expense on work which might in part be considered as road development in connection with the housing scheme, and as assistance beyond the limits allowed under the Housing Acts. The Minister intimated his approval to the carrying out of the work. I consider the improvement desirable, as the traffic on West road has increased owing to the number of dwellings erected recently in the vicinity.

WIDENING OF KING STREET.

The growing importance of South King street, from the point of view of traffic, renders it very desirable that an improvement in its condition should be effected. Mr. Commissioner Murphy stated in a streets section report. It is not possible to widen the roadway to any considerable extent, but it is suggested that the slight widening of the carriage way now recommended will greatly facilitate the movement of traffic. The width of the roadway near Grafton street is 22 feet 5 inches, reducing to 19 feet 9 inches. By curtailing the footpath on the south side it is possible to widen the roadway to a minimum of 22 feet. This work has been carried out by direct labour. The contract for repaving the roadway includes the removal of the sett-paving, the preparation of the existing concrete foundation, and the laying thereon of a 2-inch granited mastic asphalt pavement, in accordance with the City Engineer's specification. The specification includes free maintenance for a period of 10 years. The conditions of the contract provide that the contractor is to give preference to demobilised men of the National Army, who are suitable and willing to undertake road work, and that the rate of wages to be paid to unskilled labourers shall not exceed 50s. per week of 44 hours. Tenders were invited by advertisement and the following were received:—South of Ireland Asphalt Co., Ltd., 7 and 8 Lower Abbey street, Dublin, 20s. per yard; South of Ireland Asphalt Co., Ltd. (alternative specification for stone-filled topping), 18s. 10d. per yard; Walker Bros., 157 St. Vincent street, Glasgow, 20s. per yard; Associated Asphalt Co., Ltd., Westminster, S.W., 1, 25s. 4d. per yard. The alternative specification submitted by the South of Ireland Asphalt Company is not considered suitable, and is not recommended for adoption. The tender of Messrs. Walker Bros. does not comply with the conditions of the contract. I recommend that the tender of the South of Ireland Asphalt Co., Ltd., at 20s. per yard, be accepted; and that the Town Clerk and Law Agent be authorised to affix the City Seal to the contract. The approximate area of the roadway is 1,300 yards super. The acceptance of the tender has been approved by the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, and the cost will be defrayed out of the Trunk Road Grant 1925-1926.

The report was adopted.

CORPORATION STOCK.

A resolution was passed amending the resolution of the Municipal Council of the 12th September, 1925, with reference to the issue of Dublin Corporation 5 per cent. Stock, as follows:—"That the words 'at par' in the first line of the second paragraph be amended to read, 'at a price not less than 95 per cent.'"

THE STREET CLEANING CONTRACT.

Letters were received and noted from the Secretary, Dublin Citizens' Association with reference to the recent threatened strike of the members of the Irish Municipal Employés' Trade Union, welcoming the statement of the Commissioners that the city will be better cleaned at a lower cost to the citizens, though regretting that no suitable Irish tender was received; and from the Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Dublin, transmitting a copy of a resolution which was passed by the Council of the Chamber in reference to the same subject, and approving of the action of the Commissioners in the matter.

It was agreed to insert on the minutes a letter read from the Secretary, Irish Municipal Employés' Trade Union, stating that the members of his union, at a general meeting on the 11th inst., unanimously agreed to accept the further proposals, as agreed at the conference held on the 8th inst., as a settlement of the recent threatened strike by the members of the union.

A letter was received from the Hon. Secretary, Public Works, Roads and Transport Congress and Exhibition, inviting the Corporation to appoint delegates to take part in the proceedings of the third congress, which is to take place at the Royal Agricultural Hall, London, from 19th to 26th November, and it was decided that the three Commissioners, the Acting Borough Surveyor, the City Electrical Engineer, and the City Architect should attend.

DANCE HALL LIT BY CANDLE.

KING'S COUNTY ASSAULT CASE.

The hearing of an assault charge at Tullamore Court last Friday took one to a hall in the village of Gortnamona, King's County, where dances are held regularly, with candlelight as the only illumination. On the night of the 15th August last the one candle serving the dancers went out; and it was while the dance room was in total darkness that a man went out through the window and others rushed to the door to cut off his escape. Under a palm tree the parties met and a fight ensued, one man, as it was alleged, being struck with an iron bar.

The case arose out of a dispute, first in a boat and then on the lake shore, where an assault, as alleged, took place, William Hickey, Gortnamona, complaining that Michael Mitchell (the accused man) struck him.

Mitchell, in evidence, alleged that, subsequent to the scene by the lake, Hickey and his brother attacked and beat him.

Hickey's evidence was that at the dance Mitchell threatened him and said that it would be "three to one to-night," the witness being alone and Mitchell having two friends with him. Shortly before the dance broke up the candle in the dance room went out.

The Justice—Did the candle go out periodically? (Laughter.)

The Witness—Yes. (Laughter.)

Continuing, the witness said that he got out through the window, as he was afraid to go through the door; but the other parties surrounded the place and he could not get away. Mitchell caught him, and the witness took something up to defend himself and struck either Mitchell or a person with him. He could not say whether the weapon which he used was an iron bar.

Mitchell was recalled, and stated that he was looking for his bicycle after the dance and found it under a palm tree. William Hickey struck him with an iron bar on the head, and as a result he was laid up for a fortnight.

Mitchell was bound over for twelve months, the Justice remarking that he seemed to be a person of a violent disposition.

A monument was unveiled yesterday in St. Mary's Cathedral, Carlow, to the memory of Sergeant-Major Denis Haughney, who lost his life as the result of an accident in the football field.

MR. ARTHUR HENDERSON, M.P., IN AMERICA.

NEW YORK, Sunday.

The Hartford (Connecticut) Y.M.C.A. announced last night that Mr. Arthur Henderson had cancelled an engagement to address a religious meeting this afternoon, and had refused to give any reason for his action. His son stated later that, after hearing the views of many local people, he felt assured that the hostile attitude towards his father did not truly indicate the sentiment of the community, and seemed to suggest that Mr. Arthur Henderson's social theories had become confused with Communism in certain minds.

The Irish Times.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1925.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

At a conference at Limerick yesterday between representatives of the Executive of the Irish Labour Party and the Limerick trades and Labour delegates on the Shannon power scheme wages dispute it was announced that agreement had been reached whereby a basis for negotiations between the Government and the Labour Party had been accepted.—(Page 7.)

In a speech which he delivered in Tralee yesterday, Archbishop Mannix declared that the Treaty was leading Ireland to political, national and economic ruin.—(Page 3.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Polling for a successor to Lord Birkenhead as Lord Rector of Glasgow University took place on Saturday, and resulted in the election of Mr. Austen Chamberlain.—(Page 7.)

ABROAD.

In a speech which he delivered yesterday at Chateau du Loir, M. Caillaux, the French Finance Minister, indicated that his financial policy would include progressive taxation severely hitting at opulence and a reduction of expenditure.—(Page 7.)

The Council of the League of Nations meet in Paris to-day to discuss the Græco-Bulgarian frontier incident.—(Page 7.)

Seventeen United States seaplanes were wrecked at Baltimore last night.—(Page 7.)

FINANCIAL.

In Lombard street on Saturday money was in ample supply, and loans till Monday were made at 3 per cent., and afterwards offered at 2½ per cent. Discounts were steady. The New York exchange improved to 4.84⅞, but French francs fell to 116.80.—(Page 4.)

New Crises.

The new political crisis in Germany, though it is very unfortunate, need not be taken too seriously. Irishmen will be reminded by it of the conflict of wills in this country which preceded the signature of the Anglo-Irish Treaty. The Nationalists, who help to form Herr Stresemann's Government, believe that the Government did not secure sufficiently favourable terms for Germany at Locarno; and now their leaders have refused to endorse the Pact. The decision was followed yesterday by a meeting of the Parliamentary group, which sanctioned the resignations of the three Nationalist Ministers in the Cabinet—the Ministers for the Interior, National Economy and Finance. It is possible that this action may be followed by the resignation of the whole Cabinet. The root of the trouble is the Socialists' decision to make their support of the Pact in the Reichstag conditional on the Nationalists' acceptance of it. A German Cabinet crisis certainly would involve delay in the final ratification of the Pact at London, and men of good-will everywhere would deplore such a result. At the worst, however, only a hitch—not a sorry annihilation of the peoples' hopes—is to be feared. The German Nationalists are not unanimous in their resistance to the Pact, and 51 of the 111 members of the Parliamentary group were absent from yesterday's meeting. Talk of an appeal to the country on the issue of the Pact is absurd; for at least four-fifths of the whole population is eager to secure its benefits. There is no real danger that Germany will withhold her signature from the guarantee of European peace.

That great instrument has given proof of its value to the world almost before the ink was dry upon the parchment. It is highly probable that, if the League of Nations had not won an enormous increase of power and prestige at Locarno, the Balkans, at the present moment, would have been ablaze. The merits—or demerits—of the conflict between Greece and Bulgaria are obscure. The Greeks declare that a Bulgarian soldier killed a Greek frontier sentinel on October 19th, and that Bulgarians entered, and still occupy, Greek territory. The Bulgarians maintain that the first shot was fired by Greeks, and it is certain that Greek troops have advanced into Bulgaria as far as Petritch, have shelled that open town, with some loss of Bulgarian life, and are still in position there. Bulgaria has appealed to the League of Nations, which has acted with admirable promptitude. The Bulgarian protest and appeal were received at Geneva at six o'clock on last Friday morning. Before noon M. Briand was busy upon many long-distance telephones, and the members of the League's Council were summoned to meet, this afternoon, in Paris. Mr. Austen Chamberlain, that weary Titan, will leave London this morning in obedience to the summons. In the meanwhile the League has been able to stop the outbreak of a war which must have been fought with extreme ferocity on both sides. The Bulgarian Government is "profoundly grateful" for the League's intervention, and the Greek Government has suspended its military operations.

Whatever the rights and wrongs of this Balkan quarrel may be, two things are essential—that the League's judgment shall be swift, clear and impartial, and that such sanctions as may be required for its enforcement shall be employed without the slightest hesitation. On two or three occasions in its feeble childhood the League either permitted itself to be defied with impunity or gave an obviously timid and time-serving decision. To-day such conduct might be very hurtful to the world's peace, and there would be no sort of excuse for it. Locarno has made the League de jure the final arbiter of the peace of Europe. It remains for the League itself to put that authority on a de facto basis by a firm and, if need be, full use of its powers in all future emergencies. We may be sure that its handling of the Balkan crisis will be followed with the closest attention in Germany, where it may have a large influence on the Reichstag's attitude to the Pact. Soviet Russia, too, will be anxious to ascertain the measure of courage and decision which the League is likely to oppose to her intrigues. Such considerations cannot be absent from Mr. Chamberlain's mind this afternoon in Paris. We may note here that Glasgow University has reflected the sound political sense of the British people by the election of Mr. Chamberlain as its Lord Rector, with a substantial majority over Mr. G. K. Chesterton and a crushing majority over Mr. Sidney Webb. It is the vir justus ac tenax propositi, not the coruscating man of letters or the encyclopædic economist, to whom England always has owed her guiding voice in the councils of Europe.

An English Hollywood.

A British film, "The Only Way," in which Sir John Martin Harvey plays his popular part of Sidney Carton, has been rejected for exhibition in the United States on the ground that there is no American "star" in the caste. The rejection of "The Only Way" probably will strike a death-blow at the slender hope of Anglo-American co-operation in the production of films, and those who have been advocating a national effort to establish an independent industry in England will be strengthened in their cause. It has been suggested that the site of the Empire Exhibition at Wembley shall be transformed into a British Hollywood, or centre of film production. In a few days the great imperial demonstration will be brought to a close, and the directors of the vast enterprise will have to address themselves to the profitable disposal of the buildings. The palaces and pavilions, the African forts and many model houses of different types, the lakes, roads, parks and the vast Stadium itself would supply a rich variety of ready-made scenery for the purposes of film photography. There is a common notion that the climate of these islands must impose a permanent handicap on film-producers; but the truth is that an ever-larger proportion of film photography is done within studios and by artificial light. The real objection to the scheme is economic. While Hollywood has permanent buildings covering a larger area than the Exhibition grounds at Wembley, it has built them progressively; but to take over what may be called a complete town would involve a huge capital outlay, followed by large expenditure in upkeep of portions for which no immediate use could be found. Nevertheless, England must have its Hollywood sooner or later; for the American monopoly cannot be endured for ever. State aid may be necessary for the revival and secure establishment of the film industry in England. It might take the form of assistance in the provision of grounds and buildings, seconded by legislation like that already contemplated, ensuring for British films an increasing share in every cinematograph performance up to 50 per cent. of the selections shown. British interests and British dignity demand early action in some effective form. In the Old World a revolt against the Californian monopoly is growing. Holland has adopted laws restricting the increase of picture theatres and giving drastic powers of censorship to local authorities. Films approved by the State Censor may be rejected by the municipal councils. These laws have been provoked by the low standards of the new American art, and they throw into high relief the need of a more vigorous European production of films. It would not be surprising if the time should come when Europe will show as cold a welcome to trans-Atlantic films as America has shown to "The Only Way."

"The Off-Side Rule."

Motor car accidents in England now number, on an average, three a day. In the endeavour to lessen the dangers of the roads it is proposed to amend the rules of traffic. A large proportion of accidents, grave or trivial, occurs at cross-roads; for at such points misconception easily arises as to the duty of yielding place. The rough rule, commonly accepted, is for drivers on by-roads to yield place to vehicles on main roads. This, in fact, springs from an instinctive source. The motorist who is on a main road claims the right to make good speed along it, and holds it sufficient to keep a watchful eye on little lanes abutting on the highway. The car-driver who is approaching through by-ways a main artery of traffic spontaneously slows up and enters the great thoroughfare with caution. On the other hand, it often happens that roads crossing each other are of equal breadth and importance, and here there is no guide to the motorist on either as to his obligation. If there is no traffic officer on duty, motorists on both roads should drive slowly; but, if traffic is scanty, there is temptation to speed across the clear space. Which car is to give way if two, by crossing paths, threaten to collide? A rule newly devised by the Automobile Association, and submitted to the chief constables for Great Britain and to the Government authorities concerned, proposes an easy solution for this problem. The rule is: "Watch for traffic at cross-roads and junctions approaching on your right, and, all things being equal, give way to it." An example will make this principle clear. If the rule were adopted in Dublin, a car approaching Sackville street from Middle Abbey street would give way to a car passing up Sackville street from the direction of the river. The car in Sackville street, however, would yield to one crossing from Lower to Middle Abbey street. This "offside rule," if adopted in England, should be enforced also in Ireland, since uniformity of traffic regulations is necessary if drivers accustomed to a given set of rules are not to incur and to create danger.

Language Undefiled.

"The French-Canadian language is the purest, clearest and most genuine French spoken," says a correspondent of the Petit Parisien, commenting on the nomination of Senator Dandurand, a French-Canadian, as President of the League of Nations for the current year. The Hon. L. J. Lemieux, Agent-General for Quebec in London, recently made a similar claim, when he said that the French spoken by four and a half millions of his compatriots was the language of Louis XIV., kept intact and saved from the corruption which has invaded the French spoken in the Motherland. French, as spoken and written in Canada, has become the medium of no inconsiderable literature, and "Maria Chapdelaine," a tale of stern life among Canadian snows, not merely became one of the "best-sellers" of recent times in France, but is a novel which critics have hailed as a masterpiece of fine, plain writing. The Latin tongues seem to endure transplantation without injury. Spanish-American writers such as Rubén Darío, Julián del Casal and Gutiérrez Nájera have wrung new values from the Castillian vocabulary without debasing it. Save in Ireland English has fared worse. The Irish countryman in vocabulary and pronunciation comes nearer to Shakespeare than the modern Englishman, and what are taken for errors of ignorance often are relics of old usages. In the Irish countryside we hear the word "notice" used as in old-time English, in the sense of "notify" or "command." Thus, when we hear that men are noticed to come early to work, we understand that they were instructed by notification, not that they were observed. So, too, in pronunciation our country people are at one with Polonius when he said:

. . . These few precepts in thy memory
See thou character.

Many a brief, pithy word survives in Irish speech after it has been replaced in England by cumbrous phraseology. It is well that we still can hear in Ireland the word "vex" or "irk"—which is all but dead across the Channel—in place of "give annoyance."

FRIEDA HEMPEL AS HERSELF.

SUCCESSFUL CELEBRITY CONCERT.

Madame Frieda Hempel's "Jenny Lind" concert last year gave general pleasure, and left a wish to hear—as the announcement of last Saturday's Celebrity Concert at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, stated—"Hempel as Herself."

Her programme on this occasion—unrestricted by the former limitation of period and style—ranged over Handel, Bishop and Bellini, the German Lieder school, old English hymns, modern French songs, a vocal version of the "Blue Danube" waltz, and (among encore songs) sentimental ballads of four English-speaking peoples. It was hard to decide whether she was more pleasing in the light agilities of such things as the Handel air, "O had I Jubal's Lyre," and Delibes' "Filles de Cadiz," or in the more deliberate beauties of Schubert's "Ave Maria," and the old English "Alleluia" and "Vesper Hymn."

On the whole, one concluded that Madame Hempel is most herself in arch, "small" music like "Should he Upbraid," "Fairy Pipers," and "The Cuckoo Clock," while her pure and touching delivery of old, favourite airs like "Home, Sweet Home" and "The Last Rose of Summer" is not beneath notice.

TOUCHING DELIVERY.

She excels on the "small" side of vocalism. Even when she drew on the German song-masters, it was to take Schubert's "An die Laute," Brahms' "Sandman" lullaby, and Wolf's joyous little outburst of greeting to Spring—"Er ist's." On reflection, one must choose the Wolf song as her best single performance of the afternoon. She forgot mannerism as she sang it, and uttered the song as a spontaneous outpouring of joyful greeting. The other two songs mentioned she gave as beautifully shaped bits of vocalism. Schubert's "Ave Maria" she sang, unfortunately, in German that rasped, where the Latin is liquid. If it had to be translated, English would have seemed better than German.

Madame Hempel's posing for her songs does not please everybody, and the colour-notes of her dress were distracting to some. Both these things, one would suggest, were out of accord with the essential "homeliness" of her vocal style.

Mr. John Amadio must now be reckoned as one of the "celebrities," and no longer a mere obbligato player, trailed in the wake of a prima donna. Some other flautists have matched Mr. Amadio in skill and musical feeling; but no other that we can remember has known how to present his work to an audience so attractively. The aria from Bellini's "I Puritani" was noteworthy as much for Mr. Amadio's part in it as for Madame Hempel's singing. His solo number in the programme—a Concertino, by Chaminade—was no mere filling-up item, but a performance equal in value with the best of Madame Hempel's. The three encores (which included Bemberg's "Chanson Hindoue," beautifully played on the bass flute), proved that the audience was by no means impatient to see him make way for the singer.

In such a programme pianoforte solos inevitably obtained small attention, though Mr. Clarence Raybould brought forward some interesting music. In the circumstances, one was impressed rather by the skill he displayed in accompaniment.

THE DEATH OF LORD HENLEY.

NEWS BROKEN GENTLY BY RADIO.

The death has occurred suddenly of Lord Henley.

A message, in which he was described as being "seriously ill" and asking Lady Henley to communicate with his sister, the Hon. Gertrude Henley, was broadcast from 2LO.

The Hon. Gertrude Henley, who asked that Lady Henley should communicate with her at 27 Queen's Gardens, S.W., adopted this means of breaking the news gently.

Lord Henley, who was born in 1858, succeeded his brother in the title in 1923. The title is Irish, dating back to 1797. With it there goes the title of Baron Northington in the United Kingdom.

The late Peer had an adventurous life. He is described in the Peerage as a civil engineer, but he had also been employed at various times as an auctioneer, a tobacconist, a financial agent, and a cigarette manufacturer.

The new Peer is his half-brother, the Hon. Anthony Morton.

DEAN WELLDON AND LUXURY LIVING.

ANNUAL DRINK BILL FOUR HUNDRED MILLION POUNDS.

Speaking at Jarrow yesterday, Dean Welldon said that, while he did not take an extravagant view, the country could not afford, when there was so much unemployment, a drink bill of £400,000,000, or the scenes of luxury and dissipation at race meetings. He did not look upon the miners as immaculate, but did not say something about them without, if necessary, speaking about others. The luxury seen in London was not necessary. More sympathy should be shown with the poor and needy.

LATE LORD RIBBLESDALE.

The funeral of the late Lord Ribblesdale, a former Master of the Royal Buck Hounds, took place at eleven o'clock last Saturday morning at Gisburne, near Clitheroe, and at the same hour a Service in his memory was held at St. Mark's Church, North Audley street.

Among the members of a distinguished congregation at the London Service were the Earl of Lucan (representing the King), Sir Malcolm Murray (representing the Duke of Connaught), and Lord Stamfordham (Private Secretary to the King). The relatives present included the Earl and Countess of Oxford and Asquith, Mr. and Mrs. Tennant and Lady Lovat.

MEMORIAL TO 2ND KING EDWARD'S HORSE.

General Seely, in whose brigade the regiment served in France, will unveil to-morrow afternoon a memorial to the officers and men of the 2nd King Edward's Horse, which has been placed in the Royal Colonial Institute. This regiment was the only regiment entirely fitted out by private enterprise. Fighting at first as unmounted troops in the Ypres salient, the regiment took part in most of the heavy battles of 1915, and was eventually absorbed into other branches of the Service.

The memorial is a large tablet of pinkish-grey Derbyshire stone, so placed in the walls of the Royal Colonial Institute that it will fit into the scheme of rebuilding.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

To-day the Queen will visit King's Lynn and will open the Queen Mary Hostel for Nurses, which has just been completed. The Duchess of York has contracted a cold, and was unable to accompany the Duke of York to Norwich last Saturday, when he attended the centenary celebrations at the Museum, which were carried out with much ceremony and were attended by large crowds.

The Duke of Connaught will leave Bagshot Park to-day for Paris, en route for the Riviera, where he will spend the winter at the Villa Les Bruyères, Cap Ferrat. Prince and Princess Arthur of Connaught are fulfilling a number of engagements in London. They have promised to attend a dinner at the Savoy Hotel next month, when the Earl of Balfour and Sir Robert Horne will speak on behalf of the British Empire Leprosy Relief Association.

Prince Christopher of Greece is spending a few days in London. The Duke of Alba and Berwick, who arrived in England last week, is staying with Lord Revelstoke at Carlton House terrace. The Marquis and Marchioness of Tweeddale are settled at their residence in Gloucester square. The Marquis of Anglesey, who hitherto has not owned a residence in London, has purchased a fine house at Queen's Gate, where he and the Marchioness of Anglesey will spend the season.

The Duke and Duchess of Portland returned to Welbeck Abbey last Saturday from Scotland, where they spent the past month at Langwell, Caithness. After a short stay in London the Marchioness of Lansdowne returned to Bowood Park last week. The Marchioness of Londonderry has arrived at Mountstewart, Newtownards, from Wynyard Park. Lady Dorothy D'Oyly Carte has returned from Paris and is spending the week-end in Devonshire.

The Earl and Countess of Dartrey will return this week from Hungary, where they have been visiting their youngest daughter, Lady Eleanor Kiss, at Balaton Almadi. Lady Eleanor and her two sisters are co-heiresses to their mother, who is Baroness de Ros in her own right. She is the twenty-fifth holder of the title, which is the premier Barony of England, dating back to 1285.

The Governor of Malta, General Sir Walter Congreve, V.C., and Lady Congreve left London last Saturday for Malta. Major-General Sir Walter and Lady Leslie, Sir Lancelot Sanderson, Lieutenant-General Sir Charles Richardson, Sir Richard and Lady Gull, Sir Frederick and Lady Jackson and Sir Hormusjee Dinshaw are among the passengers now on their way to India and the Far East. Sir Francis and Lady Colchester-Wemyss have sailed by the ss. Narkunda for Sydney, and Captain Sir Charles and Lady Campbell are on their way to New Zealand.

Viscount Tarbat, who attained his majority last Saturday, is the elder son of the Countess of Cromartie and Lieutenant-Colonel Edward Walter Blunt, who assumed on his marriage the additional surname of Mackenzie. The title of Countess of Cromartie, together with the Viscountcy of Tarbat, the Barony of Castlehaven and the Barony of Macleod, was conferred in 1861 on Anne, only child of John Hay Mackenzie and wife of the third Duke of Sutherland, with special remainder to her second son and afterwards to her other children in priority of birth. After a short abeyance (1893-95) the honours were confirmed to the present Countess of Cromartie, daughter of the late Earl, who was the second holder of the title. Lord Tarbat has one brother, the Hon. Walter Osra Blunt Mackenzie, and one sister, Lady Isobel.

Miss de Sales Magennis has returned to town.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S RETURN TO IRELAND.

TOUR IN SPAIN AND FRANCE.

The Governor-General of the Irish Free State, Mr. T. M. Healy, who has been spending a holiday on the Continent, returned to Ireland on Saturday morning, landing at Queenstown from the Canadian Pacific liner s.s. Melita, on which he made the journey from Cherbourg.

Mr. Healy told an interviewer that he had been away for nearly a month, mostly in Spain, and he had also visited various places in France.

ENGLAND'S 80 PER CENT. IN THE WAR.

PRESENTATION OF SHOOTING TROPHY.

"People who during the war were apt to belittle England forgot that over 80 per cent. of the British Army who fought for us were English and that their casualties were correspondingly great."

This statement was made by the Lord Mayor of London (Sir Alfred Bower) in the Mansion House, London, last Saturday, when he received the custody of the Elcho Shield—the great international shooting trophy shot for annually at the National Rifle Association meeting at Bisley—afterwards presenting the Territorial Ambulance Shield to the 143rd Field Ambulance, South Midland Division, Birmingham, who were awarded the trophy as the most efficient team in ambulance work.

The Elcho Shield is shot for by teams of eight representing England, Scotland and Ireland. England has won it on thirty-two occasions, Ireland fourteen times, and Scotland thirteen times. This year the English team captured the trophy after a closely contested match with a score of 1,706 points out of a possible 1,800, defeating Scotland by the narrow margin of two points.

After the presentation the Lord Mayor gave a luncheon. Lord Cottesloe proposed the health of the Lord Mayor, who briefly responded. Both paid tribute to the memory of the late Lord Cheylesmore for his services in improving the standard of shooting in the British Army.

Lord Trevor has been appointed magistrate for the County of Denbigh.

LONDON LETTER.

WILL INCOME TAX BE RAISED?

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer's hint that possibly he might have to restore part of the burden of income tax which he removed in the last Budget is not to be taken quite literally. No Chancellor can say beyond doubt what his position will be at the close of the financial year, and it is remembered that Mr. Churchill budgeted for only a comparatively small surplus. Then, the deficit on the seven months of the financial year is twice what it was at the same time last year; but things may be expected to right themselves, and Mr. Churchill need not fear a big deficit when he has to make up the national balance sheet. His hint is one that is addressed as much to Government officials as to the general public. Economy must be practised, and, since no Government likes to make an addition to the income tax, the present one will have to see that it is practised, or must be faced with the necessity of adding to the taxpayers' burden.

The League and the Balkans.

Mr. Chamberlain is leaving for Paris early to-morrow morning in order that he may take part in the special meeting of the Council which has been hastily summoned by the League of Nations to deal with the appeal made by Bulgaria against the action taken by Greece. A staff of officials will accompany Mr. Chamberlain. The news concerning the outbreak between Greece and Bulgaria today was considered to be hopeful, and it is thought now that all danger of war has been averted. Mr. Chamberlain returned home very tired after Locarno, and it is hoped at the Foreign Office that the Paris sittings may not be protracted.

Honour for Mr. Chamberlain.

It is rumoured in official circles that Mr. Chamberlain may be offered a high distinction as a mark of appreciation of his good work at Locarno. The Order of the Garter is suggested, but it is doubtful whether Mr. Chamberlain would care to become a Knight, as he necessarily must, should he accept the honour. It is characteristic of our statesmen that they are reluctant to accept honours of any kind while actually in office, but it is pointed out that the Garter was given to Sir Edward Grey and to Mr. Balfour in recognition of their great services in connection with foreign affairs.

Propaganda.

The speech made or not made by General John Charteris, M.P., in the United States regarding British propaganda during the war is likely to evoke fierce discussions when Parliament meets; for Mr. James Hudson, the Socialist member for Huddersfield, intends to raise the matter in the House of Commons, while other members also have decided to bring the question forward. In military circles no great importance is attached to the matter, and the view is that, if General Charteris made a speech, it is an affair for personal explanation by himself to the British public. It is declared, however, in these circles that it would be untrue to say that the British Intelligence and Propaganda Departments gave out false news during the war. They did their utmost to deal fairly with the mass of material at their command.

The Crisis in France.

The dangerous financial position in France promises to bring about another political crisis; for it is practically certain that the French Government will fall this week unless M. Caillaux withdraws from its ranks before it meets the Chamber. M. Caillaux has not proved the inspired financier that France thought him to be, and his newest programme of financial reform is regarded with suspicion and ill-concealed aversion by his fellow-Ministers. Inflation of the paper currency can only hasten the further downfall of the franc, which was quoted in London yesterday at 116.85 to the pound sterling—the lowest figure since March of last year. M. Caillaux is to outline his proposals to the French Cabinet to-morrow, and it is expected here that that will be the end of them. It would be unwise, however, to predict what a French Government in a very awkward position will do.

Dominion Loans.

Financial interests in the City of London continue to press the Treasury with a view to the removal of the embargo on the issue of foreign and Dominion securities in the London money market. The damage done by the embargo, it is claimed, extends far beyond the confines of the City, since it hits the manufacturing and industrial world very hard. If loans are refused to outside authorities, the money cannot be spent in giving orders for goods in this country, while, if they are granted in the United States, there is a keen market waiting there to snap up every order that is going. It is the great desire in the City that this condition of things shall be changed.

Liberal Revival.

There is a revival of Liberalism, it is said, and big numbers of young men are being recruited daily into the ranks of the party. It is reported by Liberal Associations all over the country that they are experiencing a steady growth of membership, and that the bulk of the new members are young. It is difficult to explain this revival unless the Labour ranks are losing supporters—men who are turning from the extreme principles advocated by so many of the leaders. Conservatism at present shows no sign of losing its supporters in any number, so Liberalism scarcely can be growing at its expense.

Manor Rolls.

The Records Office is making a big effort to secure, as far as possible, a complete register of the manors in England and Wales, and an appeal has been made to the lords or stewards—usually the county solicitor—of all manors to send in particulars. Under the Law of Property (Amendment) Act, 1924, which comes into force on January 1st, 1926, all manorial documents, though remaining the property and at present in possession of the lord of the manor, are placed under the charge and superintendence of the Master of the Rolls. He is empowered to ascertain if manorial documents are in proper custody and are being properly preserved. Particulars have been received in regard to nearly 4,000 manors.

The Closing of Wembley.

The closing ceremonial of the Empire Exhibition, on Saturday afternoon next, will be on the grand scale; for the programme will be long and highly interesting. The proceedings will open with a programme of music, and marching by the bands of the Brigade of Guards, massed pipers, massed drums and fifes. Guards of honour of all arms of the Services escorting the Dominion and Colonial standard-bearers will enter the area shortly before the arrival of the Duke of York at half-past three. An address by the Duke, with prayers by the Bishop of Willesden, and hymns by the Stadium choir, will follow. The retreat will then be sounded and the assemblage will sing "Land of Hope and Glory" and "Auld Lang Syne." A performance of the Tattoo and a great firework display in the evening will close the day.

The Prince of Wales left London yesterday for his hunting quarters at Melton Mowbray.

BALKAN CRISIS.

COUNCIL OF THE LEAGUE TO MEET TO-DAY.

NEW BULGARIAN PROTEST.

GREEK TROOPS ORDERED TO WITHDRAW.

MR. Austen Chamberlain leaves London for Paris to-day to attend a meeting of the Council of the League of Nations, summoned to deal with Bulgaria's appeal against the Greek invasion.

Opinion in London (says the Central News Political Correspondent) inclines to the view that the differences between these nations, though serious, will be found capable of control and solution, as a result of the League's influence.

The meeting of the Council of the League of Nations will take place this afternoon. The League's first business will be to hear the two sides, fix the responsibilities, and make an award. By Article 12 of the Covenant the parties to the dispute agree not to resort to war within three months.

The Bulgarian Minister in Paris, representing the Government at whose instance the Council has been summoned, will present the Bulgarian case at this opening meeting. The Greek Minister will reply. Reference of certain points to Sofia and Athens may then be necessary before the proceedings can be continued.

It is declared that further firing by Greek troops took place during the week-end, and that there have been additional Bulgarian casualties. The Bulgarian Government has addressed a further Note to the Council of the League of Nations protesting against the action of the Greeks.

It is stated in Sofia that the Bulgarians cannot withdraw from Greek territory, as ordered by M. Briand, because they never entered it. On the other hand, it is admitted by the Greek Government that their troops have invaded Bulgaria.

Reports of atrocities alleged to have been committed by Greek soldiers on the inhabitants of the invaded territory are being investigated. It is stated that many of the refugees from this area are suffering privations, as they were forced to leave their homes without food or sufficient clothing, and that they have since been compelled to sleep in the open.

BOMBARDMENT CONTINUES.

ALLEGED BULGARIAN ATROCITIES.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

LEVUNOVO, Saturday.

In spite of orders sent from Athens to stop the advance and cease fire, the Greeks continue to bombard the Bulgarians. This morning, for two hours, Greek artillery shelled the village of Pepernitza, near the Bulgarian front line, while this evening there was a short bombardment of Petritch.

It is stated that the Greeks justify their action on the ground that the Bulgarians do not allow them to occupy one of their frontier posts. This accusation does not seem to be justified. Meanwhile the Bulgarian artillery has not yet fired a single shot, but, naturally, all ranks are extremely discontented with the present state of affairs, which certainly cannot continue long.

Although the question of atrocities in the Balkans is always a difficult matter to elucidate, I have strong ground for believing that the behaviour of the Greek soldiers in the occupied Bulgarian villages has been very bad. Several peasant women have made complaints to me on this subject.

"KNIVES ON POLES."

When I visited the western part of the Bulgarian front I found that the line was held by a series of small posts, with patrols keeping contact between them. Rather more than a mile behind this front the rest of the Bulgarian forces were concentrated. These consist of infantry and frontier guards and a newly-arrived battery of mountain guns, but no cavalry.

On inquiring what the orders were I was met with the same reply everywhere—namely, that there was to be no offensive, but that any Greek advance was to be resisted. The local command has received repeated orders to avoid collisions with the Greeks, but these are unavoidable, the more so as all the male peasantry from the villages already occupied by the Greeks insist on helping the Bulgarian troops, and many volunteers from other parts of South-Western Bulgaria have also offered their services.

Perhaps, half of these possess some kind of firearms, but many are carrying knives tied to long poles, and have volunteered in order to defend what is left to them of Macedonia.

INVASION WITHOUT WARNING.

The smallness of the Bulgarian forces compared with the Greeks, combined with the Bulgarian lack of artillery and aeroplanes, would probably enable the Greeks to advance a good many miles into Bulgarian territory and easily occupy the country as far as the entrance to the Kresna Pass, some four hundred miles north of the present frontier.

Further than the Kresna they will hardly advance, unless they intend to march on Sofia. It is, however, considered more likely that the Greeks propose to occupy a line thirty miles long, running, roughly, east and west, and possibly including the three towns, Petritch, Melnik and Nevrokop. This territory they would presumably hold until Bulgaria should have given satisfaction for her alleged misdeeds.

Naturally, here I get an almost exclusively Bulgarian point of view, but the fact remains that an invasion of Bulgarian territory has taken place without any warning. This has caused great discontent, which may, and very likely will, develop into something worse. So far the Bulgarian Army and Militia have not resisted the Greek advances, but any moment they may begin to do so in spite of orders to the contrary from Sofia.

"FIRST SHOTS FIRED BY BULGARIANS."

ATHENS, Sunday.

The following official communiqué is issued here to-day:—

"A superior officer of the Third Army Corps, who was sent to the scene of the recent frontier incident to ascertain the responsibility for the firing at Demir Kapon, reports that the first shots were undoubtedly fired by Bulgarians on October 19 at 1.40 p.m., and that the Greek sentinel was killed on Greek territory. The sentinel's body was removed by the Bulgarians, and is still retained by them. His cap and arms were found on Greek territory two hours after the shooting."

"The officer adds that the Bulgarians yesterday evening were still occupying portions of Greek territory."

GREEKS TO RETIRE,

BUT BULGARIANS MUST ACT FIRST.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ATHENS, Sunday.

It is announced that orders have been issued to the Greek troops to withdraw to their original positions on the Greek side of the frontier as soon as the Bulgarians have evacuated that part of Greek territory which they still occupy.

ANOTHER PROTEST.

BULGARIA'S APPEAL TO M. BRIAND.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SOFIA, Saturday.

Colonel Kalfoff, the Minister for Foreign Affairs, has sent the following telegram to M. Briand, the President of the League of Nations Council:—

"I acknowledge the receipt of your telegram, dated yesterday, confirming the summoning of a special session of the Council in Paris on Monday, and I hasten to express the profound gratitude of the Bulgarian Government for the speed with which the Council and the Secretariat-General of the League have intervened in the Greco-Bulgarian conflict that has arisen owing to the invasion of Bulgarian territory by Greek troops.

"Having regard to its duty as a member of the League of Nations, the Royal Government, from the outset, gave categorical orders to Bulgarian troops to embark upon nothing which might make the situation more serious. Although Bulgarian troops have at no time entered Greek territory, fresh and urgent instructions have been given in the sense of

THE GREEK DEMANDS.

1—Apology for the incident on October 19, when a Greek sentry and an officer were killed.
2—Punishment of those responsible.
3—An indemnity of 6,000,000 drachmæ (about £16,000) for the relatives of the victims.

Your Excellency's recommendations.

"Unfortunately, I have to inform you that Greek troops still remain on Bulgarian territory, and that at the present moment (Saturday, 11 a.m.) their artillery continues to shell the open town of Petritch.

"Again protesting against this conduct, I pray Your Excellency to be good enough to intervene at once. The Bulgarian Government will be represented at the special sitting of the Council of the League of Nations by the Bulgarian Minister in Paris."

NO TROOPS ON GREEK TERRITORY.

"AEROPLANE BOMBS ON PETRICH."

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

SOFIA, Sunday.

The decision of the League of Nations is being hopefully awaited in Bulgarian circles. The general conviction here is that the Greek Government intentionally prepared for the invasion some time ago, in order to divert attention from the Greek political situation.

The situation at Petritch is unchanged. The Greek troops have not advanced further, but reports state that musketry fire is intermittent at numerous points. From reports received by the Bulgarian War Department, it is stated that two battalions of Greek troops are at present on a crest two miles from Petritch on the Petritch-to-Ponitza road. Two other battalions of Greek troops are reported to be on the left of the Struma, south of the village of Marekostinowo.

The other Greek front is declared to extend for half a mile to a mile on Bulgar territory. The Bulgarian authorities declare that Greek refugees from Anatolia, who have been settled by the Greek Government on the frontier, joined the Greek troops in invading Bulgarian soil, robbing and sacking the peasantry of grain and tobacco stocks, and furniture.

Numerous Bulgarian frontier sentry buildings are also reported to have been burnt by the Greek troops. According to the Bulgarians, Greek aeroplanes dropped

HEAVY LOSS TO U.S. NAVY.

BEACH STREWN WITH DEBRIS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BALTIMORE, Sunday.

Seventeen out of twenty-three American navy seaplanes, which were here for the naval pageant opening to-morrow, broke from their moorings in a 75-miles-an-hour gale, and the wreckage was strewn along the beach to-night.

Seven of the derelicts are total wrecks. Some others may be partially salvaged.

There was nobody aboard the 'planes when the gale struck them.

MORE BRITISH ILL-LUCK.

WEATHER CONDITIONS CAUSE BREAKDOWN.

BALTIMORE, Saturday.

The Schneider Cup race has been postponed until Monday owing to strong easterly winds and rain.

Mr. Hinckler, piloting the reserve Gloster-Napier seaplane, went out this morning to carry out the "reliability" qualification test for the race.

When half a mile off the shore the machine "nozed" through a welter of white-capped waves, but failed to rise, and the machine was towed in.

The British team, in consequence, announce that no further attempt will be made to enter a second machine unless the weather conditions necessitate the postponement of the race itself.

When the Super-Marine crashed yesterday the British team immediately began tuning up the second machine, which had not yet flown in America.

Mr. Hinckler took the air, but the breaking of a wing bracing wire forced him to return.

When the repair was effected darkness was fast gathering, and the captain of the team, Mr. Wilson, ordered the attempt to qualify to be abandoned as the test would be dangerous.

Bert Hinckler was in the cockpit with his engine running when the order came, and expressed the greatest disappointment, declaring that he was ready to take the risk.

Mr. Wilson's decision left only Captain Broad, in the Gloster-Napier III., to compete for Great Britain, but late yesterday evening the five American and Italian pilots signed a petition asking that Mr. Hinckler be permitted to qualify this morning before the race.

Mr. Ericson, the referee, acquiesced, and said Mr. Hinckler would be permitted to compete in the race if his machine qualified.

Captain Biard, whilst he is not seriously hurt, is in an extremely nervous condition following his wreck, and has not yet been closely questioned regarding the probable cause of his crash.—(Reuter.)

BAD WEATHER FORECASTED.

The Times Special Correspondent at Baltimore telegraphed yesterday:—Regarding the Schneider Cup air race, the Weather Bureau forecasts North-Westerly gales with storm warnings displayed along the Atlantic coast from the Delaware River northwards. The postponement may, however, prove a stroke of good fortune for the British team. The snapping of a bracing wire on Friday afternoon prevented Mr. Bert Hinkler from completing the preliminary trials on the reserve Gloster Napier before dusk. He made a second attempt yesterday morning, but it was too rough on the Chesapeake. Should the weather moderate this afternoon or early to-morrow he will endeavour to qualify, thus taking the place of the destroyed supermarine Napier S 4 in the race.

REPORTED EXECUTION OF ARCOS DIRECTOR.

STARTLING STORY FROM MOSCOW.

RIGA, Sunday.

Travellers arriving here report that, according to rumours current in Moscow, M. Kviatkovsky, former London Director of the Arcos Co., has been shot. According to the version of the affair that has found widest currency, the Soviet Government has repeatedly requested M. Kviatkovsky to come to Moscow, and he did not comply with this request. Then Moscow apparently dropped the matter, but when Kviatkovsky eventually returned on furlough he was immediately arrested and shot without trial. It has been impossible up to the present to obtain confirmation of this report.—(Reuter.)

THE GARTER FOR MR. CHAMBERLAIN.

A SEQUEL TO THE LOCARNO CONFERENCE.

FROM THE CENTRAL NEWS CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Sunday.

There is general expectation that a signal honour will be paid to Mr. Chamberlain to mark his success at the Locarno Conference.

It is rumoured that he may be made a Knight of the Garter. This, the most ancient of the British Orders of Chivalry, was conferred a few months ago on the Earl of Oxford and Asquith, and is also worn by two other ex-Premiers—the Earl of Rosebery and the Earl of Balfour.

Mr. Chamberlain's war-time predecessor at the Foreign Office, Viscount Grey, is a Knight of the Garter, as was the late Marquess Curzon.

AMERICAN LOAN TO THE VATICAN.

ROME, Sunday.

For the first time in history, the Vatican has concluded a loan with America, amounting to 1¼ million dollars. Cardinal Gasparri signed the contract here, and Mgr. Hayes, Archbishop of New York, signed it there with the Chase Blair Bank of New York. The money is required to purchase a villa adjoining the Vatican, whither the Department of Propaganda and the American College will be transferred.—(Reuter.)

LOCARNO PACT CRISIS.

SPLIT IN GERMAN CABINET.

3 MINISTERS RESIGN.

POSSIBLE GENERAL ELECTION.

FOLLOWING the decision of the German Nationalist Party Executive, that the Pact agreed to at Locarno by Herr Luther and Herr Stresemann is impossible of acceptance, the National Party in the Reichstag, at a meeting yesterday, approved the decision of their representatives in the Cabinet, Herr Schiele, Minister of the Interior; Dr. Neuhas, Minister of National Economy; and Dr. Von Schlienben, Minister of Finance, are to tender their resignations. The new situation which is thus created may result in the dissolution of the Reichstag and an appeal to the country on the issue of the Locarno Treaties, unless a way out of the impasse is found at the eleventh hour.

Discussing the new turn of events, Herr Stresemann's own organ, the Tägliche Rundschau, foresees the resignation of the whole Cabinet, followed by a crisis which would make Hindenburg's continued occupancy of the Presidency an impossibility. It states: "The whole work of the German Cabinet during the past ten months is in danger of being rendered null and void, leaving a wreck behind."

The trouble, it appears, has arisen from the Socialist decision not to vote for acceptance of the Pact if the Nationalists refuse it, as they do not intend to relieve the strongest party in the Cabinet of the great responsibility entailed.

This decisive step on the part of the Nationalists, though unexpected, is not likely to affect the signing of the Pact in its final form. There is no danger of evasion, as events have proceeded so far at Locarno that no withdrawal is possible. It may be, however, that a short delay may occur before the Germans come to London in December, as agreed.

The great majority of the German people hold the view that the best has been made of the bargain, and should the present crisis culminate in a general election, they would vote in favour of it.

GAPS MAY BE FILLED

"LOCARNO OR NOT LOCARNO?"

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

The unexpected decision of the German National Party to withdraw their three Ministers from the Cabinet, as a token of the party's dissatisfaction with the Locarno Agreemnt, has created a complicated political situation, and at the moment it is impossible to say what the next development will be.

It is, however, generally assumed that Dr. Luther will fill the Cabinet gaps with Under-Secretaries, and will then submit the Locarno Agreement for the ratification of the Reichstag when it re-assembles in the middle of next month. If the Socialist Party votes for the Treaty it is certain of a safe passage; but they do not wish to allow the German Nationalists to escape responsibility for the acceptance of the Treaty, and are, therefore, talking of refraining from voting for the Treaty unless the Nationalists do so. The Socialist argument is that if the Locarno Treaty is passed by the Reichstag against the votes of the Nationalists the latter will tell the country that it was only their party which voted against the voluntary renunciation of Alsace-Lorraine and other German land, and will thereby gain prestige at the expense of the democratic parties and be absolved from all responsibility for the Treaty.

THE COUNTRY'S REPLY.

If the Socialists decide to adopt this policy of abstention there would appear to be no alternative for the Chancellor but to dissolve the Reichstag and appeal to the country on the straight question of "Locarno, or not Locarno?" and there is not much doubt as to the country's reply. An election, however, could scarcely be held before December 1st, so that the ratification of the Locarno Treaty would have to be postponed so far as Germany is concerned. It is worthy of note that only sixty members of the National Party attended this evening's meeting out of 111, so that nearly half the party's members did not have the courage to come into the open and show their colours. It is generally felt that the party's tactics during the past week and to-day's vote have done it no good throughout the country, and that the electorate will remember this should events make a dissolution necessary.

It is stated that the main factor which induced the German National Party to vote against the Locarno agreement was its dissatisfaction with the "vague promises" made by the Allies regarding the amelioration of the régime in the Rhineland and the evacuation of the Cologne zone. The Nationalists say that not a single written guarantee on these points has been given, and that consequently a change in the Government of an Allied country might well result in a complete change of policy towards Germany. Herr Stresemann's efforts to overcome these objections were without avail.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

CRITICAL SITUATION.

From the moment of the passage of Friday's resolution the political situation became critical, although a Cabinet crisis did not immediately follow. The Cabinet met yesterday morning, and in the afternoon and during to-day negotiations were carried on with the Nationalist Party. It was hoped that the President would use his influence in favour of allowing the Cabinet to carry through its Locarno policy, as he was understood to take the view that since the Nationalist Ministers had approved that policy they ought to be able to stand by it. That, however, was when everything was thought to depend upon the decision of the Parliamentary group, but by the time the group met in the Reichstag at 6 o'clock this evening the position had been changed by the decision of the Ministers themselves to resign.

COLOGNE, Saturday.

After discussing the results of the Locarno Conference, so far as their province is concerned, the Rhineland Provincial Committee adopted, against the vote of the Communist representative, the following resolution:—"The Provincial Committee is painfully disappointed at the absence of a definite written undertaking for the evacuation of the Cologne zone, for a considerable reduction in the occupation periods of the other zones, and also for a complete alteration in the Occupation régime. The Committee expects immediate satisfaction of the above-mentioned demands of the Rhineland."—(Reuter.)

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE.

CATTLE AFFECTED NEAR COVENTRY.

The Department of Lands and Agriculture are officially informed by the British Ministry of Agriculture that an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease has been confirmed at Exhall, near Coventry, Warwickshire.

The Ministry have taken the usual precautions to prevent the spread of the disease, and have issued an Order prohibiting the movement of animals over a large area surrounding the infected place.

Village children in the North Riding of Yorkshire have been given a week's holiday to assist in the potato harvest.

WHAT IS WRONG WITH TRADE?

SHIPBUILDERS IDLE: SILK MERCHANTS BUSY.

PERSONAL TOUCH LOST IN BIG BUSINESSES.

Lecturing on "Some Causes of Industrial Unrest," in London yesterday, Sir Thomas Royden, the Chairman of the Cunard Steamship Co., said that there was something wrong with the industrial machine, when they saw the staple industries in a state of approaching collapse, while the profits of the brewer, tobacco merchant, and manufacturer of artificial silk stockings were such as never were made by them before.

Speaking of the popular conception of the capitalist, he said that the truth was that the average shareholder in big industrial concerns was the small man, whose investment represented thrift and self-denial.

In the Cunard Company, with 11 millions capital and Debentures, there were 27,100 shareholders whose average holdings were under £400.

Ninety per cent. of the investors in Great Britain were hard-working people.

Dealing with strikes, he said, that grave difficulties had been caused by the advent of big industrial corporations, and one of the unhappy results was the loss of touch between the employers and the employed. Unless some means could be discovered whereby the personal contact and interest between those at the top and at the bottom of an industrial concern could be revived, industrial unrest, misunderstandings and strikes would continue.

UNITED STATES PRESIDENCY.

MR. COOLIDGE WILL STAND AGAIN.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CHICAGO, Sunday.

Will President Coolidge be a candidate for the United States Presidency for another term? That is the question which is being generally asked here. Indications point to there not being any doubt that he will.

There does not appear to be anything or anyone capable of taking the Republican nomination away from him in 1928 if he desires it. One might even go further and say that there is no leader in sight in the Democratic Party who could hope to beat the President for re-election if the mood of the country in 1928 is what it is to-day.

In all probability Calvin Coolidge will continue to be the head of the American Republic until March 4th, 1933. These views are based on the remarkable popularity of the present matter-of-fact President, a man lacking personal magnetism and the usual arts of appeal to the imagination of the multitude.

It is taken for granted that President Coolidge, as the Republican candidate for re-election, will be the champion of national prohibition as the paramount issue in the 1928 elections, although it is well known that the attempt to suppress the consumption of intoxicating beverages by constitutional amendment does not accord with his political philosophy.

GLASGOW RECTORIAL ELECTION.

MR. CHAMBERLAIN WINS.

The result of the election for the Lord Rectorship of Glasgow University was announced last Saturday as follows:—

Mr. A. Chamberlain (C.)	1,242
Mr. G. K. Chesterton (L.) ...	968
Mr. Sidney Webb (Lab.)	285
Conservative Majority ...	274

The announcement of Mr. Chamberlain's success was preceded by wild scenes on the part of students.

During Friday night all sorts of missiles, secretly accumulated in depôts throughout the city, were taken to the University grounds for use in the traditional fight for the polling booth entrances.

Over 20,000 unfit eggs and several tons of peasemeal, as well as soot, cod heads and bad herrings, were brought up to the front by motor-lorry. Long before the booths opened at nine o'clock several conflicts had occurred, the three parties indulging in the wildest horse-play.

Even the stately buildings of the University were blotched with exploded "shells" whose contents dripped from the portals. The partisans were covered with a sort of dazzle mixture of soot and meal, and in the struggle some had their clothing torn off. Many carried bruises and other injuries before the "cease fire" was sounded at noon to allow the non-combatants to vote before the polls closed at one o'clock.

INJURED STUDENTS.

Four students were injured and were taken to the infirmary. The most seriously hurt was David Ross, who was badly crushed.

About 20 girl students began a fight among themselves, the object being to capture the rosettes of rival partisans. Their struggles caused great amusement, and in the fray several lost their hats. Scarves were torn and some of the girls were thrown down on the wet grass.

The campaign, which had lasted two weeks, was brought to a close on Friday night with social gatherings in the three camps. In the union the Unionist forces harboured their warriors overnight, and there they bivouacked and breakfasted before the conflict. The Liberals established themselves in a city smokeroom, and slept in their fighting kit. Labour had their concentration camp in a city hall.

Several Unionist students spent the night in the clock tower, and the banner of the party was unfurled from the turret, while blue balloons floated in the breeze.

Most of the Unionists had put on boiler suits, and some wore masks. Each carried a large brown bag of ammunition. The fight was quickly joined. Couples rolled on the ground in fierce combat, and several were seen to leave the "ranks" and lie down on the grass, absolutely "all-in."

The injuries were caused when a Liberal motor-lorry full of ammunition arrived in front of the University. There was a stampede of Unionists to gain possession, and in the rush two students were hurt. The wheels of the lorry passed over the toes of one of them. The other, who was crushed, was taken to the Western Infirmary in an ambulance.

The Queen Margaret Union had several windows broken.

ELECTRIC STATION HOLD-UP.

BREAKDOWN CAUSED BY A MOUSE.

At eleven o'clock on Friday morning the transmitting apparatus of the high power station at Daventry refused to work.

After an exhaustive examination it was discovered that the cause of the breakdown was the presence of an infant mouse on the plates of one of the main condensers. The mouse had been electrocuted, but its body prevented the oscillation necessary for the transmission of signals.

The mouse weighed less than a quarter of an ounce, but caused a hold up for twelve minutes.

LATE NEWS.

CANADA AND THE LOCARNO PACT.

PRIME MINISTER'S STATEMENT.

OTTAWA, Sunday.

Replying to an open letter from Mr. John S. Ewart, K.C., the well-known student of and writer on Canadian Constitutional and Foreign Relations problems, Mr. Mackenzie King, the Prime Minister of Canada, in a public statement that answered Mr. Ewart's question as to whether Canada should become a party to the Locarno Security Pact, said that the terms of the Pact about which Europe was now rejoicing constituted one of the greatest treaties in history. It recognised the acceptance of what Canada and all the other Dominions had asserted at Imperial Conferences—namely, that no self-governing Dominion can be committed to a British Treaty, except with the consent of its own Government and Parliament.

Mr. King added—"The people of Canada can be trusted to do what is right and expected of them. Parliament will rise to the occasion when it is necessary to take action, but it is a mistake to raise any controversy on this issue at present, since no request has yet come to us."

A letter received by Mr. Ewart from Mr. Meighen, leader of the Opposition, on the same subject, says:—"The question of ratifying the Pact is not at present opportune, pending a settlement of domestic problems in the present election, and without an opportunity properly to study the terms of the Treaty."

Mr. Meighen declines to commit himself, saying that the whole matter will necessarily be subject to the decision of Parliament.—(Reuter.)

BULGARIA AND GREECE.

TO-DAY'S MEETING OF LEAGUE COUNCIL.

The Times, discussing in a leading article the situation created by the Greek invasion of Bulgarian territory, which is to be considered to-day by the Council of the League of Nations' meeting in Paris, observes:—It is clear that, whatever provocation may have been offered by the Bulgars, the counter-measures of General Pangalos did not commend themselves to the professional diplomatist, M. Rentis, the experienced Greek Foreign Minister. The temporary successor to M. Rentis, Admiral Hajikyriakos, is, no doubt, a dashing seaman, but boisterous incidents in his Parliamentary history hardly suggest that he possesses the calm and poise required by a Foreign Minister at the present juncture. Now that the League has taken cognisance of the dispute, it is to be hoped that the Greek Premier will abate his noble rage and desist from his intention of continuing to occupy Bulgarian territory pending the receipt of satisfaction for an incident, the causes of which no impartial body has investigated. His refusal to withdraw his forces in spite of the invitation of the League Council, would cause general regret among the friends of Greece in Western Europe, though it might win the approval of those Governments which fear nothing so much as an understanding between the Balkan States. The promptitude with which M. Briand has summoned the League Council augurs well for the speedy settlement of a quarrel which has already been attended by a regrettable loss of life.

It would be preposterously illogical, not to say immoral, for two members of the League and signatories of the Covenant to engage in mutual hostilities without referring their dispute to its arbitration.

THE KING'S ROLL.

LABOUR MINISTER'S INTENTION

The Times Parliamentary Correspondent writes:—Considerable satisfaction has been expressed by supporters of the King's Roll at the announcement made by the Minister of Labour, Sir Arthur Steel Maitland, at Liverpool on Friday, that the Government propose to ask Parliament to emphasise the present practice of only giving State contracts to firms on the King's Roll by passing a resolution on the subject. It has not yet been decided whether the resolution shall be introduced in the autumn session or in the early part of next year, but it will be proposed either by the Ministry of Labour himself or by Colonel V. L. Henderson, M.P., the Honorary Secretary of the King's Roll National Council.

The National Council have also asked the Minister whether he can see his way to approach the Treasury with a view to more favourable consideration being given to the possibility of putting the grants to the special workshops employing only disabled men on a more generous basis. Statistics on the subject are being collected and the point is under consideration.

UNDERGRADUATE'S DEATH ON THE LINE.

The Daily Herald states that Donald Geoffrey Clarke, an undergraduate of Worcester College, Oxford, was in the early hours of yesterday morning found dead on the Great Western Railway between Steventon and Abingdon. He was captain of the Worcester College Boat Club, was of a quiet disposition, and the son of a widowed mother living near Bristol. He was seen in Oxford on Saturday night, and was apparently run over by the 11 p.m. Taunton to Oxford goods train.

DEATH OF SIR JOHN STRUTHERS.

The Times announces the death yesterday at his London residence, at the age of sixty-eight, of Sir John Struthers, formerly Secretary of the Scottish Board of Education, who for many years played a considerable part in the development and organisation of education north of the Tweed.

FRENCH CARDINAL ON WOMEN'S FASHIONS.

"FOLLOW THE MODE IN MODERATION."

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

Cardinal Dubois, Archbishop of Paris, interviewed here yesterday, said that he saw no reason to forbid the young women of Paris to follow the modern fashions in moderation, including bobbed hair, low-necked dresses and skirts a little short. "The virtue of woman does not depend upon the length of her hair," Cardinal Dubois said.

Speaking of the styles of women's clothes, he said: "I liked the fashions of former times. I was aware of the grave modesty of harmonious draperies, but evidently we are to have no more of them. To-day there are bold decolletées, materials too light, stockings too thin, shoes too narrow, and the mania of certain young girls is to make themselves appear masculine. A woman looses much when she tries to look like a man. All these excesses are reprehensible. It is true, but the other extreme was also bad. God forbid that the Archbishop of Paris should forbid the young women of Paris to follow the mode in moderation. They have in general enough good taste to wear their clothes with propriety, and even to make me sanction skirts a little short."

Cardinal Dubois also said that he thought well of modern art, provided that its inspiration came from a high source, and that it perfected rather than denied their incomparable artistic past. "Modern art is entirely worthy. God is always a friend of the true artist."

RACING MOTORIST KILLED.

BERLIN, Sunday.

The well-known German motor cyclist, Otto Weiss, has been killed at Frankfort Stadium. He crashed against a barrier in avoiding a competitor.—(Reuter.)

M. CAILLAUX'S POLICY.

"LUXURY SHOULD BE PITTILESSLY TAXED."

NO CAPITAL LEVY.

HOW THE FRENCH FINANCES CAN BE RIGHTED.

NOT RESIGNING.

Notwithstanding the financial crisis in France, which has been emphasised by the continued fall of the franc, it seems clear from the speech made by M. Caillaux that he has no immediate intention of abandoning the Finance Ministry.

His financial policy, so far as it can be gathered from his speech, includes the taxation of all forms of wealth and a reduction of expenditure. He remains firmly opposed to the idea of a general levy.

In a reference to the rumours of his impending resignation he declared that he stands upright and determined in defence of the public finances. At the same time it is apparent that the clamour for M. Caillaux's overthrow has been increasing, and in some quarters in Paris it is believed that the crisis will become acute when he presents his proposals to the Cabinet.

MINISTER'S APOLOGY.

GENERAL OUTLINES OF POLICY.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

M. Caillaux's speech to-day at Chateau du Loir, in his own Department of the Sarthe, was an apologia for his financial policy. While he did not reveal the details of his projects, which have not yet been submitted to the Cabinet, he gave a general outline of them. He maintained firm opposition to a capital levy, the forced consolidation of the short-term debt, and the reduction of the interest rate on rentes.

His policy involved progressive taxation, severely hitting opulence. Luxury should be pitilessly taxed; there should be special taxes on all forms of wealth, but at moderate rates, in order not to accentuate fiscal fraud. Lastly, there should be a reduction of expenditure.

They could only get out of the wood slowly, M. Caillaux declared. It was impossible to restore the finances in a few months' time; patience and method and credit to the men in power—that is the formula.

In thus speaking, he said, I am not thinking of myself. I should be only too glad to return to the ranks, and confine myself to expressing my views in the Senate. I am thinking of the Republic and France, of which I am, and shall be to the end, the devoted servant. I have suffered, and, doubtless, shall suffer many trials. I await fresh crowns of thorns on my forehead, which is still bleeding; what does it matter? In our forests of the Sarthe are old oaks which the lightning has struck without felling them. I, too, stand upright in my doctrine and my determination, upright for the defence of the public finances, for the defence of the Republic against reactionaries, and of the State against feudalism.

The foregoing passage, which is characteristic of M. Caillaux's fighting spirit, clearly referred to the reports of his imminent resignation.

FINANCIAL BURTHENS.

At the outset of his speech, M. Caillaux enumerated the burthens with which he had been faced on taking over the portfolio of Finance—an internal debt of three hundred milliard francs, plus the liability to pay from fifteen to twenty milliards per annum during the coming years for completing the restoration of the devastated regions, and plus the war debts. Regarding the latter, he said that he was confident that before many months a settlement would be reached. He attributed these liabilities not only to the led him to a severe indictment of the financial war, but to the post-war period, and this policies of preceding French Governments, which, he said, had indulged in prodigal borrowing, instead of reducing expenditure and increasing taxation.

Dealing with the Treasury difficulties, M. Caillaux emphasised the need to repay on maturity the 50 milliards of 3-year and 5-year bonds, which his predecessors so arranged as to rush successive Budgets during nearly ten years, with their irregularly, unequally and widely distributed weight. Twenty-one milliards fell due in 1925, of which three milliards must be found by the Treasury in December. When he took over the Finance Ministry the Treasury only had a balance of 1,400 million francs. He then resorted to further advances from the Banque de France, "which I should certainly have preferred to avoid, although I deny that there is need for the alarm shown by those who brandish the mighty word 'inflation.'"

A FURTHER NOTE ISSUE.

M. Caillaux incidentally objected to applying the term inflation to the operation of substituting Banque de France notes for bonds often serving as currency. "I took my decision in June," he said, "after ripe reflexion. I should take the same decision again to-day."

This remark may be interpreted as confirming that M. Caillaux proposes to resort to a further note issue to meet urgent Treasury commitments.

He made a friendly reference to M. Painlevé, "my friend of all time," and expressed his gratitude to the Socialists who had supported him in his hour of torture; but added, referring to a capital levy, that he was sure the Socialists would esteem him less if he did not proclaim his entire independence and that of his party, the Radical party, towards them. On the other hand, he denounced, but did not name, certain powerful financiers and industrialists, who, he said, reckoned on getting rich through the chaos resulting from a capital levy.

FOREIGN DEBTS.

The following is the passage in M. Caillaux's speech relating to foreign debts:—

In response to repeated invitations of the creditor nations to continue the negotiations already opened regarding the inter-allied debts, I went to England and then to America. Although at the outset I did not succeed in concluding a satisfactory agreement with the United States, I am confident that before many months arrangements will be made.

I have taken care to reserve the instalments coming from Germany under the Dawes scheme by placing them outside the Budget, and as the contributions to be paid to the Allies cannot exceed the sums our former enemies are to pay us, we have in our finances sufficient provision to enable us to throw off the insupportable burden hampering the freedom of our movements in the world.

I shall revert later to the grave question of inter-Allied debts, the raising of which question might have been avoided, but which since it was not settled to our entire advantage at the opportune time, cannot be solved at our expense. Alas, the delay in the settlement of the question of inter-Allied debts has increased our charges to a colossal measure every week, every month, adding to our burden which would, in the long run, become out of all proportion.

POLICY OF ILLUSIONS.

It would be one more delusion to imagine that the debts which were contracted without any kind of reservations being made, will be wiped out of themselves, and that it will be enough to ignore them to get rid of them. It is a policy of illusions that has been preached on this subject by politicians carried away by ardent convictions, and by financiers who would accommodate themselves to bottled-up France where the field was clear.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

PARIS, October 24.

The following is the text of the communiqué issued by the Ministry of Finance this morning:—

"Contrary to statements which have appeared in certain newspapers, it is incorrect that M. Caillaux at yesterday's Cabinet meeting urged the necessity for fresh inflation. The Treasury funds in the Banque de France and the case with which the bonds have been renewed up to the present sufficiently disprove this assertion.

"Neither is it true that any member of the Government urged M. Caillaux to limit the scope of his speech to-morrow at Chateau-du-Loir. It goes without saying that M. Caillaux will not refer to plans which have not yet been fully discussed by the Cabinet, but he will explain with all his customary lucidity the past and present condition of the national finances and the general lines of his policy."

FALL OF THE FRANC.

COAL FROM THE RUHR FOR FRANCE.

PARIS, Sunday.

The present fall of the franc has not yet affected retail prices, but the steady decline during several months continues to be felt in various directions. The Journal Officiel, for instance, publishes a decree providing supplementary credits amounting to 9,700,000 francs for additional indemnities to French officials abroad, "rendered necessary by the exceptional fall in the rate of exchange."

It is expected that a further rise of 5 centimes per two pound loaf will become necessary at the beginning of November.

The Minister of Public Works, M. Laval, reviewing the question of the coal supply for the winter, says that, while French nuts and Belgian anthracite have only increased in price by roughly 7 per cent. since 1923, British anthracite and other British coal have increased by 25 per cent., owing to the exchange movements, as it is impossible, he adds, to reduce the price of British coal. Anthracite from the Ruhr, which is 150 francs per ton cheaper than British anthracite, will provide an adequate substitute for practically all purposes.

The Minister has arranged for a maximum price limit for anthracite from the Ruhr delivered to France under the Dawes plan.

Coal merchants have been notified that they will only receive German anthracite on condition that they do not charge over 375 francs per ton, and a similar restriction applies to coal importers.—(Reuter.)

GAME OF TENNIS LEADS TO TRAGEDY.

QUARREL IN A COLOMBES GARDEN.

PARIS, Sunday.

Two brothers, René and Robert Hoffmann, have been tried before the Seine Assize Court on a charge of having caused the death of a railway employé named Beillard. The brothers were playing lawn tennis in their garden at Colombes, and the balls were subsequently hit into a kitchen garden, where two railway employés, MM. Beillard and Bouille, were working. The latter objected to the repeated visits of the two young men to recover the balls, and, according to René Hoffmann's evidence, called them "Dirty bourgeois."

Taking exception to their flannels and to the fact that they were playing instead of working on a Sunday afternoon, René Hoffmann stated that Beillard seized his brother by the throat, and the second railwayman, Bouille, threatened their mother, who was present. In his indignation he struck Beillard with a post from the fence, causing a fracture of the skull, from which the man died several days later. The jury took only ten minutes to bring in a verdict of acquittal, which was received both with cheers and hooting.—(Reuter.)

"RUNNING FROM PROSPERITY."

SHIPBUILDER'S CALL TO SHELTERED TRADES.

A strong and earnest appeal to workers in the "sheltered" trades (miners, railway workers, and municipal employés) to make some sacrifice of wages for the salvation of their fellow-workers in the competitive trades is made in a long letter published last Saturday by Sir G. G. B. Hunter, Chairman of the well-known shipbuilding firm of Wallsend-on-Tyne.

The letter is addressed to Sir N. Grattan Doyle, M.P. for Newcastle, North, and hon. secretary of the Industrial group in the House of Commons. It says:—

"We have no control over foreign competition. A reduction in our British costs is absolutely necessary to enable us to live.

"Present rates of nominal wages in the 'sheltered' trades cannot be maintained. It is mainly due to them that we are not as well employed as the French, the Belgians, the Italians, or the Germans.

"They are killing our foreign trades and our productive industries. They are being paid out of reserves, which are being exhausted, and out of borrowed money.

"They are keeping up the high costs of production and the high cost of living.

"The talk of a coming improvement does not bring it. We have heard it predicted a dozen times during three years past, but it never comes. We are not travelling towards it, but running from it.

"There will be partial and temporary improvements, but not real prosperity until we reduce our costs."

LANCASHIRE SILK.

CONSUMPTION ON THE INCREASE.

Lancashire has already consumed this year more than twice the quantity of artificial silk which she used during the whole of last year, when her consumption was treble that of 1923.

More and more firms are adapting their machinery to the making of cloth with a cotton warp and an artificial silk weft.

The difficulty is said to be to find suitable mills for the purpose.

ARMY BAND IN CASHEL.

On Friday last the No. 1 Army Band, under Colonel Fritz Brase, gave an excellent performance in the Cinema Hall, Cashel, before a very large audience.

At the close, Monsignor Ryan, Dean of Cashel, thanked Colonel Fritz Brase and his band and expressed the hope that they would return again to the town.

Colonel Fritz Brase, in thanking Dean Ryan and the people, said that it would be a great pleasure to him to pay a return visit next year.

RIFFS' BIG GUN.

AEROPLANE BLOWN UP BY ITS OWN BOMB.

GUN-RUNNING BOAT ATTACKED.

FROM THE PRESS ASSOCIATION'S SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

TETUAN, SPANISH HEADQUARTERS, Sunday.

Except for sniping and an occasional shell the Western front is completely inactive, and the Spanish aeroplanes have been compelled to discontinue dropping bombs owing to low clouds on the mountains.

Reconnaissances that have been made indicate that the reason for the cessation of the shelling of Tetuan is that the Riffs have been installing a heavier gun, probably a 10.5 cm. gun, and the inhabitants appear to be apprehensive. The photographs show the gun in a cave under an overhanging cliff. The entrance to the cave is blocked by sandbags, and an air attack is impossible, and, in fact, nothing but a direct gun hit could do it any damage.

While a Spanish aeroplane was bombing a Riff village the other day, a bomb got caught in the undercarriage. All efforts to dislodge it in the air proved useless, and as the aeroplane landed the bomb exploded, the crew and machine being blown to pieces.

On Friday a Spanish aeroplane attacked a boat laden with arms near the Punta di Pescadores. The crew were obliged to abandon the boat, and many were shot while swimming for the shore.

A reconnaissance in the vicinity of Targuist showed considerable activity in the construction of roads, dugouts and camps. There was hot anti-aircraft fire, but the aeroplanes refrained from bombing on account of the prisoners working on the roads below.

The recent heavy rain, which has made the roads very muddy and caused many accidents through skidding, has at least removed the plague of flies, which was such a great annoyance to the wounded. An armed trawler from Tetuan arrived at Ceuta to-day, seriously damaged by shell fire.

PLATINUM DISCOVERY IN SOUTH AFRICA.

FORTUNE HUNTERS FLOCK TO CHANGA VALLEY.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CAPE TOWN, Sunday.

Fortune hunters flocking here indicate another approaching platinum rush. Stories of huge deposits of platinum in the Changa Valley are just leaking out. The discovery of platinum in this area is said to have been kept a close secret for many months to allow of the first prospector, Mr. W. H. Cross, to register all his claims.

It is declared that twenty years ago Mr. Cross, when prospecting for gold, came across traces of platinum in the Changa Valley, but did not at the time attach much importance to the find. When the gold rush was over Mr. Cross left the district and settled down in Durban.

With the announcement of the discovery of several platinum reefs in South Africa some time ago, it is said that Mr. Cross remembered his platinum find in the Changa Valley, and immediately went to England to obtain capital. He returned to South Africa with two trusted comrades, with whom he has worked secretly in the Changa Valley.

It is now reported that the first two assays of the Changa platinum show a yield of over a pennyweight per ton of ore.

PERSIAN GULF CYCLONE.

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

KARACHI, Sunday.

Further details regarding the cyclone in the Persian Gulf contained in a Bushire telegram to the Daily Gazette show that it was accompanied by an earthquake and confirm the estimate that seven thousand people lost their lives.

The Pearl fishing fleet was practically wiped out, over two hundred boats being sunk. British naval vessels lost two of their boats, but one of these was subsequently recovered.

The islands of Tamb and Henjam suffered severely, and several acres of date palms at Basra were devastated.—(Reuter.)

COLONEL WEDGEWOOD, M.P., AND COMMUNISM.

"THE ENGLISHMAN'S PERVERSE TWIST."

Colonel Wedgwood, M.P., speaking at Lincoln last night, said:—"Henceforth, for the Government, the Communist Party is an illegal organisation. The Governments of Hungary, Roumania and Bulgaria took this view some time ago. It is very gratifying to find Great Britain in such good company.

"But the British are curious people. In all these foreign countries, when the Government put its foot down to crush the Communist menace, all the parties nearest to Communism hastened to wash their hands of the taint—to prove themselves loyal, legal, respectable and safe. But in England, owing, doubtless, to some perverse twist, prosecution or persecution has the opposite effect. We begin to think there must be something in these Communist fellows if 'Jix' dislikes them so.

"We learn and gain from the mediæval follies of our enemies. A melodramatic Home Secretary soon becomes merely funny, then boring. His posturing will soon be forgotten. Things are wrong not because of some one master criminal or half a dozen Communist Executives; not even because of 'Jix.'"

Colonel Wedgwood then proceeded to show how unemployment caused low wages and how the land question lay at the root of the unemployment problem.

"LOST" STEAMER ARRIVES IN TORBAY.

CREW SAFE AND WELL.

The Jugo-Slav steamer Vojslav, previously reported lost with all hands, arrived in Torbay last Saturday in a leaky condition. Before noon she left for Dartmouth, towed by a tug.

The ship encountered very heavy weather in the Bay of Biscay on Thursday. She has water in No. 1 hold, and it is feared that damage has been done to the hull. A portion of the cargo has been spoiled.

BALKAN CRISIS.

bombs on Petritch, killing several non-combatants.

Despite Athens despatches, the Bulgarians stoutly maintain that no Bulgarian troops have crossed the frontier. The frontier posts withdrew without returning the Greek fire as soon as the enemy troops crossed the frontier. Thus far it is reported that five soldiers and probably a score of civilians, including two women and three children, were killed by Greek artillery fire.

From the conflicting reports it is difficult to judge exactly which nation really has made the first move. The little corner in Macedonia where banditry has been rife for a long time, has been the scene of many local conflicts. At several points in this corner there is no very clear idea as to exactly where the frontier lines run.

From what I can gather here, from the first the Bulgarian Government has maintained a correct attitude in support of her protest to the League of Nations. It is insisted that no Bulgarian troops have withdrawn from the frontier, as no Bulgarian troops ever crossed it.

GREEK REPLY TO M. BRIAND.

ADVANCE DECLARED TO HAVE BEEN STOPPED.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

ATHENS, Sunday.

The Greek Government has answered M. Briand's summons to withdraw its troops instantly from Bulgarian territory with a statement to the effect that, although Greece has not infringed the rules of the League of Nations, in that she does not intend to occupy any foreign territory, in respect for the League of Nations, she nevertheless consents to withdraw her troops from the frontier.

But the withdrawal of troops instantly is only possible, the Greek Government declares, if the Bulgarian troops do not fire upon the Greeks, and especially the Greek frontier sentries.

Greece further asks that the Greek troops must be protected against any possible incidents during the evacuation, pointing out that numerous Bulgarian troops are concentrated near the frontier.

In another official communiqué the Greek Government announces that the Bulgarian troops who had crossed the Greek frontier have been withdrawn, closely followed by the Greek troops, who returned the fire of the retreating Bulgars.

As soon as this news was received in Athens orders were issued to the Greek troops to halt their advance.

Greece will maintain her position before the League Council, claiming that the demands contained in the ultimatum sent to Sofia must be fulfilled to the last detail.

The Greek Minister, M. Carabanos, in Paris will represent Greece before the League.

PLIGHT OF REFUGEES.

RELIEF WORK BY BULGARIAN RED CROSS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SOFIA, Sunday Night.

The Government has appointed a commission of high officials of various departments, and of magistrates, to make an inquiry on the spot into the action of the Greek troops, and the situation created by the Greek occupation, and to make an estimate of the harm done by the Greeks to the inhabitants and the Bulgarian State. The commission started this morning.

The newspapers are publishing gloomy stories of the sufferings of the refugees from the occupied districts, many of whom are reported to have fled without food or warm clothing, and to be compelled to sleep out of doors and to beg for bread.

The Bulgarian Red Cross are doing much relief work.

All the party leaders approve the Government's attitude and promise support.

SUGAR BEET GROWING IN ENGLAND.

BIG NEW FACTORY PLANNED.

A sugar beet factory with an initial capacity of a thousand tons a day and the ability to increase to fifteen hundred or two thousand tons a day is to be erected at Bardney, nine miles from Lincoln, by an English company, with Continental experts as advisers. It is intended that the factory shall be ready to deal with next season's crop. Five hundred men will be employed.

The project is being supported by six Lincolnshire members of Parliament.

There are about 60,000 acres of land under beet in England, mostly in the fen counties. Some 6,000 beet harvesters will be engaged in harvesting the new crop soon, and this will provide work for some 5,000 people in the ten factories which will be in operation. The yield of sugar will be about one week's consumption.

THE DECREASE IN PIGS.

BEST TYPE OF BACON ANIMAL.

The British Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries state that the returns of all agricultural produce collected by the Ministry on June 4 last show that there are 2,643,000 pigs in the counties of England and Wales, as against 3,228,000 last year, and about 2¼ millions in 1874.

In the half century since 1874 the demand for pig products in Great Britain has increased steadily with the growth of the population, but it has not been accompanied, as these figures show, by anything like a corresponding increase in the number of pigs, with the result that imports of bacon and hams, to say nothing of pork, has risen from 2¼ million cwts. in 1874 to 9¼ million cwts. in 1924.

There are a certain number of bacon factories in the country turning out the highest quality of bacon, but their complaint is that they cannot get enough pigs of the best type. In order to compete successfully with the Danish and other competition, the output of pigs must be uniform and of the type and quality the market wants.

The ideal type of bacon pig is one that is long-sided, with muscular wide back, wide thick firm loins, heavy hams fleshed at the hock, light head, neck, shoulders and thick streak and belly. The carcase should show a high percentage of lean to fat, and should be thin-skinned.

Pigs that are poor in the hams, short in the back, with coarse hindquarters, barrel-shaped sides and narrow behind the shoulders should be avoided. Heavy limbs, heavy forequarters, thick skins, coarse hair, and bristly manes are equally undesirable.

RURAL 'BUS SERVICES.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

IRELAND AND THE EMPIRE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—In your report of the speech of His Grace the Archbishop of Melbourne in Dublin in your issue of October 23rd Dr. Mannix said that "he claimed the right to talk when he wished and to be silent when he wished." I am sure that he will not deny the same right and privilege to a brother-Irishman, although in a much humbler position. The burden of all His Grace's speeches is denunciation of the Treaty and the claim that Ireland should be separated entirely from the British Empire. At the same time, he urges his hearers to "devise some means by which all Irishmen could stand on a common platform." Does anyone who knows anything of Ireland imagine that such a common-platform could be found in denunciation of the Treaty and the policy of an independent Irish Republic? He admits that the Irish Government and clergy will not support him. Well, they are a fairly powerful and representative portion of the Irish people. The Irish Roman Catholic bishops issued a solemn declaration a short time ago that the Irish Free State Government was now the legitimate Government of that part of Ireland, and that it was a sin to resist it. From the fact that the Pope has received Mr. Cosgrave in his official capacity as President of the Free State we may assume that His Holiness recognises it, too. Does Dr. Mannix maintain that all his clerical brethren, from the Pope down, are wrong on a question of faith and morals? If so, he is more Protestant than the Protestants in his exercise of the right of private judgment.

There are two points which Dr. Mannix should explain—how Ireland is to get complete separation from the Empire, and how it would benefit her if she got it. His adopted country, Australia, would require to have a say in the matter. There you have huge tracts of unoccupied land. In the neighbourhood you have the teeming millions of China and Japan crying for outlets to relieve their pressing congestion of population. Why do they not come and take that vast continental island from the few million British and Irish who hold it? The most ignorant of Dr. Mannix's own flock would answer—because Australia is part of the British Empire and has the British Army and Navy behind her. All experts, military and naval, will declare that the secession of Ireland would enormously weaken the defence of the Empire at its centre, and, as a consequence, at its circumference. If Dr. Mannix's policy for Ireland were properly understood in Australia, he would be regarded by every Australian, who did not wish to see the destruction of the British Empire, as an enemy to the peace and security of every inhabitant of Australia. The same is true of all the Dominions.

As Dr. Mannix does not explain what we are to gain by secession, I will try to explain what we gain by imperial unity. The British Empire is a great and going concern. It may be compared to a great and prosperous industrial company. We Irishmen helped to build it up and develop it. We hold a large number of shares in it, and we claim our due proportion of its dividends. It is true that our latest brand of patriots withdrew our representatives on the Board of Directors and made a present of a considerable number of our shares to the British, and now want to make them a further present of the First Preference shares held by our medical profession; but those we still hold are too valuable to be thrown away. I am sorry that Dr. Mannix had not an opportunity of visiting Northern Ireland. Had he done so, he would have learned, as I did last year, the true inwardness of the opposition of Northern Irishmen to secession. It is not based on any altruistic love of England for her own sake. They have no confidence in British politicians. They believe that they would sell and betray loyal Ulstermen as readily as they sold and betrayed loyal Irishmen in the rest of Ireland if it suited their purpose. Their opposition is based on self-interest. They hold shares in the imperial company, and they are determined to get their proper share of the profits. They are neither the fools nor the sentimentalists that we Southerns appear to be. They see that there is money in the Empire, and they mean to get it.

We Irish have no more reason to regret what our past history has made us than Britons have. Great Britain, like every country in the world, was built up by successive waves of invasion. So was Ireland. The mighty Roman Empire began with the annexation of small neighbouring tribes and States. So did the British Empire. While England was conquered and annexed by the Romans, the Irish conquered and annexed a strip of British Scotland. That Irish colony gradually subdued the whole country, until, in the person of James I., it annexed England and Wales. Ask a canny Scotchman if he wants to secede from the Empire which he did so much to build up. He will reply, "Not much, while there are good jobs and good money to be got out of it." Certainly Dr. Mannix has got a good job out of it. Apparently, he does not want other Irishmen to follow his example.

Regard for your space will only allow me to make the briefest comments upon a few other points in Dr. Mannix's speech. He thinks it a hardship that Ireland should bear her share of the war debt. As all Ireland's representatives voted for the war, is it not fair that we should pay our share of the expenses? His comparison of Ireland with Denmark is absurd. Denmark is a foreign country; Ireland has been united with Great Britain for 750 years. If Irish is "our own language," why did he not speak in it? If he had done so, your readers would have been spared this letter. He talks about a time when "Ireland would be ruled from the centre to the sea by Irishmen for Irishmen." Will he tell us who are the Englishmen, Scotchmen or Welshmen who rule Ireland to-day for themselves? I thought that Mr. Timothy Healy, Mr. William Cosgrave, the Duke of Abercorn, Sir James Craig and the rest of them were all Irishmen and ruled Ireland for the Irish. He still persists in speaking of King George V. as "a foreign king." Will he venture to speak that of him when he returns to Australia? He admits that King George is King of Australia. He compels me to ask once more: When and how did George V. cease to be King of Ireland since Dr. Mannix presented him with a loyal address in 1911? King George owes his throne to his descent from the royal house of Scotland. If it be true that the Scottish royal family is descended from the ancient kings of Ireland, it is not right to speak of King George V. as "a foreign king."—Yours, etc.,

THE GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—It is sad to see the decrease in the Irish railway earnings, and sadder still to note the indifference with which the general body of shareholders view the decline in value of their shares. My concern is chiefly with the loss in value of the Great Northern Stock, which has sunk far below its real value, which is certainly not less than £50 per share. Considering the increased value of their actual possessions in land, city and town sites, houses, etc., I think the directors should have called the shareholders together long before this, because the position is an anxious one, and out of the multitude of counsellors there might have come wisdom in the shape of suggestions of improved methods in the working of the railway, in greatly lessened expenditure, and in efforts to check the illegitimate competition of heavy motor lorries, which will in time destroy the roads, and in the meantime are increasingly damaging all the railways, and none more than the Great Northern.

At the last meeting of the shareholders I ventured to suggest that many of them must be members of the County Councils and other local administrative bodies, and that they should have considerable local influence in their respective localities, which they should use in trying to stop this illegitimate road traffic, and do all that in them lay to protect their own property. I also suggested to the directors that they could cut down the expenditure on the railway in many ways, by shutting down various small stations, decreasing the staff of employés as vacancies occurred, and making use of travelling porters, as in America; but, so far as I can find, little has been done. I think, too, that the Railway Board requires strengthening by the addition of members who know something of railway management. At the present the company's affairs are entirely in the hands of the general manager—a good man, no doubt, but even the most expert authority can be helped by other men who are more or less experts.

I wrote to the Secretary of the Great Northern Railway Company some time ago, making various suggestions, derived from frequent conversations with men in railway employment; but I am not aware that any movement towards lessened expenditure has been carried out. The railway directors should not delay in calling their shareholders together in order to discuss the present position of the railway company and take counsel together as to the steps necessary to protect and improve their most valuable property.—Yours, etc.,

WORK AND WAGES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—While one may sympathise with the attitude of the Irish Transport Workers' Union regarding the wages offered for work on the Shannon scheme, I may assure the Irish unskilled workers that the rate offered is substantially higher than the rate the German workman gets in his own country—hence the reason why Germany can flood the world with goods cheaper than are produced in this or any other country, and hence so much unemployment here. Even the trade union man himself, when he is offered a suit of clothes at £4, if he can get them for £3 10s. from a German, lets his trade union principles go by the board and buys the cheaper article. I write to suggest to trade union workers that "a half loaf is better than no bread."

Union workers are protesting against a wage of 32s. per week, although they were satisfied some time ago to live on the "dole" of 15s. per week. What kills Irish production to-day is high costs. I would suggest that no trade union labourer or any class of worker should complain to his employer about the wages his employer pays him, because the employer is not to blame, as I am satisfied that he would pay more if he could; but, being in fierce competition with outside countries, he cannot do so. The Irish worker should send a delegation out to Germany and get the German workman up to his own standard of wages in Ireland. If he cannot, or will not, do so, he must consider the possibility of coming down to the German level.

I would also like to ask how many hours' honest work an employer gets out of a nine-hour day. The labourer may be worthy of his hire, but the hirer is worthy of honest work, and not to have so much time devoted to idleness and picking horse-winners in the employer's time.—Yours, etc.,

KILLESTER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Major Bryan Cooper, T.D., is reported in your columns to-day as having stated that Killester ex-Service men's suburb was designed and built without reference to transport facilities. As the official chiefly responsible for the late Local Government Board for recommending the Killester site, and subsequently for the design and execution of the building scheme, I feel it is my duty to state that the site was recommended mainly because it was intersected by the Great Northern Railway line. The board of that company were approached before the scheme was adopted, and they indicated their intention to provide the necessary railway facilities when the scheme had been carried through. A railway station has accordingly been provided, with the result that residents in the district can now, I understand, obtain return tickets to the city for the sum of threepence.

It is regrettable that a public representative should indulge in criticism before making enquiries as to the facts.—Yours, etc.,

J. F. MACCABE,
Lieutenant-Commander.

GAELIC AND OTHER TONGUES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—How a trivial matter sometimes starts a train of thought! An inscription in some outlandish tongue on an odd penny-in-the-slot machine in one of our Dublin railway stations catches the traveller's eye. It is not Gaelic, as he might have hoped; neither is it Greek, nor does it belong to the Germanic, Latin or Slavonic group of tongues. I think it must be Magyar (or what we usually call 'Hungarian). Possibly the English manufacturer, having no Gaelic-inscribed machines in stock, sent over, from his export department, what he thought to be the next best thing—namely, a machine inscribed in Magyar. Can one blame him? The late Mr. Arthur Griffith, in his historical book, tried to make out that we Irish and the Magyars are much of a muchness, although, as a matter of fact, we have no more affinity with that strange race than we have with the Mongols or the Chinese.

Sometimes quite distinguished people make linguistic blunders. There is the case of that French literary giant, Victor Hugo, who presumed to confound Gaelic with Basque, the latter being the one European language which resembles nothing on earth. In "L'Homme qui Rit," having copied word for word, out of some book or other, the Lord's Prayer in Irish, he puts it into the mouths of a crew of Basque pirates, as a sort of weird and unknowable incantation. One must not criticise unduly that English manufacturer, who, no doubt, has done his best.

For the sake of any polyglot whom the matter may interest, I quote from memory the inscription above referred to—"Egy darab 20 filléres abosdda utan a fogantyu kehuzánda." It seems clear from this that, if you happen to have 20 filléres in your pocket, and follow the instructions, you can extract matches or chocolate from the machine.—Yours, etc.,

WEST HAM GUARDIANS AND MINISTRY OF HEALTH.

PUBLIC MEETING SUPPORTS ACTION.

Mr. Will Thorne, M.P., had patient hearing at an open-air meeting at Canning Town yesterday, when he defended the advice he tendered to the West Ham Board of Guardians on the Ministry of Health's conditions for a loan.

Mr. Bert. Killip announced that the Guardians had arranged a meeting with the Minister for Health, when the question of the scale of relief and payment of back rents by recipients would be considered. Opposition developed as the meeting progressed, but an overwhelming vote in favour of the Guardians' action was given.

MOTORING GENERAL FINED.

General Lewin, Cloghan's Hill, Tuam, was fined 60s., and costs, at Tuam District Court last Saturday, for driving a motor car through the streets of Tuam at a speed of between 25 and 30 miles an hour.

Sergeant Gleeson said that he signalled to General Lewin to stop when he was thirty yards from him, but the car was not pulled up until it had gone fifteen yards past the witness.

General Lewin declared that he pulled up as soon as he observed the signal. He gave notice of appeal against the decision.

FOUND DEAD IN DITCH.

The dead body of a farmer named Michael Devine, of Meendamph, Plumbridge, Co. Tyrone, who had been missing since the 17th inst., was found last Saturday in a ditch at the townland of Gortferum, about five miles distant from Strabane.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND.

At a largely-attended social gathering of the parishioners of Harold's Cross, Dublin, in the Parochial Hall last Friday evening, a presentation of an inscribed silver salver, accompanied by a cheque, was made to the Rev. J. J. Lougheed, who leaves to take up the curacy of St. Ann's. The presentation was made by Mr. H. O. Tisdall, people's churchwarden, who expressed the gratitude of the congregation to Mr. Lougheed for his seven years' ministry among them, and offered their good wishes to him in his new sphere. Mr. Edwin Bradbury, on behalf of the Select Vestry, extended a welcome to the Rev. A. S. Bluett, Mr. Lougheed's successor. Tea was provided by the ladies of the congregation, and a musical programme was contributed by the Girl Guides and members of the choir.

The Rev. W. J. Smartt, who has recently been nominated to the incumbency of Finner (Bundoran), has been appointed Rural Dean of Kesh. Mr. Smartt was ordained in 1901, came to Clogher Diocese in 1915, and became incumbent of Tempo in 1916 and incumbent of Donacavey in 1919.

MOSES AND THE SINAI TABLETS.

GERMAN'S THEORY A STALE PRODUCTION.

The claim of Dr. Grimme, Professor of Semitic Philology at the University of Munich, that he has discovered a reference to Moses and the Biblical story of his rescue from the Nile by an Egyptian princess in an inscription from Sinai, is severely criticised by Sir Flinders Petrie in a letter to The Observer. Sir Flinders Petrie writes:—

"More than twenty years ago I found in Sinai, at the Egyptian temple of the goddess Hathor, some rough inscriptions which differed widely from the many records left there by the Egyptians. These inscriptions seemed, and still seem, to me to be the product of the local tribes employed there, using the general body of signs which were common around the Mediterranean for writing, and which are the basis of all the modern alphabets. Naturally, some Egyptian signs were also brought into use.

WEATHERING OF STONES.

"Several attempts have been made to read these brief inscriptions, and some of the words may have been understood, such as the name of the Semitic goddess, Tanit. Unfortunately, Dr. Grimme, not content with the published copies, has been transcribing the flaking and weathering of the stones, seen in photographs, as being additional signs. Thus he has produced inscriptions which he has interpreted in a most sensational way. All his results were set out in a book which he published two years ago, and which was known in England, though a page strictly prohibited its being sold to anyone out of Germany!

"The transcriptions and translation have not been accepted by any scholar, so far as is known; now that this stale production is being exploited it is time to repeat a published comparison of the facts and the theory.

"To take the most important key, the asserted name of an Egyptian queen, in Fig. 1, is all that was observed in copying the stone; in Fig. 2 is all that could be credited from Dr. Grimme's photograph, a few additional strokes; in Fig. 3 is what Dr. Grimme has added from naturally weathered cracks and breaks, more than doubling the number of the known signs; in Fig. 4 are the signs really important for the asserted name. Yet in Fig. 5 are the forms of the same signs claimed by Dr. Grimme elsewhere, very different in one sign. In Fig. 6 are the Hebrew equivalents claimed for those signs. Only three signs out of the seven are really to be credited, and the values of those are really not proved.

"These are the various loose links in this chain, which will not carry its own weight, to say nothing of the heavy historical theories which are supposed to depend from it."

BABY'S ATLANTIC VOYAGE.

Roland Wildash, a thirteen months' old baby, found anxious parents awaiting him at Liverpool yesterday morning when he arrived at the port from Canada in the White Star liner Megantic. His father, John Wildash, of Carlisle, said that after much persuasion he had allowed the grandmother to take the baby to Canada seven months ago and he and the mother hoped to follow. The young mother, however, fretted so much that arrangements had to be made for the baby's unaccompanied return in the Megantic. It was given a cabin and placed under the care of the ship's conductress and matron.

U.S. MARKETS.

STRONG CLOSING OF STOCKS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Saturday.

Stocks opened strong, and emphatic gains were made by influential shares, U.S. Steel Com., American Can., U.S. Industrial, Alcohol, and other leaders surpassing previous high prices. General Motors sold at 134, against Monday's low level of 121¼. Predictions of business prosperity by industrial and banking leaders, the assurance of drastic cuts in the income taxes, and rumours of new industrial and railroad combinations caused an expansion in public buying. Favourable third quarter earnings by the Independent Steel Company were regarded as foreshadowing a similar improvement in the U.S. Steel Corporation's forthcoming statement. U.S. Cast Iron Pipe advanced 9 points, American Ice 8, Pittsburg and West Virginia 7, Commercial Solvents "A" 6, and Jordan Motors 5. Chandler Motors lost 9 points. The market closed strong. Government Bonds irregular. Railroad Bonds irregular. The day's sales totalled 1,400,000 shares.

THE APPRECIATION MUSIC.

DR. GEORGE HEWSON'S VI

Last Saturday evening, under the a of the Leinster Society of Organis Choristers, Dr. G. H. P. Hewson, or St. Patrick's Cathedral, delivered a lect "The Appreciation of Royal Irish Ac Music," at the Academy of Music, course of which he said that one greatest hindrances to the musical ad ment of many organists was the lack terest that they showed in other branc the art of music. Some of them seem think that the organ was the only ment worth taking any trouble about. one went outside the works of Bach not easy to find organ music that w teresting, and, at the same time, high tellectual. It frequently happened th had to fall back on music that was con for other instruments, and that was of the lack of good organ music. Education Board, no doubt, was anxi a vance the art of music, but he was to have to say that music did not all the attention that it deserved in schools. THE APPRECIATION OF MUSIC.

DR. GEORGE HEWSON'S VIEWS

Last Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Leinster Society of Organists and Choristers, Dr. G. H. P. Hewson, organist, St. Patrick's Cathedral, delivered a lecture on "The Appreciation of Royal Irish Academy Music," at the Academy of Music, in the course of which he said that one of the greatest hindrances to the musical advancement of many organists was the lack of interest that they showed in other branches of the art of music. Some of them seemed to think that the organ was the only instrument worth taking any trouble about. Once one went outside the works of Bach it was not easy to find organ music that was interesting, and, at the same time, highly intellectual. It frequently happened that one had to fall back on music that was composed for other instruments, and that was proof of the lack of good organ music. The Education Board, no doubt, was anxious to advance the art of music, but he was sorry to have to say that music did not receive all the attention that it deserved in boys' schools. Education in music was as good and as profitable to the brain as a training as many of the compulsory subjects. Men in college and elsewhere had often expressed regret that they had not learned music while they were at school, so that they might be able to play the piano or sing, and be able to appreciate good music.

CHORAL COMPETITIONS.

The average man or woman who listened to music did not know how to appreciate it from the intellectual point of view. It was a pity that the good work which was started by the Feis Ceoil some years ago in regard to choral competitions for commercial choirs had not been the success which it was then hoped it would be. That might have been due to the dearth of tenors.

The fine stock of Irish folk songs that had been handed down to us showed that in days gone by the Irish race possessed many excellent musicians.

The first essential was a sense of rhythm. Where there was rhythm music would always have a definite meaning; and it would be of great assistance in discovering a theme, even in a piece that was heard for the first time. A great responsibility rested on those who taught; for they should endeavour to inculcate a taste for good music. Progress was being made nowadays towards educating the young in the art of music, and it was sincerely to be hoped that the result of the movement would tend owards a greater and a keener love of the art.

On the motion of Dr. Gater, seconded by Mr. George Harrison, a vote of thanks was passed to the lecturer.

COLLEGE CLASSICAL SOCIETY.

The opening meeting of the College Classical Society will be held this evening in the Graduates' Memorial Building, Trinity College, Dublin, at eight o'clock. The Society has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. C. T. Seltman, a distinguished Cambridge scholar and author of "Athens: Its History and Coinage before the Persian Invasion."

The subject of his lecture will be "History in Greek Coins," and it will be illustrated with lantern slides and specimens of actual coins. The chair will be taken by Dr. L. C. Purser, S.F.T.C.D., and the other speakers will be Dr. W. A. Goligher, F.T.C.D., and Mr. A. D. Pringle, the Auditor. The meeting will be open to the public.

PETER GRIMES BENEFIT CONCERT.

GALLANT ACT RECALLED.

That the public are ever ready to show their appreciation of a gallant act was evinced by the large numbers—over 900—who patronised the concert at La Scala Theatre, Dublin, yesterday, on the occasion of the Peter Grimes' benefit concert. A little less than two months ago Peter Grimes, a Dublin labourer, in helping to save a number of girls from a terrible death during a fire in a hairdresser's shop at 24 Mary street, Dublin, received injuries, as a result of which he still lies in Jervis street Hospital, Dublin, partially paralysed.

The theatre had been given free of charge, with all services, advertisements included, by the proprietor, Mr. Fleming.

The concert was arranged by Superintendent Horne, of the St. John Ambulance Brigade.

The concert itself left little to be desired, and those present appreciated the various items on the programme.

The artistes who took part were:—Miss Agnes O'Kelly, Miss May Doyle, Miss Sheila Jenkins, Miss Florence Howley, and Miss Lucy Lesnane (at the piano); Messrs. Arthur Darley, P. O'Toole, J. O'Neill, Wm. Lemass, Gerard Crotty, Wm. Hobbs, Irvine Lynch, and Wm. Reidy.

During the interval Alderman A. Byrne, T.D., thanked those present for their attendance. Outside of the proceeds of the concert, he said that they had already received a sufficient sum of money from subscriptions to pay Peter Grimes his full wages for the next two years.

The Communist deputy, M. Clamamus, who is Mayor of the suburb of Bobigny, who is stated to have given assistance to the strikers during the recent 24-hour strike in Paris, has been suspended for a month.

FARMERS AND BARROW DRAINAGE.

INCREASING HOME HELP CHARGE.

At the monthly meeting of the County Executive of the Kildare Farmers' Union, at which Mr. P. Phelan presided,

Mr. Conlan, alluding to the suggested scheme for the drainage of the Barrow, said that he would like it to be understood clearly that he did not agree with the suggestion that the people of the locality or of the County Kildare should put up pound for pound of the estimated cost of £550,000. Of this amount Kildare would be called upon to put up about £200,000, which would cost £19,000 per year for 30 years. This would raise the rate of the whole county 1s. in the £, and would be a most unfair burden, especially on those who would derive no benefit whatsoever from the drainage of the Barrow any more than the people of Donegal or any other distant county would. The drainage of the Barrow was a big question, and the cost would be too great for it to be anything but a national undertaking.

A resolution was passed also stating that the Executive noticed with satisfaction the action, belated though it was, of the National Executive of the Irish Farmers' Union in setting up a committee to investigate the conditions under which tillage is carried on, and the necessity for securing measures ensuring to the farmer a fair price for his barley and other grain crops. They urged that immediate action be taken, as a group of persons are making proposals which, if carried out, would be most disastrous to the farmer, large and small.

HOME HELP BURDEN.

With reference to home help, a discussion took place, after which the following resolution, proposed by Mr. Wardell, and seconded by Mr. Clayton, was passed unanimously:—"That this Executive views with alarm the dimensions which payments on foot of home help are assuming in this county, involving as they do a burden on the rates which will force them up to a figure beyond the competence of the farming community to bear. In view of this unfortunate state of affairs, we would urge on our representatives on the County Council to take stock of the position and to use every effort to enforce strict economy in every department of administration."

RED FLAG FIGHT IN BOW STREET.

£5 FINE FOR BITING A POLICEMAN.

Wild scenes and wild words were described at Bow street Police Court, London, on Saturday last, when Frederick Gayton (24), a fitter's mate, of James street, was fined £5, or in default a month's imprisonment, for insulting behaviour and assaulting the police. He was said to be secretary of the "Hyde Park Socialist Movement."

"There was a crowd of several hundred people singing the 'Red Flag' and the 'Marseillaise' on Friday," said Police-Constable Wicker.

Gayton was shouting, "On with the Reds, boys; our flag will fly over Westminster next year!"

A group of unemployed arrived and there was another outbreak of singing and cheering. It was necessary to force them back, as they had broken the police line.

Gayton shouted, "Don't move, boys. They can't shift you."

Gayton was very violent, and tried to break the police line, and he was arrested. He bit the constable's finger.

Gayton said that in the excitement he might have said "Up, the Reds!" although he did not remember it. He did say to a sergeant, "One of these days we shall have the Red Flag over Westminster."

DUBLIN SKETCHING CLUB.

EXHIBITION AT MILLS'S HALL.

The Dublin Sketching Club starts on its second half-century with the exhibition of paintings which opens at Mills's Hall, Merrion row, to-day. The occasion is one for congratulations for Mr. Alexander Williams, who was at the beginning of the club, is still its secretary, and again exhibits his pictures of the Western seaboard. Mrs. Dobbs, also, is again an exhibitor.

The pictures accepted by the committee number 235. At a first glance one notices that last year's inclination to work in oils rather than in water-colours has not continued. In another respect the exhibition is like that of last autumn; for there are a number of pictures that hardly deserve their wall space.

There is, however, some good painting to be seen in the collection: so good, indeed, that the pictures will be noticed at once. Two of the exhibitors, old members of the club, Mr. Launcelot Bayly and Mr. A. McGoogan, have for this exhibition accomplished the best that the public have yet seen from their easels. Mr. Bayly's water-colour, "The Market, Rouen," is, perhaps, the most notable picture in the exhibition. Mr. McGoogan is represented by four charming landscapes full of the beauty of summer light. The small picture of the Dargle Glen, with the ripple on the water, is landscape of a high order. The picture is in strong contrast with the hardness of some other landscapes in the exhibition.

Mr. Henry Moss, the President, is represented by a number of landscapes in strong oils. Perhaps his best is "Summer Morning," which is a fine example of strong painting. Mr. Williams's work is well up to his long fixed reputation as an interpreter of nature in her Connaught moods. A gallery of his Achill scenes translated into poster form would be of the greatest value to the development of Ireland as a tourist resort. "Dhulough" is a typical example of Mr. Williams's method of seeing and interpreting the light and shade of a Connemara landscape.

Mr. Gerald Wakeman has some pictures of exceptional merit, notably his view of Dublin from St. Audoens's. The painting of the brick wall in the foreground is delightful. The same artist's "On the Liffey" conveys all the satisfaction that honest painting can give. Mr. W. F. Cooper has a nice collection of those water-colour landscapes, with mountain and mist and bog and heather, whose charm lies in their quiet suggestion of restfulness. Mr. Severne MacKenna is a new member whose progress will be worth following. Although there may be faults of technique, "The Green Shutter" is bold and characteristic. "The Empty Cottage," by Mr. J. L. Martin, is a good study of cliff and sea.

Two pictures by Miss Rosalind de Cadiz deserve attention for their charm of conception. They are "Rest at Last" and "The Lake in the Dublin Zoo." The daintiness of those compositions is the more remarkable from the fact that the artist is a permanent invalid from injuries received while in the performance of a nurse's duty. Miss McCoy is a new artist, whose arrival is welcome. She has made a hit with "The Last Load," a pleasant picture of horses and a load of hay in a sunlit meadow. Miss Kathleen Ennis has her best work in "Betty," a well-painted picture of a pointer at work, which is about the best animal study in the exhibition. Miss Helen Yates is coming on rapidly as a farm painter, as witness the splendid pose of the head and the strong drawing of the neck in "Marie." Her other picture of a girl's head, "Ruby," is well painted also.

Mrs. Eileen Murray is again a distinguished exhibitor, Miss Ada Moorhead has two nice portrait sketches, and Miss Phyllis Godfrey has caught some of the elusive beauty of the Benbulbin country.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

THIS WEEK AT NEWMARKET.

THE CAMBRIDGESHIRE

TWELVE POINTER'S ENHANCED CHANCES.

JUMPING AT SANDOWN.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Sunday Night.

The people who have been knocking Twelve Pointer during the last few days were very busy supporting him yesterday both on the course at Sandown Park and in the starting price offices in London. It is probable, I imagine, that to-morrow he will become the strong favourite to which his claims to be regarded as the likely winner entitle him. There is nothing whatever the matter with the horse, who did everything that he was expected to do in his last gallop, and whose chance has been further enhanced by the improvement in the weather and the possibility of good going on Wednesday afternoon.

In what betting took place on the race yesterday there was a good deal of support for Diophon's stable companion, Blanc Mange. Blandford's half-sister has some fair form, but I cannot quite see her beating Diophon unless the ground were very heavy, which it is not likely to be.

An interesting engagement that I heard of yesterday is that of the leading jockey, Gordon Richards, to ride Lord Glanely's candidate, Sunderland. This colt, which was bred in Co. Dublin by Mrs. Croker, is one that has impressed a few times this season as the sort of colt who might win a Cambridgeshire. The doubt about him in this particular race was whether a good boy could be found at the weights. If Richards rides, however, this difficulty will be solved, for he has almost a man's strength, and, furthermore, he is riding nowadays with great confidence, and is on a flowing tide of success. At Ascot Sunderland put up a nice performance when he beat a big field for the Trial Stakes, and although there are a few bad patches in his form he won at Nottingham in quite nice style a few weeks ago. Yesterday morning he was tried, and beat Skysail and Grand Joy by a neck and two lengths. I do not expect him to beat a horse like Twelve Pointer, but at his present price he can be regarded in the light of a good outsider with an each way chance.

Opinion at Newmarket is much more inclined to the chance of Conquistador than it is to that of Sansovino, his stable companion. There has always been the doubt whether the latter would stand a Cambridgeshire preparation, and I think the three-year-old will be Lord Derby's best on the day of the race. It must be remembered that in the late spring Conquistador was galloped so well that Mr. Lambton thought he had a good chance of winning the Derby, for which he started a better favourite than Manna. He was a good deal knocked about in that race, and he showed no subsequent form until he beat Warden of the Marches and Saucy Sue a few weeks ago at Newmarket.

A Mare with a Record.

Time and again we see a high-class three-year-old handicapped with something around 8st. win this race. Verdict carried his identical weight, 7st. 12lb., when she beat Epinard a couple of seasons ago. Then the year before there was Re-echo, a colt who was also thought likely to win the Derby; and before that Zinovia, Brown Prince, Silver Tag, Honeywood, and Cantilever, the last-named three in successive seasons. I imagine that the distance and the course will be well suited to Conquistador, and on the whole I like his chance better than I do that of Verdict, well though she is fancied.

She was a splendid mare when at her best, as her record against such horses as Parth and Epinard shows, but it is doubtful whether she is as good relatively as on the days when she beat Epinard by a neck or when she lost the Jubilee by a short head to Parth and reversed the running with him in the Coronation Cup. She ran a good race in the Cambridgeshire last year without ever looking in the least like beating Twelve Pointer, and although she meets him on 15lb. better terms I cannot quite see her reversing the running with him.

It would be a strange thing if she and Coram were to single themselves out, as she and Epinard did two years ago, for Eugene Leigh, who had Epinard then, also trains Coram. This very excellent judge, it may be said, fancies the chance of the French colt more than a little. He has class and good form at home to recommend him, and he has a reasonable weight, 7st. 13lb. I know little of his jockey, F. Keogh, except that he had a high reputation in America, and has ridden for Leigh's stable with some success in France.

Mr. Albert Lowry's Pons Asinorum went splendidly with Bachelor's Heir in a good mile gallop yesterday morning, and, as the support accorded last week shows, is well fancied. His victory over Prompt on the B.M. Course gives him a good chance, but I am not convinced that Prompt was as good in July as she showed herself to be in September and this month.

I have no encouraging report about Dawson City, and, although he pleased in a gallop yesterday morning, it is a little doubtful whether he will get the nine furlongs in a high-class Cambridgeshire field, and in a race that is sure to be run all the way at a cracking pace. B.D.A. is another who is fancied, but he does not appear to me to have an outstanding chance. Brighter London possibly has a chance on his running at Sandown. I still like nothing better than Twelve Pointer, and if Conquistador is the preferred of the Stanley House pair on the day of the race I can conceive of him being very dangerous, indeed. However, on the eve of the race we may be better informed about him.

The racing throughout the week will hardly be as interesting as it was at the Second October Meeting. I learn that Coronach will not be started for the Criterion Stakes on Tuesday, and I still suggest that it is a little unlikely that he will be seen in public again this season. Should he retire for the winter, with grave doubts about his future, the two-year-old position will be left in a rather muddled state, for there is absolutely no other colt who stands out among those of his age as he seemed to do before he lost the Middle Park Stakes.

In the Free Handicap Mr. Dawkins does not come much into the argument. When Wootton trained Legatee he had the very highest opinion of him. It is just possible that Tolgus may be a very good colt, but he has yet to demonstrate it in the best of company, where he will be meeting those of his own age at level weights.

A tribute has been paid to the Irish form of this year by the fact that Fohanaun has been given 8st. 3lb. in this Free Handicap, and is included among the dozen best colts of the season. Generally, I am more hopeful about the fillies of the season than about the colts, and should Bella Minna, Spinel Ruby, and Short Story train on I imagine that there will be very few colts next year—at least among those we have seen run already—that will be able to beat him.

Prospects at Newmarket.

There will not be many deeply interesting races in the course of the week, except the Cambridgeshire. Picaroon is to run for the Limekiln Stakes on Tuesday, but there will be no rival of the class of Pharos, and it will probably be a processional event. Apple Sammy is engaged in the Moulton on Wednesday, but it is possible that he might not be good enough to give 21lb. to Waterval. St. Germans having been sold to go to the United States is not likely to run for the Jockey Club Cup, but the Manton stable can be effectively represented by Hurstwood. In all probability it will be a match between him and Plack, and the colt that is the more genuine may win.

Londoners and those who live contiguous to the Metropolis had their first experience of racing under National Hunt Rules this season at Sandown Park yesterday, when both the attendance and most of the fields were large, and the sport was excellent throughout. It was a delightful performance that the Irish 'chaser, Ruddyglow, ridden by his owner, Mr. Filmer Sankey, put up when he won the Cholmondeley Handicap Steeplechase by two lengths from Keep Cool, for his 7lb. penalty had brought his weight up to 12st. 1lb., and I imagine that at any period of the race he could have gone to the front and remained there. I suppose that in the spring of this year Ruddyglow will be regarded as one of the chief National hopes, and he seems to fill the eye in a great many ways as a Liverpool horse. All the same, he is a little inclined to take a chance at his fences, and he hit the last one pretty sharply yesterday.

The Irish mare, How Nice, was a great deal fancied by his trainer for this race, but she was inclined to chance her fences, and when they had gone half-way she hit the fence before the water and came a quick purler. This mare seemed almost worthless when she came to England first, early this year, and I believe that her owner made a virtual present of her to her present owner and trainer, Rimmell. Had she stood up yesterday she might have been a source of danger to Ruddyglow. Ballystockart, a horse who made a very good impression in the paddock, was ridden by his owner, Captain Sassoon, but he came down at the second fence. Keep Cool, who started favourite, was the only one to make any show against Ruddyglow.

Winnall is not a horse whom many people care about, for when he has stopped pulling he is done with. However, in the Amateur Riders' Steeplechase he was so favourably treated in the matter of weight that he started favourite. He was nicely handled by Major Tom Cavenagh, and, racing in front all the way, he beat Mitchells by six lengths. It is a pity that Captain McCreery, who rode Mitchells, and who is quite a good rider, has not troubled to learn the elementary rules of National Hunt racing. It was obvious that Winnall had crossed him between the last two fences and that he had to pull out and come up on the outside. The objection he lodged for crossing was, of course, overruled, as it was after jumping the last fence, and the deposit he forfeited. He was, probably, lucky to have escaped a fine for a frivolous objection.

In the Norbiton Hurdle Golden Brick started favourite from Despote and Rathcoole, Cloth of Gold being the only one of the other runners backed. The last-named was waited with by T. Leader until they were two hurdles from home, when he shot to the front and won easily from Barrackton Lad. There was a shockingly bad start for the Three-Year-Old Hurdle, in which He Sings, the favourite, and Spanish Thorn, another well-backed horse, were caught in the tapes. After Balfour had made the running for a mile and three-quarters, Count Spaghetti took it up and won easily from He Sings.

The only racing this afternoon is a fixture under National Hunt Rules at Nottingham, where I expect that GERALD L. will win the Newark Handicap Steeplechase. CLOCHNABEN, who was a useful horse on the flat, should win the Wilford Steeplechase, and ARDEEN the Ruddington Handicap Steeplechase.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

Evander was struck out of the Cambridgeshire Stakes at 1.20 p.m. on Friday.

After the Three-Year-Old Hurdle Race at Sandown on Saturday, the Stewards had the starter before them to explain what happened when one or more of the competitors were caught in the tapes. After hearing Mr. Joe Marsh's explanation, the Stewards expressed the opinion that he should have recalled the field.

Stormy Sea, 5 yrs., ch. g. by Le Souvenir—Lady Darenberg, and Northern Linnet, 5 yrs., b.g. by Paso del Norte—Red Linnet II., two promising young 'chasers in Ireland, have been purchased from Mr. P. Rogers by Captain McDougal, and have left for England. Mr. Rogers has also sold Lady Nightingale, 3 yrs., b.f., by Jackdaw—Red Linnet II., to Mr. E. Martin, who purchased the filly on behalf of Mr. Sassoon. It is understood that Stormy Sea and Northern Linnet were purchased on behalf of Lord Blandford.

FURTHER SALES OF IRISH HORSES.

Captain Macdougal, acting for Lord Blandford, has purchased from Mr. P. Rogers Stormy Sea and Northern Linnet, while Mr. E. Martin, on behalf of Mr. Sassoon, has purchased Lady Nightingale. The horses will in future be trained in England.

Verdict hardened to 8 to 1, taken and offered. Conquistador shortened from 100 to 6 to 100 to 7. The remaining candidates were easy. Details:—

PROUDSTOWN PARK.

KANOWNA TO THE FORE.

DOUBLE FOR MADDENSTOWN LODGE.

A very pleasant meeting marked the close of the season at Proudstown Park on Saturday. Under genial autumn conditions the splendid course looked its best, and very interesting racing was provided for the company. Mr. J. J. Parkinson, the Maddenstown Lodge trainer, carried off the chief honours, winning two races, one with his own horse, Wating, and the other with Mr. D. Hederman's Pearl Oyster, the latter, though a maiden, starting an odds on favourite and scoring in a canter.

Fire Water, one of the runners for the Ardsallagh Hurdle Race, fell at about half way, and in doing so interfered somewhat with Borora, who at the time was a good bit behind the leaders. This mishap may possibly have cost Borora the race, for, putting in strong work in the closing stages, he only suffered defeat by half a length from Boinne-na-brugh, who was in front from the start. An objection subsequently lodged for crossing and boring was not sustained.

Fire Water, none the worse for her spill, was saddled again later in the afternoon for the Stewards' Steeplechase, and, giving a faultless exhibition of jumping, Sir G. Abercromby's mare proved successful. In winning she may have been lucky, for Rathfeigh, the favourite, was leading when he came a cropper at the last fence. Fire Water was one of the outsiders of the party of five, and his success gave the layers a much-needed turn.

The Slane Plate, over the six furlongs course, tested the staying powers of the half dozen runners, and it was ability in this respect that enabled Louvarissa to wear down the others and score in ready style. Kanowna, who is now ten years old, showed that he is not yet a light of other days by his performance in the three miles steeplechase, in which he conceded 20lb. and a beating to Kilbarry.

The October Plate, a particularly open race judging from the market quotations, provided a fine finish between waiting, Athbeg and Millbank, which Mr. Parkinson's filly won by half a length from Athbeg. Then in a big field of runners for the Navan Plate, the Maddenstown Lodge stable supplied a hot favourite in Pearl Oyster, who made a sorry example of the opposition. Details:—

STOCKTON.

DROPITIN WINS AT 10 TO 1.

RAFNAM'S SURPRISE.

Stockton concluded a round of Northern meetings on Saturday. Tivoli Girl was the only absentee from the Stockton Autumn Handicap, and the compiler of the weights should be well satisfied with his work, for only heads separated the placed horses at the finish. A favourite was found in Eastbridge, but after showing up prominently for about a mile and a quarter, he began to hang fire, and in the last furlong the race resolved itself into a struggle between Dropitin, Wykeham and Actius, the first-named staying on to win by a head, with Actius a similar distance away, third. Spithead and Aske ran well until the weight began to tell, while Cyzara led the field for a mile. Fair Dinkum and Sir Picton were prominent for half the journey, but Orpi was never in the picture. An objection to Dropitin for bumping was overruled.

Although drawn in the worst position, Great Willow was soon out clear of his opponents in the Cleveland Selling Nursery. Before the straight was reached he had taken up the rails berth and, without being unduly extended, won very easily from Bayona and Bold Peggy.

The Blytheholme Nursery was won very comfortably by Arcite. Corposant was in the lead for about half a mile, when his stamina gave out. Flighty Flo filly ran sufficiently well to be made a note of.

Rafnam upset all calculations in the Tees High-Weight Handicap; for he came through half-way up the straight to get the better of Bold Theo, who had set a good pace most of the way. The favourite, Maritime, gave a very poor display.

Kingstown came to the rescue of backers in the Faceby Plate. He was not so quickly away as Mary Stuart, but once he had taken the measure of the grey filly he never looked like being beaten.

Impress had an easy task in the Ironopolis Apprentice Plate, but would have been given more to do had not Lynmouth got away slowly. Nottingham Pet lacked finishing speed.

BOXING.

TOURNAMENT AT QUEEN'S THEATRE.

PAT McALLISTER BEATEN.

The boxing tournament held in the Queen's Theatre on Saturday evening was rather disappointing. With the exception of Pat McAllister, none of the Belfast boxers turned up, and the original programme had to be re-arranged. The principal bout of the evening, that between Pat McAllister, the present welter-weight champion of Ireland, and Albert Johnson, the Manchester coloured boxer (who was seconded by his brother Len, who recently defeated Roland Todd), ended in the seventh round, after the Irishman had given a splendid display of pluck and determination.

The programme consisted of two fifteen two-minute rounds and two ten two-minute bouts. J. Singleton acted as referee and Mr. P. Fox as time-keeper. Details:—

Fifteen Two-Minute Rounds.—Albert Johnson (Manchester) beat Pat McAllister (Belfast) in the seventh round. Johnson had the advantage in reach and was also much younger than McAllister. There was very little in the first round, towards the end of which the Belfast man received a good left in the solar plexus. Johnson made great use of a nice straight left in the next meeting, in which there was a lot of holding. The third was similar to the second, but in the fourth McAllister had the better of some in-fighting. Johnson fought him off, and at the close of the round landed several straight lefts on the face. McAllister was now tiring. The Belfast man was rather wild in the next round, and the coloured boxer landed rights and lefts at will. At the close of this session Johnson sent his man down, through the ropes, for seven, but McAllister went back and kept his feet till the bell, though in a dazed condition. Johnson was all over his man in the sixth, but could not connect, and in the next round he sent him down several times and a second threw in the towel.

Battling Brannigan (Waterford) beat Battling Siki (Cardiff) on points. The Irish lad had the advantage in height and reach, and was very quick on his feet. Siki was very poor in attack, but he made up for this by covering very well. There was very little real fighting at any time. Siki, when he did attack, being very wild; while, when Brannigan got going, his opponent covered himself up so well that the Irish boy could not land a telling blow. Brannigan had the best of any exchanges and caused Siki to miss badly several times. At the close of the fifteen rounds Brannigan was awarded the verdict.

Ten Two-Minute Rounds.—Harry Sankey (Liverpool) knocked out Jack Lee (Manchester) in the third round. Both boys were pretty evenly matched. Lee landed a right to the solar plexus in the first round, but Sankey recovered well and floored Lee with a left to the point for a short count. In the third session Sankey sent over a right, which put Lee down for eight. The Manchester boxer pluckily went for his man, but was down again from a similar blow and was counted out.

Frank Carberry (Liverpool) knocked out Jimmy Gregson in the fourth round. There was very little in the first three rounds, Carberry having slightly the best of the exchanges with lefts to the body. Half-way through the fourth meeting the Liverpool boy landed a left to the jaw, which sent down Gregson for eight, following which he had him down for six, and then finally out.

At the second fence Test Match and Ballystockart fell. Vaulx cut out the work from Ammonal, Cash Box, Lone Hand, Keep Cool and Misconduct, with White Surrey in the rear, for six furlongs, when French Leave took command, but shortly afterwards was carried out by a loose horse. Passing the stands Ruddyglow was in front of Vaulx, How Nice, Cash Box, Darracq, Keep Cool, and Misconduct. At half-way How Nice jumped into the lead, but fell two fences before the brook, as did Misconduct. Ruddyglow then regained command, and resisting the successive challenges of Ammonal and Keep Cool, Mr. Filmer Sankey's gelding won comfortably by two lengths; eight lengths separated second and third. White Surrey was fourth and Gem fifth. Lone Hand was the only other to finish. Snipe's Bridge and Cash Box fell.

NEWMARKET GALLOPS.

The following gallops by Cambridgeshire candidates took place at Newmarket on Saturday morning:—

Darling subjected Masked Marvel to a good stripped nine furlongs gallop with Stratheros and Torchbearer II. The first-named went well throughout the spin.

B. Jarvis's Dawson City went remarkably well in a fast nine furlongs gallop with Iclair, Bessborough and Coral Wreath. His other candidate, Valdore, moved well in a good mile spin with Back Stair.

The Hon. G. Lambton's Sansovino and Conquistador went well in a good-pace gallop over nine furlongs.

C. Leader's Tonton and Creolin were given a good gallop over a mile. The first-named was accompanied by Glen Falloch, and the latter by Cavalcade.

H. Leader's Jarvis had a good nine furlongs gallop.

Powney's Pons Asinorum comported himself well with Bachelor's Heir and Larry Lee in a striding mile gallop.

E. Leigh's Cambridgeshire representative, Coram, covered one mile at a good pace.

NOTTINGHAM

TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

The week's racing opens with a meeting under National Hunt Rules at Nottingham to-day. There is likely to be a good field for the Newark Handicap Steeplechase, which is the most valuable prize to be picked up, and Gerald L. and Ganzey, who are on the same mark with 12st. 7lb., are set to concede no less than 33lb. to those at the bottom of the handicap. Gerald L. will be making his first appearance of the season in a steeplechase, but that he is fit again he proved when winning a National Hunt race at Cardiff. Mitchells will hardly be saddled after his hard race at Sandown Park on Saturday, but Maxtoi was early on the scene of action and is said to be fancied. Darracq wound up last season by finishing second to Bright's Boy in the Champion Steeplechase at Liverpool, but he failed totally at Sandown on Saturday. Top Light and Beggar's End are both fairly reliable jumpers, but in the belief that Gerald L. is fit I give him my vote. Some promising recruits will go to the post for the Three-Year-Old Hurdle Race, but I prefer one who has already been tried in public, and in this category can be placed Mortarboard, who has won his last two races. Mountain Blue dead-heated with Corinthian over a mile and a half at Uttoxeter recently, and can, therefore, be fancied, while Theona is said to have shown marked ability over the minor obstacles in recent home gallops. Aleppon made a very promising début when finishing second to the smart He Sings at Wolverhampton, and, therefore, I make Mr. Barclay's horse my choice. Selections:—

Clifton Selling—Pantagruel II.
Welbeck Hurdle—Boult.*
Newark Handicap—Gerald L.
Three-Year-Old Hurdle—Aleppon.
Ruddington Steeplechase—Ardeen.
Wilford Steeplechase—Titan.

GOLF.

A BELATED PLAY OFF.

COMPSTON DEFEATS RAY.

AN UNUSUAL INCIDENT.

On the course of the Verulam Club at St. Albans on Saturday, Ray, after being three to the good at the turn in the first round against Compston, finished the opening 18 holes in a deficit of two. Incidentally, Compston won five out of the last six holes on the initial round. Ray and Compston tied at 301 for second place at Prestwick in the last Open Championship, which was won by Jim Barnes, the American professional, with one stroke less. As there is a medal under the auspices of the British Professional Golfers' Association for the first member of that body in each year's Open Championship, the ownership of that trophy was in issue between Ray and Compston, and their match was arranged to settle the matter.

Compston did not win a hole out of the first dozen, and Ray won the first, second and sixth. But, after twelve holes, the sixteenth was the only hole which Compston did not win, as a result of which the Northern professional started the second round with an advantage of two holes.

The match ended at the seventeenth hole in a win for Compston by two and one. Compston, who had been out in 36 against 39, faced the last nine holes with a four holes' lead.

Ray took the tenth, after Compston had been bunkered, and an unusual incident occurred at the eleventh. Ray's ball had been trodden into the ground by a spectator, and the referee, Mr. Harold Hilton, was appealed to by the Channel Islander. Matters had not gone very far when Compston arrived at the spot, and on his learning the topic of the talk, he kicked Ray's ball out of the depression, the hole eventually being halved. Four other halves followed, and Ray, who was fighting hard, won the sixteenth following a great approach. Compston at that hole playing a weak run-up and missing a two yards' putt for a half. Compston was now dormie two, and both reached the seventeenth green from the tee. A twelve yards' putt confronted Ray, and he just failed. The hole was halved, and Compston thus won the match.

WALTON HEATH BEAT OXFORD UNIVERSITY.

Walton Heath Club, playing on their own course on Saturday, beat Oxford University by nine matches to six. On the foursomes in the earlier part of the day the Club won four matches against one, with one game halved, and the singles ended in each side claiming five games with two halves. In the leading match of the opening half Sir Ernest Holderness and H. Le Bas, on the home side, beat the Oxford captain, A. D. Gale and J. H. Taylor, jun., by three and two, while, in the top single, Sir Ernest was three up at the seventh on Cave, who was by three and two. R. H. Oppenheimer, who has competed in the Boys' Championship, did extraordinarily well to beat E. Noel Layton, the international player, who was second in the home team, by seven and five. The younger player was five up at the turn, and he averaged 4's for the whole of the play.

Major C. O. Hezlet, a member of the Irish Zingari, and Colonel C. D. Hannay led the West Hill side in the foursomes, and they beat J. S. Heath and R. V. K. Finlay, by 6 and 4. In the singles, Hezlet beat Heath by 4 and 3.

BILLIARDS.

NEWMAN v. DAVIS.

In spite of the fact that only the first week's play in the 18,000 match between Newman and Davis has been completed at Thurston's Hall, London, a victory for the latter can be prophesied with a degree of confidence. At the close of Saturday's play Davis held the commanding lead of 3,762, at which stage Newman was 1,762 behind his points. In the afternoon session the champion had breaks of 112, 191, 142, 125 and 146, and Davis 104, 78, 108 and 186. Interval scores:—Davies (receives 4,000) (in play), 10,417; Newman, 6,602.

In the evening session Davis had breaks of 97, 79, 114 and 132. Newman's chief runs being 214, 84, and 207. Closing scores:—Davis (receives 4,000) (in play), 11,000; Newman, 7,238.

Bankruptcy returns in Canada for the month of June, just issued, show a decrease of over 50 per cent. in aggregate liabilities, the total being £520,000, compared with £1,200,000 in the corresponding month last year.

During the last Canadian fiscal year 3,843 free homesteads in the Prairie Provinces, aggregating nearly 615,000 acres, together with 710 soldier grants of 113,600 acres, were taken up. A homestead consists of 160 acres.

RUGBY.

SATURDAY'S MATCHES

TRINITY DEFEAT BLACKROCK.

CLONTARF SHOW IMPROVEMENT.

It was another ideal day for the Rugby code on Saturday, and the various matches were all played under conditions which favoured open play. The list of senior matches was a particularly interesting one, and in but two cases did results pan out according to expectations. A match that promised to provide the best game of the afternoon, Blackrock College and Dublin University, proved most disappointing. Both were unbeaten teams, but the Williamstown combination made a very poor show and were well beaten by 28 points to nil. Bective Rangers and Clontarf both won their matches for the first time this season. The former defeated Wanderers, while Clontarf got the better of University College at Terenure, crossing the home line three times and eventually winning by 9 points to ... Monkstown, as was more or less to be expected, proved too strong for Palmerston, but Lansdowne created rather a surprise by defeating Queen's University (Belfast), and this despite the fact that the Northerners travelled a very strong side.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY (28) V. BLACKROCK COLLEGE (0).

With Dublin University and Blackrock College having unbeaten records, their meeting at Williamstown on Saturday was looked upon as likely to provide the tit-bit of the afternoon. The large crowd who gathered around the College enclosure—it was a record for the ground—must, therefore, have been very disappointed at the poorness of the football. Trinity played up to form, but Blackrock gave them little or no opposition, and the result was an uninteresting one-sided game was a win for the University by 2 goals and 6 tries (28 points) to nil. From the very outset Trinity took over the attack, and the occasions were few when Blackrock were not defending. Whilst admitting that the home side had the worse of luck—they were without Browne in the pack, Crowe was injured early in the game and could not give of his best, and Willets and Cogan were injured in the second half and forced to retire—still, taking all this into account, the team even at full strength would have never been a match for Trinity on Saturday. The latter, who played as advertised, and had D. Cussen back again in the three-quarter line, gave a much better display than that on the previous Saturday, when Wanderers held them to a penalty goal.

The 'Varsity captain, Millin, who played "seventh-eighth," was the outstanding player on the side, and, indeed, on the field. Everything he did bore the mark of distinction, and his try in the first half, when he raced through the opposition from near midfield, was a particularly fine effort. Sugden played a great game at half and worked the "dummy" move to good effect. Nunns at fly-half played a fine game and joined up in every movement. R. Cussen was the best of the second line with his brother Denis next. Bingham was not often tested in the last line of defence, but anything that came his way he did well. The forwards played a surprisingly good game, and both the loose and tight were more than a match for the "bustling" Blackrock eight. Flood and Buchanan were most prominent of the seven, and next in order came R. Pike and Dowse.

The Blackrock display can be put down as most disappointing, though they managed to keep their line intact for twenty minutes of the first half, they never looked like scoring, and once Trinity crossed their line it was a case of how many points they would put up. Willis, who played full back for the College, was only moderate. Crowe was handicapped through an early injury, but played pluckily to the end. Stanley and McMullen showed good pace on their respective wings, while Tierney played as well as he was able at half. Of a disappointing pack of forwards, Broderick, S. Keogh and Cloonan were best.

Trinity had the better of play from the start, but the half was well advanced before they scored. Buchanan was the first try-getter, Sugden scoring for him over following an opening by Flood. Millin was the next to score, the result of a clever swerving run. Baker then scored twice in rapid succession, and, with Nunns converting once, the 'Varsity led at the interval by 14 points to nil.

Trinity also scored four times in the second period, R. Cussen (twice), Chance, and D. Cussen being the try-getters, and Nunns converted once. Owing to injuries to Willis and Cogan, Blackrock had only thirteen men during a good portion of this half. Result:—

Blackrock College—Nil.

The teams were:—

Blackrock College—E. Willis; T. D. Stanley, ... Keogh, M. Crowe, L. D. McMullan; P. J. Tierney, W. Palton, G. Gleeson, J. Dempsey, G. Brodrick, S. Keogh, G. Cloonan, M. Gleeson, E. Maguire, ... Cogan.

Dublin University—E. W. Bingham; T. J. Millin, D. J. Cussen, R. J. Cussen, P. O'Donovan; ... Baker, C. E. Nunns, M. Sugden; R. S. Flood, A. H. Pike, A. M. Buchanan, R. B. Pike, O. ... Chance, R. H. Dowse, R. G. Keays.

Referee—Mr. A. Mathews.

LANSDOWNE (6) V. QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY (3).

Lansdowne were at home to Queen's University on Saturday, and were returned winners by 2 points to three—2 penalty goals to a try. That was rather a lucky victory must be allowed, apart from the fact that Queen's were the only side to cross their opponents' line, the balance of play was also in their favour, and it was hard luck indeed that prevented at least an equalisation of points in the closing stages, when Stewart's penalty kick at goal struck the near upright. The game, as it went, was a good open one. A downfall of rain an hour or so before the start had left the ground rather soft, and the greasy feeling probably accounted for some of the failure through efforts not getting very far. Queen's were quickly into their stride, and had their score registered within a few minutes of the start. Half-way through the period Hogan had a penalty kick that yielded a goal, and the points were still level at the interval. Lansdowne looked like scoring early in the second half, but for most of the period the balance of play was in favour of Queen's, the home pack being beaten for possession, and the visitors' backs being constantly in attack, though they could not push their attacks home in the face of a sound defence. Quarter way through the period came Lansdowne's piece of luck, but it must have been with more hope than expectation that the majority of those present saw the kick placed for Crawford's penalty free a few yards short of half-way. It was a magnificent kick, and the points gave his side the lead and victory.

For the winners, Crawford played a great game at full back, and kicked with fine length and judgment. Hogan was the outstanding man in the three-quarter line. The combination, when they got going, was not effective against the sharp tackling of the visitors, but they put up a capital defence. Moran played a fair game at out-half. Behind a pack beaten for possession, O'Reilly had little chance in attack, and he was not smart enough to neutralise Rea behind Queen's pack. Brown, Dunn and Pick were noticeable in a hard-working pack.

For Queen's, Stewart was not too safe at back, being rather inclined to hold on to the ball, at times with the attack at close quarters. The three-quarter line handled a lot, but lacked that bit of finish necessary to push home their advantage. Gage was about the best, and Corkey put in some good work on the wing. Rea worked the scrum smartly, and was very well partnered by McKee. The forwards were a clever and dashing lot, superior to the Lansdowne pack, both in the tight scrums and in the loose.

The game was only a few minutes in progress when Rea, slipping round a scrum inside the home 25, made his way over for a smart try, which was not improved on. For a while Queen's continued to press, but after Corkey, on his way to the line, had been taken down by Hogan, the game swung to the other end. Crawford had a couple of unsuccessful penalty kicks at goal within short intervals of one another, and a little later, following a kick by one of the home backs, Stewart fumbled and Hogan was quickly on the line. The visitors were penalised, and Hogan landed a good goal. Queen's had rather the best of the rest of the half, but the sides changed over with the points level.

A fine piece of play by Crawford almost yielded a score on resuming. Fielding a long kick clear, the Lansdowne full-back ran with the ball and kicked past Stewart, and was up in time to hamper Stewart's attempted clearance, and pick up, but the effort needed without ... close on the line; but the effort needed without ... score. Following a cross-kick by Armstrong, Queen's were nearly over, but Harris got round to save. Then, in mid-field Crawford was offered a penalty kick, and landed a great goal. Queen's had quite the best of the game in the concluding stages, and once, with some fine loose work, came near scoring, while near the finish Stewart had a penalty kick at goal, but struck the near upright. Result:—

Lansdowne—2 penalty goals (6 points).
Queen's University—1 try (3 points).

Teams:—

Lansdowne—W. E. Crawford; T. V. Harris, V. Davy, G. P. S. Hogan, H. F. McGuire; O'Reilly, J. Moran; M. Bell, W. G. Brown, ... Dunn, E. A. Heard, J. McEnery, T. O. Pike, B. Poulter, T. A. Travers.

Queen's University—J. W. Stewart; J. A. Corkey, J. H. Gage, G. F. McGurran, H. C. Armstrong, M. A. Rea, F. McKee; G. Caruth, N. W. Cal..., H. Common, M. L. Forster, K. Forsythe, J. G... lay, D. A. C. Knight, L. C. Mayne.

BECTIVE RANGERS (8) V. WANDERERS (4).

The great lure of Rugby is its uncertainty, which keeps interest agog all the season, for the unexpected so often happens that nobody at this stage can predict with confidence which side will emerge triumphant when the serious business of the Cup competitions come along. This was exemplified at Donnybrook on Saturday, when Wanderers, so far unbeaten, and flushed with their fine performance of the previous Saturday in holding Trinity to a 3-point draw—a penalty goal each—met Bective Rangers, a side that had lost all four matches, and had a big score of points registered against them. This was mainly due to depleted sides, injuries, etc., and being men short for considerable portions of the matches. But the visitors were rather sanguine, and justifiably so, of victory, though they were without the services of their captain, that sterling forward, ... West. Bective, however, though without Collopy, Fitzgerald, J. Clarke and O'Neill, played together for the first time as a team, and, though led at the interval, emerged winners by a goal and a try to a dropped goal. The attendance was small, owing to the counter-attractions at Lansdowne road and Williamstown, but those who patronised these venues, or remained away, missed the best, fastest and most keenly contested game so far this season. The ground, despite the heavy overnight rain, was in good condition, and there was no wind, but the ball was a bit greasy.

For the winners, J. Ballagh was a great full back, and kicked judiciously and a good length. SATURDAY'S MATCHES.

TRINITY DEFEAT BLACKROCK.

CLONTARF SHOW IMPROVEMENT.

It was another ideal day for the Rugby code on Saturday, and the various matches were all played under conditions which favoured open play. The list of senior matches was a particularly interesting one, and in but two cases did results pan out according to expectations. A match that promised to provide the best game of the afternoon, Blackrock College and Dublin University, proved most disappointing. Half-way through the period Hogan had a penalty kick that yielded a goal, and the points were still level at the interval. BECTIVE RANGERS (8) V. WANDERERS (4).

The great lure of Rugby is its uncertainty, which keeps interest agog all the season, for the unexpected so often happens that nobody at this stage can predict with confidence which side will emerge triumphant when the serious business of the Cup competitions come along. This was well exemplified at Donnybrook on Saturday, where Wanderers, so far unbeaten, and flushed with their fine performance of the previous Saturday in holding Trinity to a 3-point draw—a penalty goal each, met Bective Rangers, a side that had lost all four matches, and had a big score of points registered against them. Still, the visitors were rather sanguine, and justifiably so, of victory, though they were without the services of their captain, that sterling forward, T. West. Bective, however, though without R. Collopy, Fitzgerald, J. Clarke and O'Neill, played together for the first time as a team, and, though led at the interval, emerged winners by a goal and a try to a dropped goal. The attendance was small, owing to the counter-attractions at Lansdowne road and Williamstown, but those who patronised these venues, or remained away, missed the best, fastest and most keenly contested game so far this season. The ground, despite the heavy overnight rain, was in good condition, and there was no wind, but the ball was a bit greasy.

For the winners, J. Ballagh was sound at back, and kicked judiciously and a good length. At wing three-quarter, "Long" once more won a match for Bective, for the Rangers were a point down well on in the second half, when he scored a brilliant try, to convert and make victory certain. The handling of W. Atkins, who replaced Fitzgerald, was far from convincing, and Dixon's tackling was crude. At five-eighth, Meldon was very good, and he made some clever openings, and S. Ballagh defended stoutly. The return of "Williams," as rover, was worth three men to his side, for he was everywhere, and led up to many good movements. His display showed that he is still about the brainiest forward we have. In the front rank the County Meath player, James Farrell, stood out prominently. He was at the head of almost every rush, and next in merit were Powell, McMurrogh, Wade and Deering.

For Wanderers, D. Kennedy, at back, gave one of his best displays, and kicked a great length. The three-quarter line as a whole worked together well, and did not drop a pass, Rev. R. Watson and T. McKeever being the most prominent. P. Murray, at the base of the scrum, gave the pluckiest of exhibitions. He was full of grit and cleverness, and though over-run by the Bective pack at times, owing to bad heeling by his forwards, he cut through time and again, and took a lot of stopping. His partner, Higginbotham, kicked well. Nowlan, who was taken out of the scrum to play behind the "threes" as "seven-eighth," got little, and he would have been more useful in the scrum in view of the heavy opposing pack. The best of the forwards were Johnston, Potterton, Fidler and Harte.

Bective had slightly the better of the first half, territorially, but Wanderers were getting possession the oftener. Play was fast and open, with alternating rushes, in which Farrell, Powell, McMurrogh and Downes were prominent for Bective, and Johnston, Potterton, Murray and Watson did good work for Wanderers. After the last-named had barely failed to score, Kennedy dropped a grand goal for Wanderers from near half-way, close on the interval.

Wanderers attacked on re-starting, but Long stopped a passing bout by throwing Nowlan into touch. Bective came back, and Meldon cut through to give to Williams, who sent S. Ballagh over at the right, far out, but Long failed to add the points. Deering and Powell kept Bective pressing, but a free to Wanderers cleared. Meldon cut through, but held on, and bad handling let Wanderers away to past centre. Williams, Wade and Powell put Bective attacking, and Wanderers touched down. A free to Bective, taken by Long, was well replied to by Murray. Meldon got away and passed to S. Ballagh, who sent Long over at the left corner to ground near the posts, and convert, thus putting Rangers four points ahead. Dixon ran well, but Nowlan held him up at Wanderers' 25. Bective still pressed, and offside against Wanderers gave Long a chance, but he sent wide. Murray and Higginbotham cleared for Wanderers, but Long found touch near the visitors' line. Murray and Watson brought Wanderers to half-way. Deering, Williams and Long brought Bective to the visitors' line. Result:—

Bective Rangers 1 goal 1 try (8 pts.).
Wanderers ...... 1 dropped goal (4 pts.).

Teams:—

Bective Rangers—J. Ballagh; V. Long, W. Atkins, C. L. Dixon; S. Ballagh, C. V. Meldon, D. Pedlow, C. P. Williams; E. C. Powell, A. Wade, C. Fagan, Jas. Farrell, J. McMurrogh, M. Deering, C. Downes.

Wanderers—D. Kennedy; T. F. McKeever, R. McKeever, D. Collins, Rev. R. Watson; P. Murray, C. F. Higginbotham; J. Fidler, A. J. Fisher, G. C. Harte, J. W. Johnston, A. W. Nowlan, H. N. Potterton, J. K. Reilly, J. T. Young.

CLONTARF (9) V. UNIVERSITY COLLEGE (8).

After a long period of almost unvaried defeat Clontarf showed a welcome revival on Saturday, defeating University College at Terenure by 3 tries to 1 goal and 1 try. The College had out practically the same side that defeated Lansdowne on the previous Saturday, so that Clontarf may congratulate themselves on a really meritorious performance. The 'Varsity backs showed more polish and a greater power of attack than the opposing lot, but the latter defended with unflagging resolution, and the pack, while working solidly in the scrummages, quite outplayed the University forwards in the loose. The whole display of Clontarf was encouraging, youthful, enthusiastic, and, endowed with fine athletic qualities, the team is bound to improve. At present the chief weakness is in the centre; Bruen has not yet mastered the art of making openings, and the middle men of the three-quarter line have not the genius to atone for this defect, though on Saturday Seymour had moments of inspiration, and with better opportunities would develop quickly. Browne, on the left wing, has considerable pace and determination, and Hare on the other side is also a useful performer, but on Saturday they seldom had much room to operate, and were so well marked when the ball came their way that complete achievement was out of the question. Nowlan, at full back, did not kick a great length, but he tackled in deadly fashion, and extricated himself from frequent difficult positions in the most cool, adroit manner possible. In a pack remarkable for fire, pace and untiring effort, Ryan, McMahon and the two Roches were most prominent.

The students owed their defeat to the unconvincing display of the forwards; they have a fine back division, but they have to make their own opportunities. The pack often pushed the opposing lot and got possession, but the heeling was slow and sloppy in the extreme, while, with a few honourable exceptions, the work in the loose was crude and amateurish, though Lyddy, Brosnan and Winters headed a few good rushes. McGowan deserves credit for a fine display under difficult conditions; whenever he had half a chance he got the ball away quickly and accurately to Davy, who was in one of his happiest moods, and displayed the greatest audacity and resource in breaking through to make openings for his three-quarter line, even though the side might be in a situation of danger. Lawler was the best of the second line; he has gained confidence since last season, and uses his pace to the best advantage. McCarron came well through a tough experience; he kicked a good length, always brought down his man, and in the case of the three Clontarf tries was defeated by numbers.

The first try of the match was an instance of this; a splendid rush of Clontarf forwards ending in Ryan getting over for a try, which went unconverted. The 'Varsity retaliated, and near Clontarf twenty-five Davy sent to Fitzgerald, who went through to score, but the kick at goal failed. Towards the end of the half Clontarf forwards swept down the field and McMahon burst over for a try, but once more the extra points were missed.

After the interval the College attacked, and McGowan sent to Davy, who dodged through a crush, sold a dummy, and scored under the posts, for McCarron to kick a goal. University put in a long attack, but at last Clontarf forwards burst away, and, kicking ahead near the line, a race for the touch was won by Miller, but Nowlan's kick hit the cross-bar and rebounded into the field of play. Clontarf were now one point to the good, and they held that advantage to the end. Result:—

Clontarf—3 tries (9 points).
University College—1 goal and 1 try (8 points).

Teams:—

University College—E. McCarron; T. J. G. Lawler, J. Buckley, J. Fitzgerald, T. J. Morris; P. W. McGowan, E. Davy; M. Brosnan, P. H. Smyth, J. Lyddy, A. J. Culhane, L. Devereux, J. J. Winters, C. S. O'Flynn, D. J. Cavanagh.

Clontarf—G. S. Nowlan; A. J. Hare, E. N. Seymour, J. S. Miller, A. D. Browne; J. E. Allen, J. Bruen; E. A. Roche, D. Butler, D. Ryan, M. J. McMahon, P. J. Kavanagh, O'S. Roche, T. P. Carey, R. Corcoran.

Referee—Mr. J. H. Miles.

MONKSTOWN (22) V. PALMERSTON (8).

Although at the finish of their match against Palmerston at Sydney Parade on Saturday, Monkstown had the decisive margin of fourteen points in their favour it was a very long time before they really got on top, and midway through the second half they only held a single point lead. The final score was 2 goals and 4 tries to a goal and a try. That Palmerston held their own for the greater part of the game was entirely due to the strenuous work of the forwards, who followed up to a man, tackling hard and succeeded in making play chiefly of a forward nature. Their efforts, however, were unsupported by the backs, and in the end it was not surprising that they relaxed, and the Monkstown pack, lasting well, were able to give their backs a good supply of the ball in the last quarter of an hour. A failing that frequently cost Palmerston a good position was the eagerness of the forwards to handle the ball in the loose scrums, and they were several times penalised for this offence. Monkstown's display was by no means convincing, and the three-quarter line, from which Swanton was missing, combined badly, except in the closing stages. The forwards were second fiddle for the better part of the game. Some of them were too much inclined to try and do the work of the scrum-half, and they were also slow in getting round to stop the Palmerston rushes, but they stuck it out well and were going stronger at the finish than at any other period of the game.

O'Sullivan, at full for Monkstown, had a busy afternoon against the short kick and follow up tactics adopted by the Palmerston forwards, but was quite sound. McCaldin was the best of the three-quarters, but O'Brien only got about one good pass during the match, and from this he scored a fine try, although limping. Ganly was in capital form at out-half, and his powerful running was a big factor on his side's success, although he often outpaced his own backs as well as the opposition. Pickeman had far from an easy task at the base of the scrum, but got the ball away well when given a fair chance by his own forwards. The best of the forwards were Murphy, O'Reilly, Tighe and Mulhern.

V. E. Kirwan, at full-back, was the only back on Palmerston side to impress. He was very sound in every respect. There was no attempt at passing by the outsides, in fact, the ball seldom got further than the scrum-half, whose instructions evidently were to kick. The pick of a good forward division were Hill, S. Kirwan, Wilson and Anderson.

Monkstown were first to score, Ganly getting over for a try after McCaldin had put in a fine run. This was not converted, and they soon lost the lead for Anderson scored a try for Palmerston following a forward rush, and then brought out the full points with a great kick from far out. A good cut through and a long run by Ganly ended in McCaldin scoring Monkstown's second try, but Pickeman again failed with the kick, and the home side led by six points to five at the interval.

Shortly after the resumption some fine work in the loose gave the visitors an attacking position, and Hussey, following up a short kick, was favoured by the bounce of the ball, and slipped over for a try, which Anderson did not convert. Ganly was very prominent in the subsequent play and regained the lead for his side by scoring a fine try, after racing clean through the opposing backs, and Pickeman had hard lines with the kick at goal. O'Brien soon supplemented this with another try, the result of a particularly good effort under difficulties, and before the final whistle McCaldin and Brittain added further tries to the score, both of which Pickeman converted. Result:—

Monkstown—2 goals 4 tries (22 points).
Palmerston—1 goal 1 try (8 points).

Teams:—

Monkstown—J. M. O'Sullivan; C. McCaldin, H. A. Brittain, A. A. Buchanan, D. L. O'Brien; J. B. Ganly, D. C. Pickeman; J. F. Murphy, M. A. J. O'Reilly, S. N. Lane, E. C. G. Mulhern, M. J. Byrne, A. J. Walmsley, W. A. Hadden, H. Tighe.

Palmerston—V. E. Kirwan; J. Armstrong, F. P. Hussey, C. N. Kirwan, J. E. Kerr; S. Henchie, P. Phillips; C. M. Hill, J. R. Y. Wilson, S. V. Kirwan, T. A. Thompson, R. E. P. Anderson, W. A. Ruddell, — Kean, W. F. Van der Kiste.

Referee—Dr. Beckett.

NORTH OF IRELAND (46) V. WATERLOO (3).

Waterloo paid their first Irish visit on Saturday, when they met North of Ireland at Belfast. Owing to a county match, the visitors were not able to travel with a full side, and consequently they fell an easy prey to the fast North backs, and the final score was eight goals and two tries to a try. Except in the loose, Waterloo had very little of the game, and in this department their forwards did very well. Out-weighted in the scrums, however, they were invariably beaten for possession, and when the ball did come out to the backs the handling was poor, and the combination was easily smothered. North, on the other hand, were frequently on the move, and backs and forwards alike were concerned in passing bouts, the efficacy of which is indicated by the extent of the score.

The first half was the more evenly contested. A forward rush brought North their first score, Ross and Bramwell being principally concerned, and the latter falling on the ball. Stephenson did not convert. A try by McKeown, which Stephenson converted, and one by Orchard, which he himself improved upon, followed. Then ensued a fine attack by Waterloo, which, though unfruitful, led up to an unconverted try, Springman being the scorer. North, however, responded with tries per Stephenson and Brand, which Cunningham and Stephenson enhanced, North leading at the interval by three goals and a try to a try.

Although having a share of the game, Waterloo completely failed to stem the North attack in the second period, and scores came from Stephenson (2), Hutchinson, Hamilton and Orchard. Stephenson, who was in great kicking form, converted all of them, and the game ended:—

North of Ireland 8 goals 2 tries (46 pts.)
Waterloo .... 1 try (3 pts.)

Teams:—

Waterloo—Wallens; Finigan, Wallens, Springman, Turner; M'Arthur, M'Callum; Parkinson, Prescott, Crawford, Stephenson, Taylor, Hayhurst, Allen, Manning.

N.I.F.C.—H. W. Baillie; R. L. Hamilton (capt.), M. Atkinson, G. V. Stephenson, J. H. M'Keown; B. Henry, S. Orchard; N. Brand, T. Bramwell, T. Cunningham, J. Duff, R. W. Hutchinson, J. Ross, J. Turner, C. J. Webb.

Referee—Mr. H. F. Shepperd.

INSTONIANS (27) V. COLLEGIANS (9).

Ravenhill was the venue for the meeting of Instonians and Collegians, in the Ulster Senior Championship, and the prospect of a close game attracted a good attendance to the Northern headquarters. Instonians had no difficulty in maintaining their unbeaten record, though, more especially in the first half, Collegians gave them a hard tussle. They were forced to touch down in the first moment of play, but soon a smart passing bout ended with Hewitt going over, for Douglas to convert. A fine dropped goal by Grant reduced the lead, and the subsequent exchanges were very evenly contested till almost the interval, when Hewitt scored again, Douglas adding the extra points.

Early in the second half, when the Collegians' defence cracked up and the Instonians' backs were throwing the ball about at will, Douglas went over for two unconverted tries. The same player failed to enhance a score of McGeown's, but when Hewitt dodged through half-a-dozen opponents to touch down, Hall added the major points. Hewitt added another, which he did not improve upon, and in the closing stages Swinson, receiving from McVicker, scored for Collegians, Marshall kicking a fine goal from near the touch line. Result:—

Instonians—3 goals 4 tries (27 points).
Collegians—2 goals (1 dropped) (9 points).

Teams:—

Instonians—G. A. Armstrong; A. C. Douglas, E. Abernethy, F. S. Hewitt, and S. K. McKeown; W. H. Hall and J. C. McDowell; J. P. Campbell, H. Copeland, W. G. Dick, G. B. Goldsbrough, H. Halliday, A. H. Milliken, J. M. McDowell, and J. Neill.

Collegians—D. Kerr; J. C Galloway, D. Grant, C. R. Hillyard, E. Elliott; L. Marshall and G. Barry; C. C. Allen, G. Castles, W. J. Hutchinson, H. McKee, J. McVicker (capt.), T. Simpson, B. C. Swinson, J. Thompson.

Referee—Mr. A. Strain.

MALONE (0) V. LURGAN (0).

After a hard tussle at Balmoral, honours were even between Malone and Lurgan. The game was one largely confined to the forwards, and while the Lurgan pack were a trifle more prominent, over-eagerness repeatedly led to infringements. Apart from forward play and kicking to touch, there was not much in the game, and the scoreless result was a fair enough indication of the general trend of play. Result:—

Malone—Nil.
Lurgan—Nil.

Teams:—

Malone—C. D. Waddell; J. H. G. Majury, C. G. Rezin, W. B. P. Baird, F. M. Hall; A. Emerson, J. Campbell; J. A. Cresswell, M. Henry, T. R. V. Irwin (capt.), H. G. Lamont, A. Lamont, W. May, R. H. Ross, E. J. White.

Lurgan—L. Malcolmson; J. A. B. Sproule, W. H. G. Gracey, J. McNabb, J. D. Malcomson; R. Pedlow, K. K. Johnston; D. Anderson, M. Gilchrist, C. Lyness, R. Hayes, R. Murphy, T. McNabb, J. F. McCaw, W. Uprichard.

Referee—Mr. S. Drean.

KNOCK (13) V. BANGOR (8).

Knock achieved their first championship win of the season at the expense of Bangor, at the latter's ground. Bangor started a man short, and after being brought up to strength, lost Allen, owing to an injured shoulder. Give-and-take play marked the opening stages, and then Bangor showed marked aggressiveness, which, however, was not commensurately rewarded. Then Knock took the upper hand, and after a home misunderstanding had allowed Abbott in for an unconverted try, the same player added another, which was improved upon.

In the second half Knock lost Grange owing to a mishap, and Bangor, following a passing movement, scored per Buchanan, who received from Strain. Nicholson goaled. The home side continued the pressure on resuming, and Strain, intercepting a pass, scored at the post, Nicholson's kick failing. This put the teams on equal terms, the bounce, and Abbott scored far out, Rudd but before the finish Nicholson failed to judge goaling. Result:—

Knock—2 goals 1 try (13 points).
Bangor—1 goal 1 try (8 points).

OLD WESLEY "A" (22) V. COUNTY KILDARE (7).

Old Wesley, having no fixture in Dublin, travelled to Naas to play the County team, and, by reason of their good forward work and superior combination of their backs, well deserved their win. The home team were a man short throughout the game, and their back division was a purely experimental one. The visitors all expressed surprise at the fine ground and pavilion, which undoubtedly is one of the best in the provinces. Play in the first half was very even, C. J. Ellison having hard lines in being held up on the line after a fine run in which he twice sold the "dummy." Near half-time J. O'Connor dropped a beautiful goal from centre field.

In the second half the visitors got possession in practically all the scrums, and Holland and Elliott made good use of their chances. Elliott (2) and Rea scored tries, which Holland converted, and the last-named also dropped a goal. Love kicked a penalty goal. For the home side J. Brophy kicked a penalty goal.

For the winners, F. Elliott, who started at full back, and later played scrum-half, was good in both positions, and his two tries were good individual efforts. Love, Richardson and Holland were also prominent in the back division. Forward, McQuitty, Dunwoody, Anketell and Clegg were the pick of a good pack.

For the losers J. O'Connor, at full-back, whilst kicking as well as usual, made several mistakes in fielding and tackling. The three-quarter line was an experimental one, and, under the circumstances, did fairly well, Mooney and Hennessy being best. The halves, Ellison and O'Dowd, were the best of the side and combined well. Of a beaten pack, Gibson was the best, followed in merit by Sargent, A. O'Connor, and Brophy.

Old Wesley A.—F. Elliott; Rea, Richardson, Fitzpatrick, Love; Holland, McKee; Clegg, Dunwoody, May, Anketell, McConnell, McQuitty, Glanville, Gray.

County Kildare—J. O'Connor; Mooney, J. Hennessy, McGan, E. O'Connor; C. J. Ellison, O'Dowd; A. Sargent, V. Gibson, Brady, J. Brophy, A. O'Connor, E. O'Connor, Johnson.

Referee—Mr. Crawford.

STRENUOUS GAME AT LIMERICK.

The Munster Senior League Competition was advanced a further stage in Limerick, when Garryowen (the holders) beat Bohemians by a penalty goal and a try (six points) to nothing. It was a good match for three-quarters of the time, but towards the end there was some rough play, and one player was ordered off the ground by the referee.

DUBLIN HOSPITALS UNION.

The annual general meeting of the Hospitals Football Union was held on Friday in R.C.D. Hospital, when the following officers were elected for season 1925-26:—President, Dr. Solomons; Hon. Secretary, E. W. Bingham; Hon. Treasurer, K. O'Doharty. Committee—Dr. Courtney, T. Millin, M. Brosnan. In view of the match versus County Dublin, on November 7th, and versus London Hospitals on November 10th, hon. secretaries of the hospitals are requested to send in their lists of eligible players immediately.

BRISTOL (14) V. LONDON-IRISH (5).

Bristol had little difficulty in disposing of the London Irish, although the latter made a good effort in the first half. Bristol were without nine of their county men, and they had the better of the opening play and scored three tries in fifteen minutes, through Spoors, Goole and Feltham, one being converted. Fetherly scored for the visitors, Keenor converting.

In the second half the game was largely forward, where the visitors did well for a time with rushes. J. A. Tucker added a further try for Bristol, the place kick failing. Bristol had the advantage behind the scrum, but the forwards were well watched, Gelap, for the visitors, played a fine game. The London-Irish team was composed of Townsley, Fogherty, Keenor, Ryan, Doller, Gelap, Colborn, Morgan, Toiny, West, Reid, Daly, Lagney, Donovan and Ryland.

WANDERERS V. WATERLOO.

Waterloo, a strong team from Liverpool, play Wanderers at Lansdowne road to-day. No less than eight county trial players figure on the visiting side, and, as the match will be the first test between a Dublin and a cross-Channel side, it should be an exceptionally interesting one. Wanderers unfortunately will be without their captain, T. West, who was injured in the match against Trinity last Saturday, but otherwise will be at full strength. Kick-off at 2.45. Teams:—

Wanderers.—D. Kennedy; T. McKeever, R. McKeever, D. Collins, Rev. R. Watson; P. Murray, C. Higginbotham; J. H. Fidler, A. J. Fisher, C. C. Harte, J. Johnston, A. Nowlan, H. N. Potterton, J. K. Reilly, D. T. Young.

Waterloo.—Atkinson; Turner, Wallens, Wallens Finnegan; McArthur, Mitchell; Smith, Rigby, Perlian, Stephenson, Jardine, Prescott, Crawford, Allen.

Referee—Mr. C. Stuart.

KING'S HOSPITAL (12) v. WESLEY COLLEGE (6).

In this match, played at Blackhall place, King's Hospital won by 4 tries to 1 penalty goal and a try. The game was mainly a forward one, with Wesley superior in the scrummage. Mechanical passing by the backs account for their failure to score when in possession. For King's Hospital, Wall was invaluable, scoring all four tries and defending well. Among the forwards, Ford, C. Mullen and N. Mullen, for King's Hospital, and Armitage and Kingston, for Wesley, did useful work, while Kearon, at wing for Wesley, scored a neat try, and Greenaway opened up the game well.

BELVEDERE COLLEGE (6) v. MOUNTJOY SCHOOL (5).

It was only after a hard-fought and highly-interesting and exciting game that Belvedere College maintained their unbeaten record by defeating Mountjoy School by 2 tries (6 points) to a goal (5 points). Carroll was the outstanding player on the winning side. He scored the two tries, and was foremost in every movement. Peyton was the scorer for Mountjoy, and also the goal kicker. This was Mountjoy's first defeat this season.

Players A.A. 1st v. Civil Service 1st.—Played at Kimmage road. Result:—Players, 1 try (3 points); Civil Service, 1 penalty goal (3 points).

High School 2nd v. St. Andrew's 2nd.—Played at Belgrave square. Result:—High School 2nd, 45 points, St. Andrew's 2nd, 15 points.

St. Andrew's College (under 13) v. Earlsfort House (under 13).—This match was played at Donnybrook on Saturday, and resulted in a win for St. Andrew's by 30 points to 9 points. White, Simpson, Hinchie, and McConnell played well for St. Andrew's, while Johnston, Plews and Fletcher were the pick of Earlsfort House.

LEINSTER JUNIOR FINAL.

DUBLIN AND KILKENNY HURLERS DRAW.

(BY PAT'O.)

When Kilkenny and Dublin clash in hurling a bright even game usually develops, and the spectators at Croke Park yesterday were not disappointed. Dublin had a wide selection of players, but some men disappointed, so the backbone of the team was drawn from the Kickham Club. Kilkenny has produced the most stylish hurlers in the country, and the young players who represented the county yesterday give promise of developing into high-class hurlers.

The teams played poorly for ten minutes, over-anxiety caused frequent missing, and Dublin were first to attack. Long hitting by Costigan and Muldoon gave Byrne an opening, and he found the net. Mullins, playing well in Kilkenny's defence, retired injured, but his side balanced matters when Fleming goaled after a very spirited attack. Kilkenny had the advantage of the breeze, and settled down to play a very neat and attractive game. Crowley scored twice in Dublin's goal before Teehan burst through, and gave the visitors the lead, which Carroll (Mooncoin) increased with a perfectly judged ball from a wide angle.

Kilkenny continued to show superiority, their deft catching and ready hitting kept the Dublin backs busy. Dublin made the serious mistake of dallying with the ball and indulging in spectacular hitting, which Kilkenny's speed-rendered ineffective. Dublin's rare attacks in this period were comfortably dealt with by Holland, Williams and Houlihan. Holland was an outstanding player, and it was from a drive of his that Dowling doubled home Kilkenny's third goal. Shortly before the interval Crowley was beaten for the fourth time, Dowling being again the scorer, and Kilkenny turned over with a formidable lead. Half-time:—

Kilkenny—4 goals 1 point.
Dublin—1 goal.

Kilkenny continued to play the more finished hurling, pressing frequently, until some fine work by Costigan and Dwyer gave Higgins an opening. That clever winger made no mistake, hitting a point over from far out. Carroll (Mooncoin) replied immediately with a like score, and Kilkenny seemed to be winning comfortably with eighteen minutes to play and a 10 points' lead. Dowling had a great run on Kilkenny's left attack; he hit a grand ball, in which Crowley brought down and cleared brilliantly. This was the forerunner of a great Dublin recovery, for some powerful work in midfield ended in Higgins getting possession and goaling. Returning to the attack with fresh fire, Howell, Tracy, and Byrne tried Dermody hard in the Kilkenny net. He was tried very successfully recently in the Senior League match against Tipperary, but though he had good support from Holland and Houlihan, the Dublin forwards were on the top of their game—soon narrowed the gap between the teams, after some exciting caman work. Coming up the field from the back, Muldoon dribbled his way through, and meeting a returned ball by Holland, the Dubliner drove into the net, giving Dermody no chance. Keeping up the pressure, Higgins again got clear on the stand-side, and once more found the posts with a high ball from long range, and when, following a reckless Dublin charge, Kilkenny's goal fell again, the teams were level. Dermody saved a hot shot soon after at the expense of a 70 yards' free, weakly taken by Costigan; it reached Powell on the right wing, and a powerful ground ball rose above the bar and gave Dublin the lead, with four minutes to go. Holland now left his place in Kilkenny backs and tried hard to save the game, and Carroll had a "pot" shot for goal. Crowley's eye was now in and he stopped the hottest shot of the match beneath the bar. Before being dispossessed, however, a pretty movement amongst Kilkenny's forwards ended in Fleming driving out of Crowley's reach and settling the teams level for the third and last time, a minute from the end. The game closed in a scene of exciting crowded hurling, where both ends were visited in rapid succession, without further score. Dublin's grand rally almost won the game near the end, but on the hour's play, Kilkenny would have been very unlucky losers, and a draw fairly represents the merits of the teams. The re-play will be fixed during the week and must prove a great attraction. Final scores:—

Kilkenny .... 4 goals 4 pts. (16)
Dublin .... 4 goals 4 pts. (16)

Teams:—

Dublin—Higgins, Byrne, Cusack, Murphy, Powell, Crowley (goal), Walsh, Byrne, Costigan, McEnerney, Dwyer, Treacy, Muldoon, Hennessy, Hyland.

Kilkenny—Holland (2), Carroll, McGrath, Dermody (goal), Barry, Dowling, Fleming, Feehan, Maher, Carroll, Murphy, Mullins, Williams, Houlihan.

DUBLIN FOOTBALLERS AT TRALEE.

Kerry defeated Dublin yesterday at Tralee in a friendly football match. The Dublin selection was largely made up of the M'Crackens, Kickhams, and St. Mary's. Kerry, on the other hand, were minus some of their championship players. The ground, following recent rains, was soft and the ball slippery. At the start Dublin showed up well, but could make no impression on the defence. Sheehy, leading a Kerry rush, gave to O'Connor, who found the net after ten minutes' play. The home side continued to have the best of matters, and after midfield exchanges Sheehy again got possession, and gave to O'Connor, who once more raised the green flag for Kerry. Dublin then pressed, and though the Kerry backs showed up well a major was registered for Dublin. Kerry replied soon after with a minor, leaving the half-time score:—

Kerry—2 goals 1 point.
Dublin—1 goal.

On resuming Kerry, with a slight breeze in their favour dominated the play, and as the game progressed their superiority was manifest. An outstanding feature was the brilliant saving by Flanagan for Dublin. On the Kerry side Sheehy stood out on his own. The final score was:—

Kerry—4 goals and 8 points.
Dublin—1 goal.

The teams were:—

Kerry—Sheehy, Barrett, M'Carthy, Moriarty, Kerins, Whitty, Baily, Ryan, Stack, Walsh, Mahony, Russell, J. J. Sheehy, O'Connell, Moriarty.

"MUSICAL LEAGUE OF NATIONS."

BIG GRAMOPHONE COMBINE UNDER BRITISH CONTROL.

An amalgamation of international gramophone companies, which will mean a world-wide influence for British music, was announced last Saturday by the Columbia Graphophone Company in London, which has now completed negotiations to take controlling interest in factories operating in eleven foreign countries.

The main foreign companies which now become centralised under the British company are the Columbia Phonograph Company of New York, the Carl Lindstrum A.G. of Berlin, and the Transoceanic Trading Company of Amsterdam. The capital represented by the union runs into several millions. Factories in France, Austria, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Spain, Sweden, Poland, Argentine, Brazil, and the United States will be under British control.

"The amalgamation means virtually a musical league of nations," said a director of the company in an interview. "Famous British artists will now have an entry into countries and markets not hitherto open to them.

"Conversely, it will now be possible to bring the work of hitherto inaccessible foreign artists into British homes."

The new company will be called Columbia International, Ltd., and a prospectus will be issued next week.

THE INTERNATIONAL MATCH.

THRILLING GAME AT BELFAST.

A CREDITABLE DRAW FOR IRELAND.

ENGLAND 0

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

An influential English newspaper on Saturday, alluding to the match between Ireland and England at Belfast, described it as a struggle between England and the Rest of the British Isles, in which the visiting team "will consist solely of English players and the 'home' team will contain six men playing for English clubs, three for Scottish, one for Welsh and one for Irish." As a matter of fact, of the Irish side seven were players of English clubs, two of Scottish, one of a Welsh club, and the other of an Irish, sentimental reasons perhaps being responsible for the inclusion of the latter. But whether the view of the English paper alluded to was intentionally thus given expression to, the fact remains that it struck a pretty tuneful note.

Many years have elapsed since the Irish Football Association set the fashion of introducing the cross-Channel element into their teams, and the practice has become so general that it seems as if the only way in which the Irish footballer playing for an Irish club can qualify for consideration by the Irish Selection Committee is for him to throw in his lot with some English or Scottish club. Nor does it seem to matter whether he ranks as first-class in cross-Channel football; so long as his credentials bear the seal of one of the clubs on the other side he is right. That the system is a bad one and that it has militated against the thorough development of the game in this country is a fact that need not be stressed; but it has had the approval of the footballers of "the South" in the past, for even when "Leinster" was represented on the Irish International Selection Committee it was in vogue. And that the football public of Belfast prefer to watch the play of the cross-Channel footballer to watching local "talent" has been emphasised year after year by the increasing attendances at these matches in the Northern capital.

And it was the glamour attaching to the "exile" which brought so many footballers to Windsor Park, Belfast, on Saturday. It was estimated that there were thirty thousand people in the Park, and in the crowd was a big metropolitan contingent which left Amiens street at 9.30. They certainly witnessed a thrilling struggle, which eventuated in a draw, so that for at least two years the Football Association will have to wait for a repetition at Belfast of the victory which their selected gained there in 1908. And it was an eminently creditable draw which the Irishmen made of the match, which from beginning to end was fast and furious.

It was the first international played under the new off-side rule, and the change made for a much better and faster game of football. Not once had the referee to whistle for a breach of the rule, and all the time the forwards were at full stretch. And another remarkable feature of the game was that, although the altered conditions have led to a remarkable increase in the number of goals scored in first-class football all over the British Isles, there was not a goal—good or bad—scored by either side. For that, however, we had to thank the goalkeeping of Scott and B. Howard Baker. Finer goalkeeping has not been seen in an International match for years, and it is doubtful if Ireland has ever been better served in goal than she was in this game. Whether the English forwards pleased the team builders remains to be seen, but I think a couple of the attackers will not be invited to play again this season.

THE IRISH DEFENCE.

There will likely also be changes in the Irish forward line; for there were weaknesses in it. You could not help thinking that Bothwell, of the Ards club, on this, his first appearance in a representative match, did not rise to the occasion. In fact, he proved his inexperience in the manner in which he attempted to get the better, single-handed, of the two great backs who were opposed to him in Bromilow and Hudspeth, and had he parted with the ball, instead of trying to make these backs look second-raters, he would have done much better for his side. But, taking the Irish team on the whole, they did uncommonly well, and as for the defence, they, to a man, rose in great style to the occasion; so far as the home team was concerned, the defence carried off all the honours. Scott, in goal, was brilliant, and even had the English forwards played up to the form on which they had been chosen, it is doubtful if the Liverpudlian would have had to acknowledge defeat. The backs, one and all, were grand. Once in the first half Rollo mis-kicked, but that was really the only mistake which any of the quintette made in the whole match. The forwards, however, were lacking in finish, and there was a tendency to rely too much on individual effort, that being noticeable particularly on the right wing, for was Davey a great success in the centre; for he failed to control his forwards, and as an individualist he was not a star turn. But it was a very fine game to watch, with not a dull moment; indeed, it was a fitting tribute to the players and the exciting nature of the struggle that so few of the big crowd left the ground before the match had finished.

CLAUDE ASHTON'S MISTAKES.

The Irish players had to face the glare of the sun at the start, and it proved a trying handicap; in fact, it made ball control exceedingly difficult. But from the kick off the home forwards set a merry pace. The English half-backs, however, soon gained the upper hand, and clever passing to the players in front enabled the latter to swarm down on the Irish backs. They were checked by Gowdy, and then followed a spirited attack by the Irishmen. Sloane kicked over the goal line, and from the kick out the English halves again got moving, and Kean led up to another vigorous onslaught on the home goal by the left wing pair. There was a lively duel between Rollo and Walker, but the English forward got the better of the back, only to see the ball again sent over the line. Previously to this Ashton had had a fine chance, but he shot wildly over the bar—a narrow escape for Ireland. Although the English forwards were not dangerous in the vicinity of goal they were playing better together, and displaying the more scientific ball control, but too much latitude was allowed to Hudspeth for his big kicking, the home forwards apparently being averse to crowding the Newcastle back.

If anything, the Englishmen were having the better of the match, but when the venue was changed Bothwell went away on the right. He was not heavy enough, however, for the opposing backs. Further pressure by England was succeeded by another determined Irish attack, and on this occasion a centre by Sloan to Hopkins resulted in the latter letting fly at Baker, but the English goalkeeper was not to be beaten by shots taken at long range or at random. Hereabouts it was evident that Scott was in his best form in the Irish goal; for he saved a very hot one from Dorrell. The play was fast, and the football of excellent quality all round, but the Irishmen seemed to be taking too much out of themselves, and the usual break-down was anticipated. The best chance of the match came to Ashton. He had practically an open goal and a score seemed imminent, but to the intense relief of the onlookers the ball skidded off his foot and went wide of Scott. The English backs were playing well together, and when one or other was beaten his partner was always there to fill the gap.

A PENALTY DISALLOWED.

The only real advantage which either side could claim for the first quarter of an hour was a corner which the English fowards forced, but Scott effected a grand save from Puddefoot, who was not playing the brilliant game which he did against the Irish League, and which assured him his place in the team for this match. Wild kicking among the Irish backs brought another corner to England. Both goalkeepers were then tested, Baker by Irvine and Scott by Kean. The deceptive passing by the English trio fooled the opposition frequently, and with the Irish forwards evincing a tendency to roam out of their places matters went all right for the visitors for there was no one up to take a pass in by McMullen, who was playing a sterling game on the left, while at times the forwards were inclined to delay in parting with the ball. Still, the Irishmen were enjoying quite a good share of the play. In one of the attacks launched by the home forwards the English defenders were fortunate when an appeal for a penalty was disallowed. It was a perfectly justifiable claim, but evidently the referee did not see the infringement, and he merely pointed to the corner for a flag kick, which decision was greatly resented by the crowd. Still, it was a very unseemly demonstration against the referee. In the closing moments of the first half Scott brought off a daring save from the feet of a couple of forwards, and on the interval he was again brilliant. But try as they might neither side could score, and the half-way stage was reached with the goalkeepers undefeated.

SCOTT'S BRILLIANCE.

If anything the game in the second half was better than it had been in the first. The Irishmen combined better, and, what was more, they showed not the least sign of slackening off. The Englishmen also played a more virile game, and the result was thoroughly interesting, and, at times most exciting, struggle for that one goal which it was generally conceded would decide the issue. Each side had the chance of getting it, and the Englishmen were particularly aggressive, but Scott was great in the Irish goal. He had barely time to box away a tremendous shot from Puddefoot, who was playing with more dash than in the first half. The best chance which Ireland really had came the way of Davey, but with an open goal he failed to avail of it, and then after the whistle had gone Scott again greatly distinguished himself. And so the game proceeded on even lines to the finish, each side holding the advantage in turn, but the one goal did not come.

Just as the final whistle went there was a rush on to the ground by hundreds of the spectators, and half a dozen constables charged into the crowd, under the impression that it was a demonstration against the referee, on account of his having disallowed the penalty kick, but the crowd did not want the referee. They wanted Scott, and they got him, and chaired him to the pavilion. He certainly had saved the Irish team, but there were others who had played their part equally as well, if not so picturesquely. The teams were:—

Ireland.—Scott (Liverpool); Rollo (Blackburn Rovers), McConnell (Reading); Gowdy (Falkirk), Chatton (Partick Thistle), Sloan (Cardiff City), Bothwell (Ards), Irvine (Everton), Davey (Reading), Hopkins (Brighton), McMullan (Distillery).

England.—B. Howard Baker (Chelsea); Smart (Aston Villa), Hudspeth (Newcastle United); Kean (Sheffield Wednesday), G. H. Armitage (Charlton Athletic), Bromilow (Liverpool); Austin (Manchester City), Puddefoot (Blackburn Rovers), C. T. Ashton (Corinthians) (capt.), Walker (Aston Villa), Dorrell (Aston Villa).

Referee—G. D. Nunnerley (Wales).

ROVERS BEAT BOHEMIANS.

The score of 4-1, by which Shamrock Rovers defeated Bohemians in their Free State League game at Dalymount on Saturday, considerably flatters the winners. At no time did they play up to their regular standard and were, as a matter of fact, for the greater part of the 90 minutes defending their posts against a determined but inefficient set of Bohemian forwards.

It was the old story. Bohemians could do anything but score, and until they can procure a couple of forwards capable of shooting they will lose more matches. In the match under notice they played a good game, being much superior to Rovers through the field and towards goal, but their methods in the goal area were crude. They kept the ball too close to beat a defence such as Rovers possess, and this, combined with poor marksmanship lost them at least half-a-dozen goals which, had they scored them, would about have represented the run of the play.

In comparison, the winning forwards were more confident and made much better use of their chances, as the result goes to show. When they broke through, the forwards combined with a machine-like movement, which they invariably pressed home. They also played with a much better understanding, their long passing being well executed and always, or almost always, being productive of tangible results, while their forwards, as far as shooting went, were superior to the Dalymount five. Their backs were often hard pressed, but, by cool, determined methods, succeeded in spoiling the efforts of the home forwards to get through.

In attack and defence Bohemians were superior through the field, both half-backs and fulls displaying fine artistry, while the manner in which both Kelly and McIlroy placed to the forwards was a feature. On the other hand, the Rovers' middle line did not play up to form, and though they did some good spoiling they never made the same play for the attackers as did the home trio. Both Kirkland and Malone have often done much better at full back, and were it not for the efficient manner in which O'Reilly defended his goal Bohemians must have scored many goals. His saving at close quarters when his backs were beaten was capital, but it is just questionable if a couple at least of the shots which he got away were not over the line. There were many who were of the opinion that they were, but the referee gave him the benefit of the doubt.

Bohemians broke away from the start, and inside a minute, Otto, who was playing centre forward, narrowly missed scoring. Bohemians continued the pressure, but it was early apparent that the methods of the forwards were wrong, and Rovers' backs easily held them. After twelve minutes Rovers left broke through and working up the wing, Fagan placed well across the goal to Farrell, who shot, and Carter, the home left half-back turned the ball out of Cannon's reach for Rovers' lead. In the subsequent play Bohemians quite overran the visitors, but failed to get through, and in another break-away Cowzer made good use of a well-placed corner kick by Fagan to score the second goal. Bohemians renewed their efforts, and in a good movement Otto looked like getting through when he was fouled by Malone, and Thomas scored from the penalty kick. This proved the limit of their scoring, and they crossed over in arrears. Bohemians had practically all the play in the closing half, but, as stated, failed to find the net, while, in the few chances that their opponents had, they scored twice, Cowzer again netting from Fagan's centre and Fullam with a well-judged shot, which gave Cannon no chance of saving.

TRADES BOARD INQUIRY.

MERCHANT TAILORS' OBJECTION.

The draft order varying the Trade Board (Women's Clothing) Order, 1919, and the Trade Board (Hat, cap, and Millinery) Order, 1919, was the subject of an inquiry held at the offices of the Ministry for Industry and Commerce, Lord Edward street, on Saturday last.

Mr. Maguire, B.L., appeared for the Ministry for Industry and Commerce. Messrs. A. and L. Goodbody, solicitors, appeared for the Merchant Tailors' Association, who objected to the proposed order. Miss J. Berkeley and Miss M. A. Baker represented the Amalgamated Society of Tailors and Tailoresses and Dressmakers. Mr. Cecil H. Mumford represented the Ladies' Tailors (unassociated).

Mr. C. W. Pearson (of the Merchant Tailors' Association) said that women were generally employed on piece work. In tailor-made costumes men generally made the coats, and women made the skirts.

INTERCHANGEABILITY OF WORK.

Mr. Goodbody said that the objection of the Association which he represented was that their workers were principally concerned with men's clothing.

A very small part of their work was done by their workmen on women's garments. He submitted that where that was proved to the Commissioner's satisfaction, it was unreasonable and unnecessary that these workers, who for a very small fraction of their time worked on women's garments, should be brought under this order more especially if the Retail Bespoke Tailoring Board which covered the bulk of this work was abolished.

The Commissioner—Your objection is as regards interchangeability of work?

Mr. Goodbody—Yes.

Mr. Maguire addressed the Commissioner, and submitted that the objection raised by the Merchant Tailors' Association was valueless, and that there was no evidence to justify the Commissioner in turning down the proposed order of the Ministry.

This concluded the inquiry; and on the motion of Mr. Maguire, seconded by Mr. Goodbody, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Dickie for the courtesy and consideration which he had extended to all concerned throughout the inquiry.

The Commissioner suitably replied

LABOUR AND COMMUNIST UNITY.

DEFENCE OF FREE SPEECH.

Addressing a Labour meeting at Shettleston, Glasgow, last night, Mr. Robert Smillie said that Independent Labour and Communists had different methods and principles, but both should unite in the defence of free speech. It was not necessary to take the same action in this country as in Russia, but the Government was afraid of Russian propaganda for economic freedom. In this country he felt they could bring about all they desired by exercising the franchise, unless the Government drove them to use the same weapons as in Russia.

TRADES BOARD (TAILORING) ORDER.

Mr. J. H. Daniels, President of the Irish Merchant Tailors' Association, writes:—

Your report in Friday's Irish Times, with reference to my evidence on sweating, states:—

"There was no sweating in the trade as far as the employers were concerned; but, owing to the irregularities of the workers—sometimes they may not come in to work at all on Mondays and Tuesdays—they had free access to the workshops, and they would come in and sweat themselves to make up the week's pay on Saturday." This, though accurate, is not complete. In my evidence I made it plain that this state of affairs existed only in past years, and does not refer to the present-day tailor.

HOCKEY.

RAILWAY UNION LEAD.

GOOD RECOVERY BY KINGSTOWN G.S.

The rain of the first few days of the week made the grounds slow and heavy on Saturday, but, in spite of a sharp shower early on, the afternoon turned out well, and all the Leagues were advanced a stage. In the senior division Railway Union take the lead, having disposed of Dublin University by 2 goals to 1 in the College Park. Playing at home, Three Rock Rovers proved too good for Monkstown, and, leading 1-0 at half-time, wound up with win on a 3-1 score. At Tivoli terrace the meeting of Kingstown Grammar School and Pembroke resulted in a draw of 3 all. The latter led by 3 clear goals at the interval, but the School rallied strongly on change of ends.

RAILWAY UNION (2) V. DUBLIN UNIVERSITY (1).

In the College Park on Saturday there was very little between two keen teams all through a fast game, and it was only the greater experience of Railway Union that brought them out winners by 2 goals to 1. A goal down at half-time, play was in progress a full fifty minutes before the equalising goal came from V. Sully's stick, and what proved to be the winning goal was scored by the same player a few minutes later, following a penalty corner.

Throughout the opening half it was attack and counter-attack, with the respective defences holding the upper hand. Both goals were under pressure, and Vanston and Leopold cleared well more than once, and the net result of a fast "35" was the goal scored by G. F. West midway through. During this period the Railway forwards did not enjoy the best of luck. Once V. Sully hit the post with a fast drive from a short corner, and at least twice C. Sully was only just wide with good shots. The home forwards also had chances in addition to their one goal, but their shooting was not quick enough.

For a full fifteen minutes of the second half play ran on much the same lines, but the Railway forwards were now better together, and only the sturdy defence of halves and fulls held them out. C. Sully was responsible for the movement which led up to the equalising goal, and the pass with which he wound up a typical break through found his brother unmarked. Once on terms, the visitors did better, and dashing forward work had the defence in difficulties. An infringement gave Railway a penalty corner, from which V. Sully scored his second with a fast drive, which found the back of the net, high up. The balance of the game was very evenly fought, but neither side succeeded in pressing home their attacks, and the final whistle found the score unaltered.

Chief credit for an interesting match must be given to the half-back lines. Neither one or other gave anything away, and sharp tackling held the opposing forwards very steadily. The full backs also were well on their game, and except for a short period after the interval, when there was a tendency to wild hitting, their clearing was good and accurately placed. Forward, the winners were not convincing up to the interval. There was a lack of that crisp accuracy usually shown by the three insides, but they were up against a very resolute half-back line. The home forwards have come on since the season opened, and should develop into a very useful line. There is not enough dash at the moment, the shooting is poor, and at least two of the members depend too much on one-handed work. Teams:—

Dublin University—D. Vanston; G. N. Kelly, W. A. Packham; B. J. Daly, W. L. Connell (capt.), J. P. Pigot; J. R. Peacocke, J. G. Wilson, G. F. West, A. T. Williams, J. R. Keyms.

Railway Union—W. Leopold; M. O'Donoghue, K. Downey; J. Peatt, W. Chiddick (capt.), J. Ryan; T. Browner, C. Sully, H. Sully, V. Sully, P. Gillespie.

Umpires—Messrs W. F. McDonnell and C. S. Waugh.

KINGSTOWN G.S. (3) V. PEMBROKE WANDERERS (3).

Kingstown Grammar School were rather lucky to share points with Pembroke Wanderers in their Senior League match at Tivoli terrace on Saturday. The conditions overhead were favourable, but the ground was soft. The Wanderers have improved a great deal since last season, and although on Saturday they were playing three substitutes they very often had the Grammar School defence in difficulties.

In the first period the visitors were continually in the home half, and only hard hitting by E. J. Devlin, E. S. Phillips and R. E. Felton kept the score down to three goals. The first came after ten minutes' play. Following a clever movement on the right Martin found the net. Immediately afterwards Hall broke through and scored. After this the visitors simply swarmed round the Kingstown goal, and rained in shots, but Gibson was not beaten till ten minutes from the interval, when Martin scored following a penalty corner. For the last ten minutes of the half Grammar School played up well, and twice were within an ace of scoring, but the teams changed over with the score three-nil in favour of the visitors.

The second period looked like being a repetition of the first, but the School soon found their form, and with long passing movements got to the visitors' end, and after twelve minutes' play Maguire rushed through to score for the home team. Kingstown continued to press strongly, and for a time had the visitors bustled, and ten minutes after the first goal Winder added another. Play was very even for a time, but just before the end Kingstown made a great effort, and Maguire scored rather easily. Pembroke tried hard to get full points in the remaining minutes, but the defence held out until the final whistle. Teams:—

Kingstown G.S.—C. W. Gibson; E. S. Phillips, E. J. Devlin; J. C. Rutherford, R. E. Felton (capt.), H. Moore; T. Staples, W. C. Ritchie, E. Maguire, E. Winder, I. Varian.

Pembroke Wanderers—F. Hannon; E. E. Spence, E. O'Sullivan, H. Buttimere, C. J. Little (capt.), G. D. Clancy; A. F. Hall, R. P. Martin, J. Cuthbert, W. Buttimere, J. A. Stanistreet.

Umpires—Messrs. D. J. Coulter and I. Bowe.

THREE ROCK ROVERS (3) V. MONKSTOWN (1).

Monkstown made a good bid for the points in their match with Three Rock Rovers at Foxrock, but the forwards were in bad scoring form. They could not have been better served by a defence—of whom Morrison, Darcus and Delamere were the pick—but in the circle their efforts failed. Three Rock Rovers fielded a very strong side, the inclusion of F. M. Eager at centre making a strong and fast combination in attack, while in defence H. J. Brown, Luke and Huet were sound, and started some nice movements. Rovers may be said to have played a three-backs game, as Pilkington, who wore no pads, played out and only dropped back to the goal when necessary.

The opening exchanges favoured the home team, and Eyre placed well for Medcalf, who, however, shot wide. Immediately afterwards the latter had better luck and sent past Fenton. Monkstown then attacked, Legge making a good run, but the ball went out. From the bully Mahony got away, and Rovers were awarded three corners, which were cleared. Eager and Medcalf brought the play back again, and Boyd shot across the goal. Fenton had a busy time at this period, and saved from Eager, Eyre, Mahony and Medcalf in turn, and the interval came without further score.

On resuming, Rovers again attacked, but Darcus cleared well, and from a free hit in the home "25" Morrison sent to Legge, who equalised. Morrison later ran through on his own, but his shot went wide. Half-way through this half Medcalf beat the visitors' defence, and scored again as Fenton ran out to clear. Monkstown strove hard to again equalise, and twice Legge shot wide from corners. A penalty corner at the other end resulted in Medcalf netting his third goal. Rovers continued to press to the end, but no further score resulted. Teams:—

Three Rock Rovers—G. K. Pilkington; J. H. Tuke, H. J. Brown; R. Brown, C. Blair White, A. Huet; J. Eyre, J. F. Mahony, F. M. Eager, N. Medcalf, G. A. Boyd.

Monkstown—A. Fenton; V. G. Williams, G. Darcus; W. F. Williams, W. Morrison, W. P. Delamere; A. Craig, E. Gray, H. Legge, R. Towers (capt.), A. G. Coatts.

Umpires—Messrs. J. S. Jackson and A. E. Cairns.

FUNERAL OF LINER CAPTAIN.

Moving scenes were witnessed at the funeral at Bebington Cemetery, near Birkenhead, last Saturday, of Captain A. H. Clews, who met his death in the Canadian Pacific liner Melita in tragic circumstances. Every house in Allcot avenue, where the dead commander lived, had its blinds drawn. The coffin was completely covered with wreaths, and a private car with floral tokens, many in the shape of ship's anchors, and one in the form of a ship's wheel, preceded the procession. The hearse was shrouded in the Red Ensign of the Mercantile Marine.

On arrival at the cemetery an escort was formed of officers, engineers and stewards of the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm, under the command of Chief Officer Hague, and six seamen of the same vessel acted as bearers.
